1,800 FIRE BUILDINGS IN RIOT AT JOLIET

7 SHIPS FIGHT FLOES TO SAVE 118 SURVIVORS

Viking Rescuers Relate Pitiful Condition of Isolated Men.

5-MILE ICE BARRIER, GALE OBSTRUCT HELP

Frissell Is Still Missing; Boats Pick Up Nine at Disaster Scene.

St. Johns, New Foundland, March 18 (A.P.).—Seven stout ships of the far north poked their noses against an enormous ice barrier today, trying in vain to carry aid to tiny La Barbe Island, over which hovered a threat of starvation and death.

On the island, without medical aid or proper food supplies, huddled 118 survivors of the explosion that sank the sealer Viking Sunday in White Bay, New Foundland.

Aboard two of the rescue ships were six other survivors. Some of them were in agony from injuries and all of them faint from exposure to the cold.

Barrier of 5 Miles.

Roaming the murky waters of the bay in an attempt to find or break a crevasse in an ice barrier 5 miles wide, the sealers Eagle and Neptune came upon a mass of charred wreckage, timbers and clothing floating amid the icy cakes. That was the spot where the Viking, carrying a party of American movie men, was rent asunder, probably by an explosion of blasting powder.

From the debris the rescuers plcked a shattered body, nameless and frozen stiff. It was the first recovered of a score feared dead.

The best available information early tonight from all sources gave the following tally:

Rescue, 124.
Dead, 1.
Missing, 19.

In the event the vessel carried more than its recorded complement of 144, the missing list would be swelled accordingly. The number on board has been reported from that figure up to 153.

Frissell Still Missing.

Among those still to be accounted for are Varick Frissell, young New Yorker, who went North to film the romantic sealing industry on its home grounds; Alexander G. Penrod, New York cameraman; Dr. Roach, ship's doctor; three engineers, six firemen, seven sealers and one stowaway.

This forenoon the sealing ship Beothic picked up a dory in which three men had ridden the waves since the blast cast them adrift. They were W. G. Johnson, master watch; Alfred Hean, second hand, and Fred Best, helper in the movie party.

All were slightly injured but came through the experience surprisingly well. Three others, including Harry Sargent, explorer-actor and companion of Frissell, were picked up on drifting wreckage yesterday.

Steel Ships Needed.

The seriousness of conditions on La Barbe (or Horse) Island was emphasized when the Government stopped all press and private mes-

Calvin Coolidge Says:

Springtime is advancing up the valley and slopes of the Northern hills where old-time country life still lingers. The end of the work of the winter is revealed in the accumulated woodpile in the yard. The mounting sun has started a new earth movement in preparation for another seed time. Hope is returning.

The sugar season is opening. It is time to bring out the sap and the great pans. In the early morning the long sled, drawn by the strong, steady oxen, will break out the road into the sugar lot. The maple trees will be tapped, the spouts set and the buckets hung. The dropping sap will make pleasant music, mingling with the cry of the blue jays and the complaining of the squirrels.

After noon the gathering of the sap begins. The great fire roars in the arch. The sap dancing in the pan sends clouds of steam to the tree tops. The air will be filled with the incomparable flavor of new maple sirup in assurance that the earth is again pouring forth her first seasonal bounty. Those who once lived among these scenes of the awakening of nature can not but find themselves awakened and transformed.

U. S. EMPLOYES WIN IN MITCHELL RULING

Half Holiday on Saturday Should Not Be Listed as Full Day, Is Opinion.

President Hoover's recent dictum that order should be brought out of chaos of varying interpretations by department heads of the new Saturday half-holiday law found answer yesterday in a ruling by Attorney General Mitchell which placed the eagle of victory on the banner of the employes.

Employes taking the Saturday half-holiday off as a part of their annual leave shall be charged with but four hours' leave and shall not be charged with a full day's leave, as Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and one or two other department or bureau heads had ruled, Attorney General Mitchell said in his opinion.

Employes taking the Saturday half-holiday off on sick leave shall be charged with a full day, the Attorney General said. There was no loss in that, and he had been expected to make such a ruling because that always has been the practice in the past. Strange as it may seem to the uninitiated, a sick employe of the Government even is charged with a day's absence when ill over Sunday, the theory being that an annual employe is supposed to be available every day in the year.

Elated with their victory in the opinion of the Attorney General sustaining their contention, Luther C. Steward, president, and Gertrude McNally, secretary-treasurer of the National Federation of Federal Employes, made public a statement congratulating the Attorney General and forthwith started preparing for passage by

MOTORMAN IS SHOT THWARTING HOLDUP

Robbery Attemped by Two Youths at Door of Car; Suspected Arrested.

James H. Lane, 42, a motorman of the Congress Heights trolley line, was shot in the abdomen last night while frustrating an attempted hold-up by two young white men at Trenton place and Nichols avenue southeast.

Lane had just completed a run to the District line and was returning northward when the two young bandits signaled his car at Trenton place. As he opened the door, one of them wearing a black sweater, said: "Stick 'em up."

Lane replied: "The hell with you."

He grabbed the one wearing the black sweater, and the gun was discharged, sending a bullet into the right side of his abdomen.

Lena Butler, colored, of 2341 Pomeroy road, the only passenger on the car, said that only one of the men stepped to the front platform of the car. She heard a shot, and the motorman jumped from the car and collapsed on the ground.

Carl F. Colton, of 2907 Naylor road southeast, placed Lane in his automobile and took him to St. Elizabeths Hospital, where he was given emergency treatment before his removal to Casualty Hospital.

On the way to Casualty, Lane told Private H. L. Jacobs, of the Eleventh Precinct, that one of the men remained on the lower step of the car, while the other pointed the gun at him. After the shot they ran across the farm of St. Elizabeths Hospital, where their footprints were easily discernible in the soft clay.

FLAG CONTEST FOR ESSAYS IS OPENED TODAY

All School Boys and Girls, 14 to 18, Eligible for European Trip.

TWO ENVOYS WILL BE CHOSEN FOR TOUR

Application Blanks May Be Obtained at Offices of Principals.

Today marks the official opening of the contest to decide what Washington boy and girl, students at the public or private high schools of the city and whose ages are between 14 and 18, shall be selected as "Envoy of Friendship" for the free European trip sponsored by the United States Flag Association. Application blanks are in the hands of the principals of all the high schools, junior and senior, in the city, and if the mass of inquiries received by the Flag Association and The Washington Post within the past few days is any criterion, the school heads are going to be unusually busy today.

Full instructions are printed on the application blanks. Any boy or girl who is a student at any senior or junior high school, public or private, and whose age, more than 14, will not be more than 18 on Flag Day this year, is eligible for the trip. The two "Envoys" selected will not be put to a penny of expense.

Each entrant will be required to write an essay, not to exceed 300 words. The boys will write on "The Typical American Boy" and the girls will write on "The Typical American Girl." These essays will be graded by experts, most of them teachers in the public or private schools of the city, who have volunteered for this patriotic work, and from these grades one boy and one girl from each school will be selected. These boys and girls, in turn, will face an oral quiz on April 11, and a final test on April 18, when the names of the two "Envoys" selected will be announced.

To See Exposition.

In addition to being received by either the King or the Prince of Wales in London, and participating in a children's good will mass meeting where they will meet thousands of English children of like age, the "envoys" will reach Paris just at the time when the Interantional Colonial and Oversees Exposition is in full swing, and their mass meeting with the French children will be held on the exposition grounds. Countries from all parts of the globe will have exhibits at this exposition. The "envoys" will be proud of the exhibits arranged by their own United States, showing the diversity of the products and people produced under the protection of the Stars and Stripes.

WHOLEAN ADOPTION NO BARRIER TO SUIT

Mrs. Henderson's Gift of $300,000 Held Pertinent to Action.

Justice Jesse C. Adkins, in District Supreme Court yesterday declared, in effect, that the fact that Mrs. Beatrice Henderson Wholean was adopted when a foundling had no bearing on her right to sue to prevent Mrs. Mary F. Henderson from giving to the Government a costly home for the use of the Vice President of the United States.

At the same time, the Justice ruled that Mrs. Henderson's action in giving Mrs. Wholean $300,000 several years ago, was pertinent to the suit and was a proper statement in the wealthy dowager's reply to Mrs. Wholean's suit.

Attorneys for Mrs. Wholean asked that two paragraphs of Mrs. Henderson's reply to the Wholean suit be stricken out. The first paragraph in dispute in the Henderson reply related to the adoption of Mrs. Wholean, upon which Justice Adkins ruled adversely, ordering that it be stricken from the reply. The second paragraph related to the $300,000 gift made to Mrs. Wholean by Mrs. Henderson, and upon which the Justice ruled favorably; that is, he allowed the item to be included in the answer.

The Henderson-Wholean suit arose several weeks ago. Society was startled to read of a suit by Mrs. Wholean to balk Mrs. Henderson, her supposed grandmother, in her attempt to give away a costly residence.

Mrs. Henderson retaliated with the information that Mrs. Wholean was

Quelling of Convicts Told by Eyewitness

Reporter Within Illinois Penitentiary Sees Warden Hill and Police Subdue Hundreds of Yelling and Furious Rioters.

The following eyewitness account of Wednesday's riot and fire at Stateville Prison was written by William M. Hart, reporter for the Joliet Herald-News, who was within the prison walls during the mutiny.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Illinois Penitentiary, Stateville, Ill., March 18 (A.P.).—I rushed to the Illinois State Penitentiary today, when convicts rioted and set fire to several buildings, with the first detail of Joliet police. When we arrived there were some 20 guards and State highway police congregated in the hallway of the new administration building.

Outside of the building some 1,600 convicts were hooting, jeering and cursing. The building was virtually a besieged fortress. No more than a minute after I got there, Warden Henry C. Hill arrived from his quarters at the old prison, 5 miles away. As he came in the door we welcomed him as the director of the emergency activities. At the same moment Chaplain Eligius Weir came running from the other end of the hallway.

"Some men are in a furious condition," he said. "There are 1,600 of them out there and they are going mad."

The warden turned to the detail of Joliet police, State highway police and prison guards congregated in the hallway and said:

"Have you fellows got your guns ready? Are you willing to go out there and take that crowd?"

The chorus was "yes."

"Come on, let's go," said the warden, and he led the small group of men into the yard by this time liter-

Mal S. Daugherty Is Given 10 Years

Convicted in Bank Case; Must Pay $5,000; Appeal Limit Set.

Washington Courthouse, Ohio, March 18 (A.P.).—Convicted of abstracting funds from the defunct Ohio State Bank while he was its president, Mal S. Daugherty, brother of Harry M. Daugherty, Attorney General under President Warren G. Harding, today was sentenced to spend ten years in the Ohio Penitentiary and pay a fine of $5,000 and the cost of prosecution.

After Judge Bell overruled a motion for new trial and passed sentence, counsel for Daugherty was granted 20 days to take the case to the appeals court.

Commenting on the verdict, Judge Bell said it was warranted by the weight of the evidence. Fifteen of sixteen remaining indictments against Daugherty were nolle prossed. He will not be tried on the remaining two unless his first conviction is reversed.

Baltimore Man and Sister Claim Kin and Enter Fight for Millions.

Baltimore, Md., March 18 (A.P.).—August Soop, a handy man at a theater here, and his sister, Jennie, laid plans today to try to obtain several millions of the $200,000,000 estate left by Miss Ella Wendel, New York's richest spinster.

The Soops, August said, were distant relatives of Miss Wendel, last of her line. Less than two years ago, he said, he and his sister were guests of the recluse for several days at the Fifth avenue mansion where electricity never supplanted gas.

The retained a lawyer today to add their claim to the number already filed in New York.

Soop said he thought he had a legitimate claim to from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 of the estate left by the aged woman who hewed to the line of her grandfather's admonition to "buy New York real estate but never sell it."

NEW UPRISING HALTED AFTER ONE MAD HOUR

$300,000 IS DAMAGE TO FIVE STRUCTURES

Revolt Begins in Chair Factory When Men Attack 3 Guards.

2 BROTHERS NAMED AS LEADERS OF PLOT

Shots and Tear Gas Bombs Combine in Driving Mob Back Into Cells.

Joliet, Ill., March 18 (A.P.).—Flaming riot held sway in the new Stateville Penitentiary for one mad hour today.

The short-lived mutiny by 1,800 howling convicts, the volcanic climax to a week of stifled rebellion, ended with five buildings prey to fire and three mutineers wounded. Damage was estimated at $300,000.

The cowed remainder were safely in their cells when the first company of State Militia marched through the prison gate at 3:20 p. m.

Surging into a furious start in the prison chair factory, the revolt spread until nearly every convict out of his cell had joined to widen destruction.

Before 3 p. m. Warden Henry C. Hill and prison guards had subdued the rioters and by 3:30 firemen from Joliet had curbed the licking flames.

Outside the walls a cordon of highway patrolmen and city police kept guard against escapes, and a hurried count of prisoners showed all were safely inside.

Second Within Week.

The second major uprising in a week, amplified duplicate of a rebellion at the old State Prison across the town, had its inception among 180 convicts in the chair factory.

As if by prearrangement they left their machinery, pounced on three guards, lit torches of inflammable material and rushed howling into the yard.

From adjoining structures convicts poured out, seized torches and applied them quickly to the laundry, the shoe and carpenter shop, the garage and the dining rooms.

Then, almost hidden in the billowing smoke, they gathered in the open yard.

Caught up in the turmoil, the Rev. Eligius Weir, Catholic chaplain, pleaded for a respite. The convicts answered him with hoots and cries of "we want a new parole board! Change the parole board!"

Jeers Answer Warden.

Warden Henry C Hill was in his office across town when first word of the uprising reached him. He rushed to Stateville, walked unarmed into the yard and ordered:

"Back to your cells, boys!" A chorus of jeers was his answer.

Behind him were gathering armed guards from the outer walls. He gave a crisp order, and two shots crackled above the convicts' heads. No one moved.

"Boys," he said, "get back or you'll be shot."

Then the guards fired into the mass of elbowing men, three of them fell—Edward Devaney, shot in the head; Raymond Barney, shot in the stomach, and Michael Farrare, in the arm. Barney probably will die. Other guards exploded tear gas bombs, and

Dr. Learned Chosen To Fill Carusi Berth

Mrs. Philip S. Smith Is Elected With Historian as Vice President of Education Board; Terms to Expire June 30.

Dr. Henry Barrett Learned, educator and historian, was elected president of the Board of Education yesterday to complete the unexpired term of Dr. Charles F. Carusi, who died in February. Mrs. Philip Sydney Smith was elected vice president. Both terms expire June 30 of this year.

Dr. Learned has been serving as acting president since the death of Dr. Carusi. In accepting the office of president Dr. Learned paid high tribute to Dr. Carusi and the latter's work. "I can not equal him," Dr. Learned said, "but I will do my best."

Daniel C. Roper, newly appointed member of the board, was formally sworn into office. Mr. Roper, an attorney and former commissioner of internal revenue, was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. Carusi.

Members of the board received copies of the interpretation of the law governing the admission of nonresident pupils as given by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride. The board, under the interpretation of the law by the corporation counsel, can use its judgment in admitting nonresidents. Previously the board interpreted the law to mean that nonresident children whose parents work for either the Federal or District governments must be admitted without paying tuition.

On the request of School Superintendent Frank W. Ballou, the board instructed the legislative committee to formulate a law giving the superintendent the right to make appointments. This law will be presented to the next Congress.

Under the present law, as interpreted by the Comptroller General, the Board of Education must make the appointment. Dr. Ballou points out that it is necessary to make an appointment immediately after the death of a teacher or any other school employe. In these cases the new appointee are not paid for the time between their appointment and the confirmation of their appointments by the board.

Disregarding a request of Acting Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills that the board appoint Maj. R. O. Wilmarth, school finance officer, on the General Supply Committee, the appointment was given to Jere J. Crane, school superintendent of business affairs.

In a letter to the District Commissioners, Mr. Mills asked that the Board of Education be requested to appoint Maj. Wilmarth "in place of" Mr. Crane.

President and Party Start On Trip to Caribbean Sea

Hoover Will Board Dreadnaught Arizona This Morning at Old Point Comfort; 30 Officials and Newspapermen Accompany Chief Executive.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Aboard the Hoover Train, En Route to Old Point Comfort, Va., March 18. President Hoover is headed South tonight, bound for the salubrious Caribbean.

Upon his arrival at Old Point Comfort early tomorrow morning, the President and his party will board the dreadnaught Arizona, which will proceed to Porto Rico and thence to the Virgin Islands. The trip will consume twelve days.

President Hoover, who is accompanied by 30 officials and newspapermen, left Washington at 11 o'clock tonight, after a day devoted to conferences with Cabinet officers and other White House visitors.

The President is taking along the medicine ball, which he uses to condition himself at the White House, and it so happens that most of the members of his medicine ball cabinet are along, too.

With him are Secretary of War Patrick Jay Hurley, whose department has jurisdiction over Porto Rico; Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, whose department recently took over the Virgin Islands; Lawrence Richey, one of the President's secretaries; Mark Sullivan, political writer; Col. Campbell B. Hodges, military aid; Capt. Russell Train, naval aid, and Capt. Joel T. Boone, the President's physician.

Youth Apologizes in Holdup Of Shop Near White House

MISS INEZ WANTZ

Robbery Occurs at Peak of Evening Rush Hour on Business Artery.

A dapper, brown-eyed young gunman, who nervously expressed regret that he was forced to commit a crime, early last night held up the Howard's Odorless Cleaners establishment at 1749 Pennsylvania avenue and escaped with $20 in bills. He overlooked, in his haste to escape, some small change and a few bills which were hidden in paper under the cash register.

The scene of the holdup is little more than a block from the White House. At the time it took place Pennsylvania avenue is a heavily traveled thoroughfare. There was a traffic policeman at Seventeenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, less than half a block away, but the thing as the acrid fumes spread, the other convicts hastened to their cells.

Then the prison gates were opened to admit the Joliet Fire Department.

Had Two Forerunners.

The stifled revolt, spreading to Stateville by the mysterious prison "grapevine," had two forerunners which kept officials on the alert. One was the discovery of a miniature armory in the cell of a lifer. The other was a free-for-all fight among seventeen members of the band yesterday on the question whether to start a riot. Five men were injured.

The stone and brick prison, acclaimed as one of the finest in the United States, had been under augmented guard since the first hint of unrest reached officials. Heavily armed guards were on the walls as the flames and disorder broke out, but they held their fire as smoke blinded them.

"It's no use, boys," the chaplain had pleaded with the jostling men. "You can't do anything. You're just spoiling your chances." But, he said later, they paid no attention to him.

Four companies of National Guardsmen were picketed tonight within the walls. One from Joliet marched in at 3:20 p. m., and others from Kankakee, Aurora and Plantville quickly followed.

Hundreds of Police Recruited.

Hundreds of State police were recruited from surrounding towns.

Scores of highway and city police surrounded the prison, guarding against any escape.

The beaten guards, J. B. Book, D. E. Schaffer and Arthur Buckingham, suffered no serious injuries and after emergency treatment returned to duty.

One newspaperman who managed to get within the prison walls saw 50 guards charge into a mob of 100 rioting convicts, tossing tear-gas bombs before them and driving the prisoners into their cells.

Nathan Leopold, who, with Richard Loeb, slew Bobby Franks seven years ago, was on his way in a bus from the old to the new prison when the outbreak started, but he and 29 other convicts were hustled back.

Deputy Warden Frank Kness named Albert and George Reinhart, brothers, as ringleaders in the plot to fire the prison. Sentenced in 1927 from Cook County on robbery charges, they attempted a year or so ago to escape by tunneling through the walls and since then were in solitary confinement most of the time. They were known to have plotted an uprising once before, Kness said.

Termed One of Finest.

The Stateville Prison was acclaimed one of the world's finest penal institutions when completed, about seven years ago. Its four cheesebox cellhouses are grouped about a central circular dining hall, connected by covered passageways. It was constructed of concrete and stone blocks and was regarded as thoroughly fireproof.

It surmounts a high bluff flanking the Illinois River three miles north of Joliet. Its construction began after a legislative provision of 1906, but lagged, and the prison was completed seven years ago.

It was built to house 2,000 prisoners, but Col. Frank D. Whipp, State superintendent of prisons, reported recently both old and new penitentiaries were 40 per cent overcrowded.

The 67-acre prison area is surrounded by 22-foot walls.

Both Are Overcrowded.

The old State prison, where two convicts were killed and two wounded last Saturday, is 5 miles across the town from Stateville. Both prisons, Warden Hill has said, are overcrowded. He attributed the disturbances to this overcrowding and the resentment against parole board procedure.

Though many escapes and sporadic fatal clashes between guards and prisoners had marked the twin Joliet Penitentiaries, the uprisings Saturday and today went down as only the second and third riots in State penal history.

Fourteen years ago, convicts in the old prison ran wild in much the same manner as today, scattering flaming destruction through the antiquated buildings.

Objection to Board.

The Saturday revolt, however, had its inception in a series of happenings. One was a growing objection to parole board procedure. Another—and the spark which touched off the tinder box of revolt—was the killing of three prisoners who dropped from the prison wall February 22 into an ambush of guards. A third was the death of a convict in "solitary" from a blood clot on the brain. In both the killing and the convict's death, prison officials were absolved but the spirit of mutiny spread.

At noon Saturday, 1,100 convicts rushed from the dining hall and smashed the prison shops, dining hall and kitchen in an hour's rioting. Two were killed by a sharpshooting guard on the wall. Two others were wounded.

The final chapter of the disturbances remains to be written by a special legislative committee, hastily appointed to delve into the underlying causes for dissension in the two prisons. Before today's riot burst out, plans had been made for a meeting Thursday at the old prison, to take testimony from prisoners, guards and State and local penal officials.

Congress at its next session a bill standardizing annual and sick leave in the Government service.

The leaders of the Government employes declared their complete confidence that the next session of Congress would see enactment of this measure and its signature by President Hoover.

The bill provides for 30 days annual leave and an annual sick leave of fifteen days. This measure would cut down the present annual sick leave of 30 days. But the bill also contains a provision that sick leave shall be cumulative up to 120 days. The purpose is to discourage employes abusing the sick leave provision, but to provide adequate sick leave for a faithful Government employe who has taken no sick leave over a period of years.

Under the present regulations entirely too much depends on the whims of minor Government officials and precedents set by various officials of more or less importance in various departments in the past. There is no uniformity in the treatment of either annual or sick leave under the present arrangement, Miss McNally said last night, adding that the chaotic and varying conditions and so-called privileges worked to the detriment of the Government as an employer rather than in the favor of Uncle Sam as a boss.

The opinion of the Justice Department was given by Solicitor General Thacher.

ROOSEVELT IS ASKED TO REMOVE WALKER

New York City Affairs Body Charges Encouragement of Corruption.

Albany, N. Y., March 18 (A.P.).—Removal of Mayor Walker of New York, on charges that he had "condoned incompetence" and "encouraged corruption" in ten specific instances, was asked of Gov. Roosevelt by the city affairs committee in a letter made public by the executive today.

The charges, appearing over the signatures of Dr. John Haynes Holmes, clergyman, and Rabbi Steven S. Wise, chairman and vice chairman of the committee, were vigorous in their denunciation of the mayor's administration of government. They spoke of the mayor's "easy procrastination," "gross betrayal of public duty," his failure to speak "one clear and earnest word of disapproval and denunciation of this orgy of corruption in one department" and alleged he not only declined to help the inquiry into magistrates' courts "but actually sought in every way to obstruct and even block its progress."

"Legally as well as morally," the letter said, "the mayor of New York is culpable for the corruption of his subordinates, the breakdown of his departments of government, the collapse of law and order, and the prevalence of low standards of public life under his administration."

The mayor, the letter charged, had brought the city's administration "into disrepute by daily neglect of the affairs of his office, by careless standards of public life and by complete indifference to the inefficiency and dishonesty of appointed subordinates."

The committee declared he had violated not only in spirit but in letter the section of the city charter under which he was charged to serve the people. A memorandum was attached to the letter purporting to bear out this charge.

Naval Pact Near, Stimson Is Told

Dawes, in Transatlantic Phone Message, Sees U.S. Aid Unnecessary.

(Associated Press.)

A transatlantic telephone conversation brought Secretary Stimson assurances yesterday that satisfactory progress was being made in Europe toward completing the Franco-Italian naval accord.

The Secretary talked for more than fifteen minutes with Charles G. Dawes, Ambassador to Great Britain and Senator Dwight W. Morrow, of New Jersey. After the conversation, the Secretary said it appeared that American participation on a committee to draft the Franco-Italian settlement would be unnecessary.

Suggestions presented to the British foreign office for the Secretary by Dawes and Morrow were believed here to have eliminated necessity of such action.

It was considered possible that the final draft might necessitate only the signatures of France and Italy. The question of British signature is still one for determination.

ally swarming with men, raging and cursing and pillaging.

Three men, including myself, were unarmed and the warden gave us orders to protect ourselves inside the building. However, I followed the detail down the corridor and out to the entrance to the prison yard. From that vantage point I watched the entire encounter, all the time keeping my eye on my surroundings to bar an attack on me.

I saw the detail of police with the warden in the lead walk soberly toward the main group of probably 500 or 600 convicts. I heard the warden tell them, "Get back to your cells or we'll fire."

The mob stopped and hurled curses at the warden and his detail, and one Negro convict attempted to seize the waning leadership of the mob in a counterattack on the guards.

"We'll take care of you," he said to the warden, and started forward, but a shot from one of the policemen at the warden's side and the Negro went down.

The other convicts weakened and the backbone of the riot was broken with the use of probably ten guns in the hands of guards and police. The warden did not use his gun, but led his detail in the shooting of tear bombs, which seemed mainly responsible for subduing the rioting men.

The shooting and din had been terrific here for two hours. The convicts were like so many maniacs. They cursed and screamed and ran about like animals, and to add to the wildness of the scene, flames were leaping skyward from a half dozen buildings inside the prison walls, shedding thick rolls of smoke and showering sparks.

The snow this morning had left the yard muddy and the men were sliding and falling about in the slime.

I have been an onlooker on three prison riots in the last ten years, but I have never seen one with the potential danger this one had at the beginning. Nor have I ever seen a warden with more courage and better judgment than Warden Hill showed in this emergency.

In my judgment, when Warden Hill with his detail charged the group of 600 convicts, the heart of the riot was shot through, and the control of the remaining convicts throughout the entire yard was a comparatively easy matter for the guards who were detailed to that work.

The guards went through every nook and cranny of the prison after the riot searching for hideouts, and I saw them bring them in by the dozen. I saw more than 50 or 60 men marched to solitary. From the cell's came hooting and jeering and cursing.

"The parole board, the parole board, the parole board done it," can be heard from every angle.

Skipper Abram Kean, jr., ghastly pale and ill from the loss of his ship and the harrowing experiences that followed, appealed for quick shipments of medical supplies and food. From the island, he sent a message declaring La Barbe's handful of women residents were exhausted from caring for the sick in cramped quarters. There are only five houses there and no doctor.

The Newfoundland government ordered several sealing ships, companions of the Viking, to make a supreme effort to break through. Failing this, men on the island prepared to attempt to cross the treacherous ice in an effort to obtain supplies from the ships.

"Ice Conditions Terrible."

"Ice conditions terrible. Steel boat trying to reach island. Conditions there must be very bad." Thus read a cryptic message from rescuers to Bowring Bros., owners of the Viking.

Sargent, who hails from Boston, radioed the Halifax minister of fisheries today he was in the best condition of the three men picked from floating spars by the rescue ship Sagona yesterday. One of his eyes was injured, he said, but otherwise he was feeling well.

The other two, Navigator W. Kennedy and Wireless Officer C. King were more severely hurt. King had a broken leg, frozen feet and was suffering from shock. Kennedy was in agony from burns on the head and face.

Static Impedes Messages.

The fury of cutting easterly gales prolonged the suspense with which the outside world awaited definite news of the disaster. The winds and static played havoc with communications systems and available wires were choked.

Bowring Bros. and relatives of the missing men refused to give up hope. They expressed belief that the weather in White Bay probably was not abnormally cold or rough and that other men might be picked up. The fate of a group of five men which the Boethic had reported sighting on an ice floe was undetermined, since messages were not clear as to whether they had been rescued.

Among the missing was a boy of 12, Edward Cronin, of St. Johns, who crept secretly aboard the Viking when it left for the North. The only other stowaway reached La Barbe.

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—Bowring Brothers, Ltd., operators of the sealer Viking, tonight announced receipt of the following message from their St. Johns, Newfoundland, representative:

"(Harry) Sargent advises was sitting at table with (Varick) Frissell and (A. G.) Penrod when explosion occurred. Did not see them after explosion."

(Associated Press.)

The State Department yesterday instructed the American Consulate at St. John's, New Brunswick, to ascertain for the American Red Cross if additional facilities were needed in the search for survivors of the sealing ship Viking.

The family of Henry Jackson Sargent, an American rescued Tuesday night off the ice floes by a ship bearing physicians and nurses, also has offered additional facilities.

The consulate reported the rescue of Sargent to the Department yesterday.

FLAG ESSAY CONTEST OPENS TODAY FOR EUROPEAN TRIP

gether with the manifold products of these hot, southern terrtiories, and people and products from every State in the Union will go to make up an exposition within an exposition of which the Americans can be justly proud. In addition they will have the honor of being received by C. Bascom Slemp, United States Commissioner General to this great international exposition.

The pilgrimage of the "Envoys of Friendship," while furnishing a wonderful experience for the fortunate winners, is designed, according to Col. James A. Moss, who conceived the project, to have a far-reaching effect on the prevention of future wars. Col. Moss believes that the building up of a spirit of friendship among the youth of the world today, who are to be the world leaders of tomorrow, will go far toward sending them to the conference table instead of to the battlefield for the settlement of future difficulties.

Moss' Service Praised.

Officials of the United States Flag Association yesterday called attention to the service rendered to the Flag Association by Col. Moss, who succeeded Elihu Root as head of the association when, a few years ago, Mr. Root because of advancing age withdrew from all organizations with which he was connected. It was Col. Moss who organized the Flag Association seven years ago. He has served for that entire period without salary and, in addition, has contributed generously of his personal funds to the work of the association.

A graduate of West Point and a veteran of three wars, Col. Moss has had an opportunity to learn at first hand of the horrors of war, and to see the futility of attempting to solve world problems through the slaughter of thousands of men. Seeking a cure, he conceived the idea of educating the childhood of the earth in world friendship based on rational patriotism.

In order that the finest possible representatives of American youth be selected to represent this country in the inauguration of this great movement, it was decided to hold contests in various cities, selecting one boy and one girl from the junior and senior high schools, and basing the selection on high moral character, manifest intelligence, sound health, good personality and satisfactory scholastic standing. In specifying these qualifications the officials of the Flag Association believe that they will be selecting potential leaders of the future, whose words will bear decided weight in arranging conferences instead of war.

Read Post Daily.

Students interested in the contest can keep in touch with every detail by daily reading The Washington Post. Every feature of the contest will be outlined from time to time in this publication, which has undertaken this task as a part of its community service.

Application blanks are self-explanatory. Instructions have been carefully prepared so that the student who possesses sufficient intelligence to win one of the trips will have no difficulty in understanding what is desired. The first test, the writing of the essay, will decide what girls and boys are to receive the "Old Glory" medal, giving them life membership in "The Order of the Flag" and a chance at the finals. The two winners will receive the "Cross of Honor" of the United States Flag Association, Col. Charles Lindbergh being the first man to receive this medal, which has also been awarded to former President Calvin A. Coolidge in recognition of the assistance he rendered the Flag Association in his capacity as honorary president general while President of the United States.

Once again, watch The Post for details.

Aviator Is Wanted For Rescue Flight

Roosevelt Field Fliers Say Trip to White Bay Is Hazardous.

Roosevelt Field, Long Island, March 18 (U.P.).—Seth Low, New York broker and chairman of the board of Roosevelt Field, Inc., said tonight that he will try to get a pilot to take an airplane into the White Bay district to search for survivors of the sealing ship Viking.

Other officials of the Roosevelt Field company have placed a ban on any company plane taking off for the White Bay district. Relatives of one of the missing men, Low said, have appealed to him for a search, and he intends to do all in his power to send a ship to the scene of the disaster.

Aviators at Roosevelt Field, questioned about Low's plan, said that the flight north would be extremely hazardous.

4 STATES ANNOUNCE GIRLS FOR FESTIVAL

Governors Name Princesses to Attend Apple Fete at Winchester.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., March 18.—The governors of Kentucky, Connecticut and North Carolina today joined the governor of South Carolina in naming princesses to represent their States at the Eighth Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival, which will be held in Winchester about the first week in May this year.

"Miss North Carolina" will be Miss Harriett Holderness, of Salem College, at Winston-Salem, Gov. O Max Gardner has just notified Mr. Richards. Gov. Wilbur L. Cross, of Connecticut, named Miss Mary Hayes Griffin, of East Granby, to be "Miss Connecticut," while Miss Numia Lee Fouts, of Boyd Hall, University of Kentucky, at Lexington, was named by Gov. Flem D. Sampson to uphold the honors of "Miss Kentucky."

The first princess to be named was announced last week, when Gov. Blackwood, of South Carolina, named Miss Louise Bryson, of Columbia, S. C.

To the list of princesses has recently been added Miss Elsie Schmelz Collier, of Norfolk, who was named by Representative Menalcus Lankford to represent the Second Congressional District of Virginia.

Nelson F. Richards, director general of the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival, today named Fred A. Reid, jr., and Grover H. Schlack as co-directors of the two great festival parades, which promise this year to be greater than ever before.

8 of Council Named By Citizens Association

Eight of the twelve delegates of the Federation of Citizens Associations have already been nominated for the Citizens Advisory Council, it was announced yesterday. The other four are to be named on Saturday night, while six of the nominees are to be elected by the federation on April 4.

The nominees and the associations sponsoring them are L. A. Carruthers, FoFrest Hills; Dr. George R. Ellis, Brookland and Burroughs; Edwin S. Hege, Chevy Chase; C. G. Hutgren, Congress Heights; Graham H. Powell, Cathedral Heights-Cleveland Park; Mrs. E. C. Rittue, Conduit Road; Charles I. Stengle, Petworth, and John Walker, Takoma Park.

Frissell Was Once Sailor on Beothic

Special Interest Is Held by One Rescue Vessel at Northern Isle.

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—Members of the crew of the sealer Beothic, one of the rescue vessels now near the scene of the Viking disaster, have a special interest in finding Varick Frissell, motion picture enthusiast, missing since the Viking blew up. They know him well.

In 1927 Frissell shipped aboard the Beothic as a seaman and received $53 for six weeks' work. He smuggled aboard a small movie camera and came back with a sealing picture which he later showed in New York.

The Beothic reported yesterday it had sighted five men in a dory and five men on an ice floe. Friends here speculated as to whether one of them might be Frissell.

Three Considered For Bicentennial

Director of Commission to Be Selected About March 25.

Three men of national prominence, widely known in Washington, remain under consideration for appointment to the executive directorship for the District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission, according to announcement yesterday by the commission's executive committee at a breakfast meeting in the University Club.

The committee said that he would not be appointed earlier than March 25, about the time of the return from Mexico of Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, chairman of the commission.

Delegates and presidents of the various citizens groups in the Federation of Citizens Association will meet at 8 o'clock Saturday night in the District Building, to make plans for its cooperation in the Bicentennial celebration.

Gas Light Report Nears Completion

William A. Roberts Returns From Trip to Learn Who Owners Are.

Satisfactory progress in investigating the ownership of Washington Gas Light Co. was reported by William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, upon his return yesterday from a five-day trip to Boston and New York. He declined to reveal the nature of his findings.

Mr. Roberts spent practically all day preparing a report on his inquiry for submission to Corporation Counsel William W. Bride. All the data collected by the corporation counsel's office since the investigation was ordered more than a week ago by the Public Utilities Commission will be delivered to the Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice.

The Washington Gas Light Co. yesterday issued a statement denying published rumors that George A. G. Wood was to be succeeded as president by Albert L. Pierce. Mr. Wood and other officers, it was explained, have been elected for the year ending February 12, 1932.

Collections for Jewish Needy Unauthorized

Mrs. Charles Goldsmith, president of the United Hebrew Relief Society, has announced that no collections for Passover relief have been authorized. The organization has the necessary funds at its disposal to take care of needy Jews who may be brought to the attention of the organization, she states.

Mrs. Goldsmith has heard from various sources that Jewish people are being approached by unauthorized organizations and asked to contribute for Passover relief for the Jewish poor in Washington.

RED CROSS' RELIEF FUND IS COMPLETE

Drive for $10,000,000 Goes Over Top by $5,828 in Drought Campaign.

(Associated Press.)

The Red Cross campaign to raise $10,000,000 for drought relief yesterday reached its goal.

John Barton Payne, chairman, announced $10,005,828 had been contributed and that the organization's record of never failing in a campaign had been kept intact.

It took two months and five days to raise the money. During the bitter drought relief controversy in Congress, Red Cross officials complained the organization was seriously embarrassed by Senate proposals that Congress appropriate and give money to the Red Cross.

Refusing to accept a Government appropriation, the Red Cross continued its appeal to the public.

Expressing appreciation for contributions, Judge Payne said in a statement yesterday:

"It is a matter of deep gratitude to me and to all of my thousands of associate members in this organization, that the response of our citizens, as always, has been generous.

"This magnificient support has demonstrated again that the American people want the Red Cross to act for them in meeting emergencies.

"Never before has our society faced so great a task of relief. On March 1, our chapters in 850 counties in 20 States were giving food, clothing, or other types of relief to 2,000,000 persons."

Crop Financing Problem Now Solved in Arkansas

St. Louis, Mo., March 18 (A.P.).—Arkansas, the most severely stricken State in the drought area, has been the first to achieve a nearly complete restoration of normal living conditions, William E. Baxter, jr., manager of the Midwestern branch of the American Red Cross, announced here tonight.

The Little Rock, Ark., State relief office of the Red Cross will close April 1, he said. The problem of financing this year's crop has been solved by credit made available by Arkansas bankers, he said, in addition to the $45,000,000 Government appropriation for direct loans from the Department of Agriculture for seed, fertilizer and feed for work stock. "The immediate effect of the removal of 'relief psychology,'" he said, "should be business recovery and improvement of morale."

American Women Are Slain in China

Murder of Two Missionaries Laid to Servant Recently Discharged.

Peiping, China, March 18 (U.P.).—The brutal slaying of two American women missionaries in the southern border province of Yunnan was reported in dispatches from there today.

The women killed were Mrs. Vera M. White, of Battleground, Wash., and Mrs. Victoria M. Miller, whose mother lives at 1108 Olympic avenue, Spokane, Wash., the reports said. Both were members of the Seventh Day Adventists Mission.

The reports said the women were killed in their sleep at their residence in Yunnan-Fu, capital of Yunnan Province. Two children in the house were unharmed. The husbands were away. A servant, recently discharged, was believed to have committed the crime.

HOOVER AND PARTY START SEA TRIP

the first one the President has had in many a day. That he proposes to put in some work, however, is indicated by the fact that he is taking along Jose Espinoza, a White House stenographer.

While he is on the Arizona, the President will be kept posted on important matters by Secretary Walter Newton, who will send messages through the naval radio station at Arlington. Mr. Newton also proposes to wireless the President a brief summary of the news each day.

The Arizona, which will be making a "shake-down," or test, trip, is scheduled to reach Porto Rico Sunday. She will anchor in the harbor of Ponce, the harbor of San Juan, capital of Porto Rico, being too shallow for a ship of such size.

The President will go ashore Monday morning, and will be met by Col. Theodore Roosevelt, the Governor of Porto Rico. Then will come a 60-mile motor trip to San Juan.

The President will remain at Porto Rico for two days, and in that time he proposes to make a study of conditions on the island and to listen to proposals for bettering them.

San Juan, discovered by Columbus and ceded to the United States after the War with Spain, is the oldest city in the New World under the American flag. According to the National Geographic Society, it was settled a half century before St. Augustine, Fla., the oldest city in the United States, and fully a century before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock.

Leaving Porto Rico, Capt. Charles S. Freeman, skipper of the Arizona, will head for the Virgin Islands, where President Hoover will be greeted by the man he recently appointed governor of the islands—Dr. Paul M. Pearson, of Swarthmore, Pa.

The landing will be made at St. Thomas, the capital of the islands. Gov. Pearson is seeking to attract tourists to St. Thomas and to St. Croix, and the visit of the President no doubt will help him in this endeavor.

There is a possibility that the Arizona, after leaving St. Thomas, will cruise along the south shore of Cuba before starting north. If this is done, the President will have an opportunity to look over the battle fleet which is now engaged in target practice off Guantanamo.

The Arizona is scheduled to return to Hampton Roads, on Monday, March 30. A special train will be waiting at Old Point Comfort to bring the presidential party back to Washington.

WITNESSES CALLED IN NURMI SLAYING

Montgomery Jury to Begin Hearing Today in Death of Census Clerk.

Witnesses have been summoned to appear before the Montgomery County Grand jury today in the mysterious death, last November, of Aarvi Nurmi, 26-year-old Census Bureau clerk, who was found dead on the driveway next to his Takoma Park, Md., home with a bullet wound in his head.

Two companions on a drinking party which preceded the shooting, John J. O'Brien, 26, of Chapin street near Fifteenth street northwest, and Henry W. McGuire, 29, of Columbia road near Fourteenth street northwest, are at liberty on bond, with charges of manslaughter technically placed against them pending action of the grand jury.

The two youths told police that they had been engaged in a drinking party with Nurmi, and that the latter had gone upstairs to his room, the last time they saw him alive. A short time later, they said, they found him in the driveway outside of the house and called police, believing he had fallen from the window of his second-story room. When the body arrived at the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital, the bullet wound was found.

Those summoned to appear today include County Policeman Theodore Raines, Leo B. Moffett, Oscar W. Schearger, Mrs. Louisa M. Crone, Dr. William T. Pratt, Dr. G. V. Hartley, Warner E. Pumphrey, Andrew Gus Nurmi, father of the dead boy; Sergt. Earl Burdine, of the Takoma Substation, county police, who investigated the shooting; Corporal Roy Bodmer, of the State's attorney's office; David Bird, Dr. Uuchaelson, John Pope and John T. Stanley.

It is believed that the grand jury will complete its deliberations either today or tomorrow, and a report is expected by tomorrow night.

U. S. Refuses to Modify Sacramental Wine Rule

(Associated Press.)

The Treasury yesterday refused to revoke a regulation requiring that when a rabbi issues sacramental wine he must report to the supervisor of industrial alcohol the name of the recipient.

The decision was announced by Assistant Secretary Lowman, to whom a delegation of New York rabbis last week presented a petition for modification of the rules. The petitioners urged that the Government issue the wine to the rabbis with no strings attached and rely upon them to see that it is not improperly used.

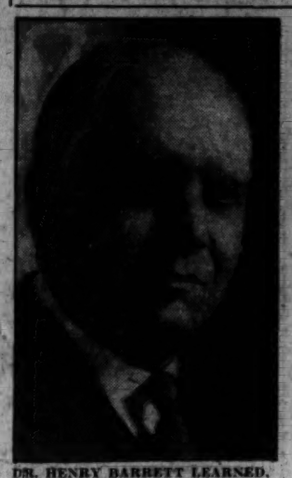
HEADS OF BOARD OF EDUCATION



DR. HENRY BARRETT LEARNED.

MRS. PHILIP SYDNEY SMITH.

DR. H. B. LEARNED NAMED TO FILL CARUSI BERTH

No explanation was given for this change in appointment.

In appointing Mr. Crane, the board upheld the policy of appointing the school business manager to this place. The school representative acts as a consultant on the committee which controls the distribution of certain school supplies.

The board rejected a request of the Costello Post, of the American Legion for the use of McKinley High School Auditorium for a musical show next month, the proceeds of which were to be used to buy instruments for the post's bugle and drum corps.

Terms Ruling Unfair.

It is a policy of the board not to open school auditoriums for entertainments for profit of organizations outside of the school system. A member of the Legion, on receiving word of the board's ruling, said that the show would probably be staged at the Washington Auditorium. He termed the decision of the board as "unfair."

The board also rejected a request of the Womens Organization for National Prohibition Reform to interest Washington school children in a national poster contest.

Request was received from the Washington Kiwanis Club that the 1933 school estimates carry a sufficient sum for bus transportation and improved equipment for crippled children. The finance committee, which will meet on the morning of Friday, March 27, to study more than 150 requests for estimates, was instructed to give special attention to the needs of crippled children.

Dr. Ballou announced that satisfactory progress is being made on the survey to determine which schools require the most financial support from the milk and cracker fund in the feeding of children. The survey will also seek to locate impoverished families, the superintendent said.

Convention Comes Here.

Dr. Ballou also announced the acceptance of an invitation by the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association to hold its 1932 convention in Washington from February 20 to 25. The convention will bring 15,000 persons to the National Capital, the superintendent said.

An invitation will be extended the Association for Childhood Education, formerly the International Kindergarten Union, to hold its 1932 convention here in May.

The following recommendations of the committee on buildings, grounds and equipment were approved: That the District Commissioners be requested to install a hot-water supply system in all new schools, incinerators in all future schools and that a linoleum flooring be placed in each kindergarten, teachers' room and principal's office in future elementary schools.

Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle was selected to represent the board on the District committee on health and welfare of children.

ARMED YOUTH ROBS GIRL CLERK IN DOWNTOWN CLEANER'S SHOP

occurred so quickly and quietly his attention was not attracted from the flowing stream of automobiles. A street car loading platform is almost in front of the place, but none of the prospective passengers noticed anything untoward.

Miss Inez Wantz, 19, of 4521 Arkansas avenue northwest, attractive blonde clerk, was the victim of the collegiate appearing robber.

She had just been left in charge of the store by Mrs. J. Mitchell, manager, at 7:20 p. m. A young man entered just after Mrs. Mitchell had retired to her apartment above the establishment for supper.

Miss Wantz, thinking that she was about to be called upon to serve her first customer of the night, approached and was about to ask the man what he wanted.

Then she noticed the gun he held in his hand.

"Give me the money!" the man demanded.

Startled, she opened the cash register and hastened to obey. She handed over about $20 in bills.

The man, careful to keep her covered, backed toward the door. Homegoing crowds along Pennsylvania avenue passed by the brilliantly lighted cleaning place, unmindful of the tense scene inside.

"I'm sorry to do this," the robber said, still backing away. "You had better go in the back there and stay. I am going to watch this place for five minutes."

Miss Wantz fled up the stairs in tears and rushed up to the second floor to inform Mrs. Mitchell what had happened. Dallas Mitchell, hatter at the cleaning place, who was at supper with Mrs. Mitchell, snatched his pistol and the three ran back down to the store.

Mr. Mitchell ran out of the place, along Pennsylvania avenue, but failed to find any one answering the description of the holdup man.

Carl Ballard, of 18 Third street southeast, driver of a taxicab, told police from headquarters, who answered a radio call, that a man whose description tallied with that given by Miss Wantz started to get into his cab, which was parked near Eighteenth street.

The man appeared to be highly nervous and, after opening the door, changed his mind and walked rapidly up Eighteenth street toward H street.

Miss Wantz told police that the man was about 21, had brown hair and brown eyes, and wore a light gray coat. He was about 5 feet 9 inches in height and weighed about 150 pounds, she said. He wore no cap or hat when he entered the store, she said.

Man Held in Store To Be Investigated

Dudley Lyles Is Detained at Police Station for Questioning.

Dudley Lyles, 35 years old, of Lamont street near Eleventh northwest, is held on a technical charge of investigation at the Eighth Precinct Station, after a radio alarm broadcast early yesterday morning brought a police scout car, which allegedly captured him in the drygoods store of S. Ginsberg at 1780 U street northwest.

A passerby who looked into the store and saw someone moving about called police headquarters, and the alarm went on the air. The Eighth Precinct scout car, manned by Policeman Frank J. Knoble and C. C. Williams answered the call.

With Patrolman T. R. Haage, they captured Lyles, they said, inside the store. Flashlights, pliers, keys and other articles were found on his person when he was searched at the precinct station, according to police. Lyles told police that he was a plumber, but had been out of work for nearly two months.

Mrs. Wholean's petition to dismiss Mrs. Henderson's suit to void the adoption will be heard tomorrow. The other suit that was brought by Mrs. Wholean to restrain Mrs. Henderson, is on the calendar and may be reached within a short time.

HOOVER, BORAH DINE; SPECULATION ARISES

Connection With 1932 Race Is Question Asked After Belated Meeting.

(Associated Press.)

A bumper crop of speculation sprang up yesterday on Capitol Hill in the wake of a lengthy luncheon conference between President Hoover and Senator Borah.

Domestic and foreign questions were discussed, but neither Mr. Borah nor the White House would comment. Mr. Borah attended the luncheon at the invitation of President Hoover.

This was the first time Mr. Borah had talked with the President for several months. Speculation immediately arose as to whether the conference had any connection with the 1932 presidential campaign or the recent meeting of Progressives, at which Mr. Borah took a prominent part.

Asked if the political situation was discussed, Mr. Borah replied, "Not specifically by that name."

"What about the Progressive conference?" he was asked. "Not directly," was the reply.

Haiti and Nicaragua were discussed in detail by the President and Mr. Borah. The supposition was that the general topic of Central American relations came up incidental to the Executive's departure today for a combined rest and business trip to Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

While the Idahoan has been a constant champion of recognition of Soviet Russia, it was not indicated whether this subject was mentioned. Russia did enter into the talk, however, in connection with the proposed land disarmament conference for 1932.

As for the naval agreement between France and Italy, Mr. Borah said it still was problematical whether it would be necessary to submit this to the Senate for ratification.

BEAUTY QUEEN TO GO ON TRIAL IN SLAYING

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger Must Face Jury, but Not on First-Degree Charge.

Nice, France, March 18 (A.P.).—Mrs. Charlotte Nash Nixon-Nirdlinger must stand trial for killing her husband, Fred Nirdlinger, Magistrate Vachier admitted today after questioning the former St. Louis beauty queen, but he indicated the charge would not be murder in the first degree.

Stylishly dressed, Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger drove to the chambers of Magistrate Vachier today in a prison wagon and told her story.

In the hope of persuading the magistrate to release her she pleaded self-defense. The examination was held in secret with only the prisoner, the magistrate and three defense attorneys admitted to the courtroom.

Her attorneys said the story she told, containing the details of how she shot her husband a week ago in their apartment, was the same she related immediately after the shooting. They quoted her as saying to the judge:

"I have led a dog's life, but I will always regret I was in a position where I was forced to take human life." She sobbed frequently during the questioning, which lasted two and a half hours, her counsel said, and declared that fright and terror caused her to keep firing at her husband and chasing him around the room after one bullet had taken effect. Her attorneys announced they planned to rush the preparation of her court defense so as to obtain trial of the case at the May term of court. They said they had abandoned hope of obtaining bail for their client.

and radio cars cruised through the neighboring streets and into Oxon Hill, Md., in search of the bandits. Another group attempted to follow the footprints on the farm, but lost track of them in the woods.

Patrick Vahslse, who lives on the corner of Trenton place and Nichols avenue, told police that he saw two men loitering near the place before the car was stopped. Mrs. Butler described the man she saw as wearing a black sweater, about 19 years old, and about 5 feet 10 inches in height.

Shortly after the shooting, police sent a lookout for a Ford coupe or roadster, carrying two men, which was seen speeding from the neighborhood. It was described as black, with nickel trimming, and carrying a spotlight.

Warren A. Johnson, 23, of New York avenue, near Third street northwest, was arrested a few minutes after the attemtpted holdup by Private C. W. Sine, of the Eleventh Precinct. Johnson was partially identified as the man who stepped on the platform of the car by Mrs. Butler.

He was taken to the Butler house by Private Jacobs, where the identification was made. Lieut. F. M. Dent questioned Johnson, who said that he had taken a girl friend to her home at Oxon Hill, Md., and was returning when arrested by Policeman Sine. He denied any knowledge of the shooting.

Lane lives at 507 Daniels street, Colmar, Md. He is the father of four children—Bobbie, 4; Louise, 6; James, 9, and Florence, 10. His wife left immediately for the hospital when advised of the shooting, keeping the news from her children.

SNOW DEATH IS LAID TO HUNTED ROBBERS

Two Youths Who Abandoned Auto in Virginia Sought as Woman Killers.

Chicago, March 18 (A.P.).—Two youths who abandoned an automobile in Virginia two weeks ago were sought today for the slaying of Miss Norma Newby in a forest preserve here.

After the body of the 36-year-old woman was found beneath the snow yesterday, a letter was received from Sheriff Thomas B. Fleanor, of Jonesville, Va., telling Frank J. Murray, Miss Newby's married sweetheart, that his car had been left there March 3. Murray has said two men threw him out of his car in the forestry March 2, beat him into unconsciousness and kidnaped his companion.

Held Only As a Witness.

The letter was delivered at Murray's brother's home today. Lieut. Lester Laird, of the county highway police announced the letter had "cast all suspicion" from the 47-year-old engineering salesman. Laird said Murray would be held only as a witness for the coroner's inquest tomorrow and that no charges would be made against him. He said the two car thieves had "undoubtedly killed Miss Newby."

Meanwhile Coroner's Physician I. M. Feinberg said examination had disclosed that Miss Newby died of multiple fractures of the skull and laceration of the brain, and apparently had been shot in the left arm. A wrench was found near her body.

Arthur Dorion, Miss Newby's fiance during four of the seventeen years she carried on clandestine relations with Murray, was released today. He had been held for questioning.

Abandoned in Virginia.

Jonesville, Va., March 18 (A.P.).—Sheriff Thomas B. Fleanor said today that an automobile, bearing a Chicago license and believed to have belonged to Frank J. Murray, held for questioning in the death of Miss Norma Newby at Chicago, was abandoned on the streets here March 3.

He quoted a number of residents as saying they saw two men get out of the car and walk away.

The strangers were described to Sheriff Fleanor as well dressed, one being rather tall and the other of medium height.

Man, Woman, Liquor Seized in Police Raid

Two persons were arrested last night in a raid on premises on Fifth street northeast near H street, where vice squad policemen Sergt. N. O. Holmes and Officer G. E. Thornton are alleged to have confiscated a quart of whisky and 43 bottles of beer.

Louis C. Turner, 30 years old, of the Fifth street address, and Mary Smith, 23 years old, of Fourteenth street northwest near S street, were charged with illegal possession of liquor at the Ninth Precinct.

Two Priests to Get Coveted Degree

FathersCallan and McHugh to Become Masters of Sacred Theology.

The coveted degree of master of sacred theology of the dominican order, the order of preachers, will be conferred upon two distinguished coauthors of scriptural and theological writings at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the Dominican House of Studies, 487 Michigan avenue northeast. There have been only eight conferred in the United States.

The degrees will be conferred at a solemn pontifical mass which will be celebrated by the Right Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, rector emeritus of the Catholic University, on the Rev. Charles Callan, O. P., S. T. L., and the Rev. John A. McHugh, O. P., S. T. L., both of Maryknoll Seminary, Ossining, N. Y. The Very Rev. T. S. McDermott, O. P., S. T. L., provincial of the Dominican Order in the United States, will confer the degrees.

The sermon will be preached by the Very Rev. L. H. McMahon, O. P., S. T. M., himself one of the few to whom the degree has been awarded. Thirteen years of teaching are necessary before the member becomes eligible for the degree. The mass will be attended by the heads of religious orders in the District and members of the faculty of Catholic University as well as other dignitaries of the Catholic Church.

Womans' Body Found Weighted in Lake Erie

Erie, Pa., March 18 (A.P.).—The body of an unidentified woman, weighted with a heavy chain and a piece of iron, was taken from Lake Erie late today by Coast Guardsmen. The woman was a blonde, apparently about 35 years old. Coroner Dan Hanley said the body had been in the lake for several weeks.

The skull had been crushed and the face mutilated. Police were of the opinion the body was taken out into the lake in a boat and thrown overboard.

Hoover Will Get News of Family

Receiving and Sending Sets of Wireless Installed to Transmit Messages.

While on his West Indian cruise President Hoover will be enabled to receive direct news by wireless from his family at Asheville, N. C.

Herbert Hoover, jr., who recently received his amateur radio operator's license, has the sending apparatus and two special receiving sets, adapted to receive both voice and code, were flown down to Norfolk yesterday and installed in the U. S. S. Arizona. Thus the President at any hour of the day can tune in and get the latest news from the grandchildren who are spending this holiday with their parents and grandmother in Asheville.

One of the sets is a specially designed high frequency, experimental outfit, made by the Wastinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Corporation for the Department of Commerce and loaned to the Navy for this trip. At 13,000 kilocycles it will receive voice transmission. The other is a regulation superhetrodyne set with an "adapter" loaned by the Radio Victor people that makes possible the reception of both voice and code

ALEXANDRIA REPORT CRITICIZES BOWTON

Administration Committee Recommends Superintendents Be Changed.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

That the future welfare and betterment of the Alexandria public school system be better insured by a change in superintendents at the end of the present school year and that the city school board appoint some one other than the present superintendent, R. C. Bowton, to engage the teachers for the 1931-32 school term was the recommendation of the subcommittee on administration of the public school system, of which James Armstrong is chairman, of the citizens committee on public schools. The first meeting of the committee was held last night in the George Mason Hotel and the report submitted. It will later, if finally adopted, be incorporated with reports of other subcommittees and made a part of the final report which will be rendered to a mass meeting of citizens.

There were 13 findings in the report. It found teachers' pay in the Alexandria schools is higher than that that of most schools of similar size in Virginia or nearby States and that the superintendent's salary, which is understood to be $5,000 a year, with an allowance for an automobile of $500 a year, exceeds that of any superintendent in the State, based on a per student capita of enrollment.

The report states that the superintendent has not complied with the school law in that he has made no attempt, so far as could be ascertained, to bring the school system before the public and "sell" education to the citizenship, and that he apparently has made no public addresses on the public school or school system.

It is further stated that the testimony of the superintendent given during the annexation proceedings in Arlington County, in which a comparison between the local and the Arlington County schools was given, was damaging to the city's cause.

A spirit of unrest, the report alleges, exists in the teaching staff of the schools, which the subcommittee believes to have a bad effect on the student body.

The subcommittee made no personal investigation of the physical condition of the schools, but indorses the report recently made by the Chamber of Commerce, and calls attention to the recent report of Dr. Critchley which, in the opinion of the subcommittee, "reflects great lack of administrative ability on the part of the superintendent."

According to the records of the clerk of the corporation court, the report states, the redistricting of the City of Alexandria for school purposes has not been done, or if it has, such action has not been recorded in the clerk's office as required by law.

Based on Dr. Critchley's report, the subcommittee states as its belief that the bad conditions in the Alexandria High School, and the chaotic conditions in the George Mason High School can only point to the lack of efficiency on the part of the superintendent.

The attention of the committee is called to "the lack of civility and the apparent rudeness of the superintendent to many of the patrons in regard to school matters. Attention of the committee is also called to the report of Dr. John T. Ashton, a member of the school board, to the board, showing lack of cooperation by the superintendent with the cadet corps in the schools.

The report recommends that the "apparently horrible conditions" in the schools of Alexandria be brought to the attention of the State superintendent of education, and that all meetings of the school board be open to the public and that the local press give the meetings full publicity.

The subcommittee report is signed by James Armstrong, chairman; John W. Brookfield, Mrs. Dolly Peyton Shepperson and Charles M. Stump.

The subcommittee to investigate the high schools, of which Capt. L. M. Bricker is chairman, submitted a resolution that the committee concur in the recommendation made in the membership meeting of the chamber of commerce that money be appropriated by the school board to have an investigation made of the schools by three disinterested trained investigators, under the direction of the State superintendent of education. This resolution was sent to the school board, which was in session at the time.

The report shows that according to the annual report of the superintendent of public instruction, the superintendent of the Alexandria schools reports 184 days spent in visiting schools and in doing other school work, this being the fewest number of days spent in any of the 21 schools shown in the record. Among other schools mentioned are Bristol, 300 days; Charlottesville, 280 days; Clifton Forge, 300 days; Danville, 300 days; Fredericksburg, 360 days; Harrisonburg, 302 days, and Hopewell, 245 days.

Chairman Lawrence E. Roland, who presided, called attention to the fact that a letter had appeared in a local newspaper criticizing the action of the committee, and to a reply which had been made by him. A unanimous vote of confidence in Chairman Roland was voted.

The ambulance fund for the Fire Department, which is being raised under the auspices of Potomac Company, No. 2, now amounts to approximately $1,000, which is one-third of the amount required. It has been definitely decided by the committee to close the drive on April 30.

A house-to-house canvass was launched yesterday in the territory west of the R. F. & P. Railroad tracks, under the supervision of R. L. Creel and R. A. Roseberry, captains of the two competing teams, and plans for a similar canvass in the older section of the city will be made at a meeting to be held Sunday afternoon at the engine house of No. 2 company.

The canvassing in the older portion of the city will be done by a committee headed by Mrs. John W. Travers.

The Potomac company was the first to train a rescue squad, and this has done splendid work at recent fires. The lack of an ambulance has been keenly felt and this company, the newest in the Alexandria Fire Department, has been working for some time to secure an ambulance.

D. C. Book, as chairman for the program of the luncheon meeting today of the Kiwanis Club, will present T. W. McHugh, who will talk on "First Aid," and special guests of the club will be Police Chief W. W. Campbell and Fire Chief James M. Duncan. Final plans will be made for the trip to Manassas tomorrow to visit the Kiwanis of that place. Arrangements will also be made for a visit to Arlington Hall School for Young Ladies, on March 26, as the guests of Dr. Martin, head of that school.

Samuel Steiner, deputy State fire marshal, yesterday started inspection of stores, schools and all business places, accompanied on his rounds by Frank Cockrell, of Motor Co. No. 5. When fire hazards are found the occupant of the premises is given written notice regarding recommendations for changes, the fire chief is given a copy and also one placed on record in the office of the State fire marshal at Richmond. After a reasonable length of time if such corrections are not made, the person notified will be summoned to police court.

The State Port Authority of Virginia was in session yesterday in the George Mason Hotel and a number of matters of importance relative to the ports of Norfolk, Portsmouth and Newport News, on Hampton Roads, were discussed.

The meeting was presided over by J. Gordon Bohamon, of Petersburg, chairman, and other members present were J. Scott Parrish, of Richmond, vice chairman; Henry G. Barbee, Norfolk, treasurer; P. W. Hiden, Newport News; Marshall L. King, Alexandria, and W. A. Cox, director of the port. This was the first meeting of this body held here for more than a year.

The police are looking for a man named John Stack, who lives in the 400 block North Patrick street, who, they say is responsible for an attack on James Carter, colored, living in the 200 block South Fayette street, who is in the Alexandria hospital in a serious condition. Following the assault Carter was taken to the office of Dr. O. D. Durant, who had him transferred to the hospital, where he was operated on by Dr. Samuel B. Moore. Carter's condition is said to be slightly improved.

Mrs. Minnigerode Andrews will entertain the members of the Business and Professional Women's Club at a tea this afternoon at her studio on Seminary Hill. The members will assemble at the George Mason Hotel at 5:15 o'clock.

Marley Encampment, No. 6, Odd Fellows, will hold a ladies' night celebration on Monday night next at Odd Fellows Temple. A short business session will be convened at 7:30 o'clock, after which the social meeting will begin. All Odd Fellows, Rebekas and friends of the order are invited.

CLERIC LOSES SUIT IN ROCKVILLE COURT

Rev. Alfred Cheatham, of Silver Spring, Must Pay Back Rent.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

A jury in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville yesterday decided against the Rev. Alfred Cheatham, rector of the Episcopalian Church at Silver Spring, in favor of Capt. Frank L. Hewitt, Silver Spring real estate dealer, who had sued the minister for back rent, alleging he had abandoned a lease without notice.

The minister alleged that Capt. Hewitt had agreed that he could abandon the lease if his parishioners built a rectory for the church, the first permanent church structure in Silver Spring. The jury awarded back rent totalling approximately $500 to Capt. Hewitt, who was represented by Attorney H. C. Smith, of Rockville.

Judge Robert B. Peter decided against Otto W. Anderson, county farm agent, who had sued the firm of Cissel & Offutt, real estate agents, for rent on property he had sold to the county. The court held that Cissel & Offutt owed for one month's rent until the time of the expiration of occupancy by the owner under his sale agreement.

Mr. Anderson had sold his property to the county in connection with the courthouse building project with the understanding that he could retain possession until demolition was to begin. In January, 1930, Mr. Anderson was notified that he must vacate within 30 days, and he so notified the real estate firm. For some reason the building was not torn down at once and the tenants remained until December, but did not pay rent to Mr. Anderson.

The county agent sued for rent until the time of the demolition of the building. Judge Peter held that he was entitled to rent for the time he actually owned the building, but that at the expiration of 30 days Mr. Anderson's title became nonexistent. Cissel & Offutt were represented by the law firm of Cissel & Woodward, of Rockville.

The annual meeting and banquet of the Montgomery County Holstein Breeders Association will be held tonight at Hungerford Tavern, Rockville. Election of officers and talks by several prominent cattle authorities will feature the meeting.

Allen N. Crissey, Eastern States field representative of the Holstein Friesian Association of America, will be the principal speaker. H. C. Barker, superintendent of advanced registry work at the University of Maryland Extension Service, also will speak.

County Farm Agent Otto W. Anderson and his assistant, Albert A. Ady, also will talk. Mr. Ady will explain the progress of Holstein work in the county 4-H clubs.

Thomas C. Kelley, Germantown, is president of the county association. James D. King, of Germantown, is vice president, and Ralph Walker, of Gaithersburg, is secretary-treasurer.

Court Decrees Orderly Inebriates to Go Free

Alexandria citizens who are drunk but not disorderly are, in future, not to be arrested, according to instructions issued yesterday in Police Court by Justice William S. Snow.

Bernard Hammill and Roy Beach were arrested in a lunchroom and charged with being drunk, although the proprietor of the lunchroom had made no complaint.

Justice Snow dismissed the charge, and instructed the police not to make arrests for drunkenness unless the person was disorderly or otherwise obnoxious.

MAY CARRIES TRACK CASE TO HIGH COURT

District Supreme Tribunal to Hear Rail Removal Expense Claim.

The fight of Robert L. May, president of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway to avoid paying the cost of relocating the company's trackage in the area south of Pennsylvania avenue between Twelfth and Fourteenth streets northwest, was carried to the District Supreme Court yesterday.

The controversy over who should pay the cost of tearing up the old tracks and laying new ones has been the matter of constant conferences between Mr. May, District officials and members of the commission having in hand the Government's building program.

In his appeal to the District Supreme Court, Mr. May, through Attorneys John S. Barbour, C. B. Garnett, and Gardner L. Boothe, asserts that the reproduction of the trackage will reach an estimated cost of $183,105. This cost, he says, he has been notified by the Public Utilities Commission here, is not to be met by the Government.

The contemplated removal of the company's tracks would render useless the system of tracks running into Virginia, which are valued at $690,000. In addition, he said, the investment of the Arlington & Fairfax Railway Co. will be destroyed.

There has been no provision made to relocate the company's tracks, Mr. May said, and no authority has been vested in Andrew Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, who is directing the development for the Government to acquire the rights and privileges of the company by condemnation or purchase.

The company further claims that it will suffer irreparable injury unless the District Supreme Court enjoins Mr. Mellon from destroying or otherwise injuring any of the tracks, works or structures of the company, or from closing any of the streets now used for company tracks, or from interfering with the company in its operation under its Federal charter and franchises.

The suit discloses that Ohio avenue from Twelfth to Thirteenth, Thirteenth from B to Ohio avenue, D street from Twelfth to Thirteen-and-a-half street, and thence from Ohio avenue to B street will be closed under the present plans of the Government for new buildings.

Dr. Dewitt Miller, 63, Dies Near Hagerstown

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., March 18.—Dr. Dewitt C. R. Miller, 63, former State senator from Washington County and prominent physician of Mason and Dixon, near her, died suddenly this afternoon from heart trouble.

His wife and three sisters, Mrs. Calvin Gabriel, Miss Mary Miller, Baltimore, and Mrs. Harry Spangler, Mercersburg, Pa., survive.

Shenandoah Group Will Hold Meeting

Valley Boosters Will Put On Program to Induce Tourists' Visits.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., March 18.—The Shenandoah Valley, Inc., pioneer of the Old Dominion's regional chambers of commerce, will return to its birthplace here Friday, when the seventh annual meeting of the membership is held.

The annual conventions have been held in Staunton for the past three years, since the removal of the headquarters from here to the valley's largest city. President Howard J. Benchoff, of Woodstock, has arranged an attractive program for the meeting. This will be devoted largely to the attraction of more tourists to the Shenandoah Valley and to the making of the valley more attractive for tourists.

Former Gov. E. Lee Trinkle, of Roanoke; Joe Mitchell Chapple, editor of the National Magazine, of Boston; Ben H. Lambe and Chester Leasure, of the United States Chamber of Commerce, of Washington, will address the assembly which will include delegates from eleven counties in western Virginia and two in West Virginia.

INDICTMENTS FOUND AGAINST 26 PERSONS

Nine Ignored Papers Returned by District Grand Jury at Same Time.

Twenty-six people were indicted in 22 separate indictments handed down by the District grand jury yesterday. At the same time, the grand jury returned nine ignored papers.

Those indicted were Peter J. Duncan, grand larceny; Samuel Glasser, Chester Gresham and Fred Stewart, violation of the national prohibition act; Otis Freeman, assault with a dangerous weapon; Boyd Bennett, assault with intent to kill and assault with a dangerous weapon; Albert N. Wildman and John W. Brown, false pretenses.

Malcolm Young, larceny from the United States; Earle Smith and Albert N. Wildman, embezzlement; Charles H. Vossell and John H. Hensley, forgery; Joe Ansbetion, alias Joe Dagostino, violating Section 28, Title 27, of United States Criminal Code, and Abe Schrott, same charge; Dora L. Davis, violating section 5209, Revised Statutes (Title 12, Section 592, of United States Code); Lynwood Booker, Wilbur Morris Dockett (two indictments), housebreaking and larceny; Mamie E. Thomas, receiving stolen property; William W. Ball, alias Billy Ball, Harrison narcotic law, and Frank Levine, alias Frank Goldman, and Nicholas Passero, alias Montana, Harrison narcotic law; Robert Shine and Rita Van Buskirk, violation of the motor vehicle act.

Three men, for whom the Government had sought two indictment charges against each, and against whom no indictments were returned, were Arthur Ferguson, Roland Turk Davis and Samuel J. Smith. All were for alleged violations of the national prohibition act. Others ignored were Flyod Stanfield, assault; Sterling A. Reed and Preston Henry, robbery, and George Buck, robbery.

JURY INDICTS MAN IN U. S. BOOK CASE

Former History Teacher Is Accused After Finding of Rare Old Tomes.

An indictment charging Malcolm Young, former teacher of history in the McKinley Manual Training School, with larceny from the United States Government, was returned yesterday by the District grand jury. The charge involves some 325 books, most of them law, volumes, from the shelves of the Congressional Library.

The janitor of the West Clifton Terrace Apartments discovered the books, many of them of rare and valuable editions, when he began an investigation of long-stored property in the basement of the apartment. The tomes were dust covered and were at first thought to be mere discards.

A scrutiny of them, however, disclosed the fact that they were from the Library of Congress, and Martin A. Roberts, an officer of the library, was called to identify them. He found the library's seal on the books and promptly started an investigation to find out how that large number of books could have got out.

At the time, library authorities knew of the disappearance of many valuable law boks, but they had no knowledge of where they went. The value of the books was not cited, though the age of many made them almost priceless. Several of the books were hundreds of years old and were original sources of law.

Young's position as a teacher of history in the Tech High School was the subject of a Board of Education hearing. He was released at the end of his probationary period and he sought refuge in a review by the entire board. The Tech High officials were upheld in their determination to release the teacher, and his appeal was dismissed.

Young was a student at a law school here. His whereabouts just now are not known to police, though attempts have been made to get in touch with him. Young was at one time an employe of the library.

Child's Murderer Leaves Confession

Letter Found Near Place Where Virginia Brooks Was Seen Last.

San Diego, Calif., March 18 (A.P.). Admitting they were dealing with a criminal so clever that he was able to leave a "confession" letter under the very nose of investigators, police, deputy sheriffs and criminal experts tonight continued their investigation into the mystery murder of Virginia Brooks, 10-year-old school girl.

Detective Lieut. George Sears, in charge of the investigation, admitted a letter confessing the crime received yesterday and signed "the doctor," undoubtedly was written by the slayer.

The cleverness with which the man operated, Mr. Sears said, easily was seen through the type of letter written plus the fact it was left within 100 feet of where the child was last seen. Police guarded the contents of a second note purporting to be from the slayer, in which the writer boasted of having killed the girl and threatened to kidnap and kill another girl to show his cunning as a criminal.

Churchill Denounces Dealings With Gandhi

London, March 18 (A.P.).—Speaking before a great crowd in Albert Hall tonight, Winston Churchill declared that full dominion status for India "is not conceivably possible for a generation to come." He accused Lord Irwin, India's viceroy, of "humbug" in his dealings with Mahatma Gandhi.

"I am against this surrender to Gandhi," he said. He predicted the early collapse of the power of the members of the Liftle Congress.

Farmer Pleads Traffic Rules Foreign to Him

(United Press.)

Farmer Thomas B. Sisk gave up his Virginia mountain home about a month ago, bought himself a second-hand car, and moved nearer the bright lights of Washington.

Farmer Sisk set out in his newly acquired car to visit the city. He got no further than Falls Church, Va., when he ran afoul of the law for passing a red light.

The mayor dismissed the case, however, when Farmer Sisk pleaded he had never seen a traffic light and knew nothing at all of its meaning. He had no driver's license or registration card because he had never heard of them. The mayor's office then was turned into a schoolroom while Farmer Sisk received instructions in traffic regulations.

Plane of Royalty To Be Named Here

Christening Ceremony for Prince Ghica's Ship Set for Today.

A single-motored scarlet airplane, King Carol II, that may write a new chapter in aviation history within the next few months will be christened today at Washington Airport by its youthful royal pilot, Prince Jean Ghica, of Roumania, who landed here early yesterday afternoon.

Forced down the previous afternoon because of fog at Moundsville, W. Va., the "Lindbergh of Roumania," as he is widely known, made an uneventful hop here en route to New York from Los Angeles, where he superintended final construction of this craft in which he proposes to hang up a new long-distance flight record. On April 28 he plans to take off from Bucharest on a proposed journey with two companions to Cape Town, Union of South Africa.

Arriving at the airport shortly before his official welcoming committee from the Roumanian Legation, the prince took off again and circled the city before alighting to receive the well wishes of his countrymen. The informal christening ceremonies of the plane will be held today before his hop for New York.

Beware of tying up your money in a house like this .....

buy or build with an eye to the future

When you buy or build a home ask yourself this question: "Will the heating plant in it be as up-to-date ten, fifteen or twenty years from now as it is today?"

Of course, hand-fired heating is out—obsolete. Home owners today demand automatic gas heat.

Many builders of homes and apartments in Washington recognize this fact when they install and recommend Bryant Automatic Gas Heating in the homes they build, sell and rent. These men are specialists in home building. They know values. They foresee the trend. Their judgment can be relied upon. They are building with an eye to the future—protecting YOUR values.

Even if you intend living in the house you build, buy or own "from now on," it is only good business to keep resale value in mind against possible unforeseen emergency. Cheap heating plants add no value to a house.

By all means install Bryant Gas Heating under the initial construction financing. Give yourself and your family the freedom from furnace slavery it makes possible and, at the same time, protect your investment!

The new low rate for House Heating has put the luxury of Automatic Gas Heat within the reach of the average man. In the District there is a consumption charge of 60 cents a thousand cubic feet and a demand charge of $2.00 for each 100 cubic feet of maximum hourly demand. The combined rate works out at around 75 cents a thousand cubic feet as compared with the former rate of $1.00. Ten per cent down and the balance in easy payments will put a Bryant Gas-Fired Boiler in your home. Call National 8280—the House Heating Department for a reliable estimate of yearly cost.

EUROPE'S NAVAL AGREEMENT.

Following a conference between Senator Morrow, Foreign Minister Henderson and Mr. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, it has been arranged that the agreement recently reached by France, Italy and Great Britain shall be consummated by those governments through an exchange of notes, and shall not modify the London Treaty. Neither the United States nor Japan will take part in drafting or signing the agreement.

Although the European agreement was sought for the purpose of bringing France and Italy together on naval questions, it is evident from the outline already made public that the three governments concerned have reached an understanding which is outside of the scope of the two naval limitation treaties. France is allowed a larger battleship tonnage than is allowed under the Washington Treaty, and a larger submarine tonnage than is allowed to Great Britain, Japan and the United States under the London Treaty.

The Franco-Italian agreement and Britain's reservations thereto are in reality merely a postponement of the vexed controversy between Britain and France over submarines. During the Washington conference France refused to accept an allotment of less than 90,000 tons of submarines, and Mr. Balfour declared that Great Britain would never concede such tonnage to France. The Washington conference deadlocked on that issue. Later, at the London conference, France remained obdurate on the submarine question, and the treaty left that question open. Now France is allowed 82,000 tons until 1936, subject to possible revision of the naval treaties at the general disarmament conference next year.

If no agreement should be reached next year, Great Britain reserves the right to build destroyers to offset the extra French submarine tonnage. Thus there is a strong prospect that the escalator clause of the London Treaty may be utilized by Great Britain, beginning next year.

VETERANS' LOANS.

World War veterans are taking advantage of the increased loan value of their adjusted compensation certificates as if it were a new bonus granted them by Congress. When the original bonus act was passed the loan feature was inserted to relieve veterans in emergencies only. No former service man could borrow on his certificate until it was two years old. The excitement and publicity which attended the enactment of the bill had subsided when loans became available. Consequently few veterans mortgaged the endowment given them by Congress unless it was absolutely necessary.

Under the new loan bill conditions are entirely different. Politicians who conceived the idea of stimulating business through the dissipation of veterans' insurance policies have advertised their magnanimity far and wide. Congress made the new loans immediately available so that veterans could draw upon their certificates while the excitement lasted. As a result thousands of veterans who are not in need of money are withdrawing the capital which the Government laid aside for the protection of themselves and their families in event of death or other acute distress. It is safe to assume that many are making applications under the impression that this is an additional gratuity from the Government.

The Veterans' Bureau had received 1,372,000 applications by March 14. It was estimated prior to enactment of the bill that approximately 250,000 veterans were in actual need of credit. Thousands of loans are being made to men who had not taken advantage of their loan privileges under the original statute. It is apparent from the rate applications continue to flow into the Veterans' Bureau that this adjustment of loan value constitutes a partial liquidation of the veterans' service certificates.

From the financial standpoint the situation is discouraging. In all probability the Government will be called upon to raise $1,000,000,000 to meet this obligation. The Treasury must supply some $500,000,000 during the coming month. Of course, the Government can expand its credit to this extent, but in doing so it will absorb large sums of capital that should be held in reserve for business expansion. Short term credit can be obtained at favorable interest rates because the demand for new capital in business is still weak. But over a long period this heavy drain upon the savings of the Nation will bring about higher interest rates for both the Government and private enterprise.

The worst effects of the new bonus loans will probably not be felt until Congress reassembles and attempts to work out plans to probable that heavier taxes will be imposed on the people next year as a result of this reckless spending. Members of Congress who consider their votes for higher bonus loans as political capital may find themselves in a sudden depression if they are forced to vote for higher taxes to save the Treasury from an overwhelming deficit.

BON VOYAGE!

President Hoover has embarked upon his first real vacation since he entered the White House and his first ocean voyage since his tour of South America while he was President-elect. For two years he has stuck close to the hardest job in the world. The country is pleased to see him take a rest.

In a twelve-day voyage the President will visit Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands. He intends to inquire into affairs of these territories, but he will not have much time to devote to them. The chief significance of the trip is that it will allow the President to relax in a tropical climate for a brief period. The country extends its best wishes for a happy voyage.

TO OUST SENATOR ROBINSON.

The latest development in the Democratic harmony program is a move to unseat Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, as party leader in the Senate. That faction of the party which follows Chairman John J. Raskob is displeased with the conduct of Mr. Robinson. On several occasions the Senate leader has demonstrated such independence that the Raskobites can not forgive him. Did he not go to London with a delegation of Republicans and help to negotiate a naval treaty? Did he not fail to make a political issue of that treaty after he returned? Who ever heard of such unreasonable conduct on the part of a Democratic leader?

Senator Robinson is blamed for having insisted upon a dole to the unemployed, and also for having receded from that position and negotiated a compromise with the administration.

All this could have been forgiven had not Senator Robinson upset the Raskob wet program at the recent love feast in Washington. Mr. Raskob came down from New York with a plan to change the party's stand on prohibition. Senator Robinson had the temerity to impose an objection. Can Democracy tolerate such conduct toward its largest stockholder?

What the Democratic party needs is a harmony test to which all leaders, self-appointed and otherwise, could be subjected. Any that failed to measure up could be relegated to the background. If one so much as mentioned that hated word "dry," he could be ousted without more ado. In the absence of any self-executing test of orthodoxy, Senator Robinson is to be punished for his temerity in advocating the dry cause by being eliminated as leader of his party in the Senate.

MAYOR WALKER ACCUSED.

A maelstrom of criticism and charges has broken about the head of Mayor James J. Walker of New York. The charges submitted by the city affairs committee to Gov. Roosevelt together with a demand for removal of the jaunty mayor are more serious than was expected. He is accused in ten counts of incompetence and ignoring corruption in the city government.

These charges result from the exposure of corruption in many divisions of New York's municipal government. Mayor Walker becomes involved because he stands at the head of a regime that has allowed conditions to go from bad to worse without doing anything about it. When corruption has been exposed by some outside agency the mayor has passed it by without any aggressive action to improve conditions. He has refused to take responsibility for conditions prevailing under his administration, and apparently no one has tried to hold him responsible.

Gov. Roosevelt has not indicated what action he will take on these charges. He has authority to suspend the mayor and order an investigation, or to ignore the accusations. In the case of District Attorney Crain he ordered an investigation on charges that seem less serious than those against Mayor Walker. The latter is accused of appointing unworthy men to office and keeping them there in spite of their negligence, with neglect of his duties and with stifling investigations into municipal corruption.

These charges give strength to the demand for a thorough investigation into New York City's government.

ELECTRIFYING FARMS.

One of the most interesting developments in the entire field of agriculture is the rapid installation of electric power on the farm. During the last six and a half years the number of farms served by electricity has increased more than 300 per cent. On June 1, 1930, 627,105 farms were using electric lights, churns, milking apparatus or many other appliances. It is estimated that nearly 10 per cent of all farms in the United States have access to electric power. At the rate power lines are being extended to rural areas it will not be many years before all the great agricultural regions will be amply supplied.

It is significant that the depression has not stopped this development. During the fiscal year of 1930 the number of farms using electricity increased 12 per cent. The answer of the efficient farmer to the depression is more efficiency.

Electrification of the farm will probably have two significant consequences, the first sociological, and the second economic. One reason for the large migration from farms to cities is the drudgery of farm life. Modern conveniences have not been available to rural residents. A great deal of the routine work is still done by hand, when it might be done cheaper and more efficiently by machinery and electric power. With the installation of power lines farm life becomes more pleasant, and the longing for the city subsides. Telephones, radios, automobiles and tractors likewise contribute to this feeling of contentment. These factors combined will be a powerful influence toward stabilizing rural communities as definite units in the social make-up of the Nation.

The economic results of farming with the help of power may be still more far-reaching.

The inevitable effect of machinery is to increase the efficiency of the farmer. Its use tends to put farming on an industrial basis. When great areas can be cultivated with the use of high-powered machinery the individual farmer toiling by hand can no longer expect to make profits. All tillers of the soil will be forced to employ power or to make way for others who do employ modern methods.

The logical result of this mechanization is increased production. The agricultural industry all over the world is producing surpluses. What will happen when machinery and power make it possible to pile up a greater excess of foodstuffs? If fewer people leave the farms and each is able to produce more an agricultural problem of unparalleled magnitude will be created. Either new markets will have to be found or the output will have to be curtailed.

These potential difficulties are not, of course, an argument against further electrification of the farm. Rather they emphasize the necessity of organizing agriculture on the sound basis of supply and demand.

OIL COMBINATION BARRED BY LAW.

Since the producers of oil from small and unprofitable wells in the Middle West failed to hold up Congress by means of Senator Thomas' filibuster they have sought to bring about a "voluntary" restriction of imports by agreement among the importers. The fact that the antitrust laws relate as strictly to importations as to combinations for restraint of production within the country appeared to have been overlooked until The Post called attention to the law.

Announcements yesterday indicate that officials have finally awakened to the seriousness of aiding in agreements that must inevitably have two results: First, the proposed cooperation of importers, however termed or however arrived at, is in reality a combination in restraint of trade; and second, the effect as surely would be to increase prices. Sensing this new situation, the Secretary of the Interior, who was sponsoring a meeting of independent oil operators here on March 30, announced that he had wired the independents that the meeting had been postponed until April 9 in order that he might study reports expected from a voluntary committee on petroleum economics.

A warning word was voiced through the Associated Press by Senator Borah, who said that agreements for reduction of domestic production or for cutting down imports were plainly in violation of the antitrust act.

The question raised by the so-called "independents" should be considered most carefully, not only because all consumers of oil and gasoline would be the victims of trade combinations, but also because paternal treatment of one unprofitable industry will precipitate untold demands from the inefficient elements of many other branches of industry.

Penn State College comes forth with a new method of taking the knock out of gasoline. What the country needs most is an antiknock remedy for progressive politicians.

Jim Couzens was among the irregulars who did not attend the Progressive conference. Jim would just as soon be a regular Republican as a regular Progressive.

RAILROAD VS. HIGHWAY

From the Wall Street Journal.

With the outcome uncertain and remote, issues are being joined in a swelling controversy between railroads and shippers over the demand of the former for Federal regulation of motor truck and bus lines on the highways. Railroad managers insist that regulation sauce for the goose is an indispensable dressing for the gander; shippers assert their right to decide for themselves what transportation diet is best for them.

Both parties concede the country's right to use and develop the cheapest transportation that engineering science affords. But railroad men protest that their subjection to multitudinous laws and regulations from which their formidable rivals are exempt is rank injustice, as is also the construction and maintenance of highways—the roadbed of the motor lines—out of public funds to which highway carriers fail to contribute in proportion to use.

This question is alleged subsidy—whether gasoline and other taxation does or does not exact just proportion of highway cost—is a question of fact and can in time be determined separately from that of the necessity of regulation in rates and services. At the present stage of discussion, it looks much as though privately owned passenger automobiles, through the gasoline tax chiefly, were bearing part of the roadway cost which should in fairness fall upon motorized common carriers. If that is so, the complaint of the railroads that their competitors are being subsidized is well founded.

As to rates and fares, regulation could alter the situation in favor of the railroads only in the event that the regulating authority found the charges of highway carriers below the inclusive cost of maintaining their service. In that event, and under a statute forbidding destructive competition from outside as it is now forbidden within the railroad field, uneconomic highway rates could be and presumably would be abolished. In asking this the railroads are asking that competition in rates throughout the whole land transportation machinery be as severely limited as it has already been among carriers by rail, which have now become only the larger part of that machinery. In a manner of speaking, the railroad plea is that highway carriers be restrained from working grave injury to an industrial facility which they can not replace.

Sooner or later the discussion will have to deal with the underlying basis of all regulation, namely, its usefulness as a determinant of reasonable charges and equality of service where the free play of competition is unavailable to serve those ends. It is axiomatic that where competition is most effective regulation is least required, so far as the level of charges is concerned.

But it is worth noting that shippers are now as fervidly against motor carrier regulation as they were for railroad regulation twenty to thirty years ago. Is it possible that they hope to preserve both regulation as we have it and free competition to serve their interests? That would be asking too much.

Speaking of Relief.

POST HASTE.

The President has taken on another newspaperman. How about giving the Secretary of the Interior one, just to check up on legal points and things?

Senator Walsh, dry victor again in Montana, is undergoing a little experience in Havana, probably painful, but a good campaigner must be informed on all sides.

How is prohibition going to be sidestepped in the campaign when 10,000,000 voters (we're conservative) talk about that every day and don't know or care anything about the power trust, whatever that is?

The startling thing about the news of Prince Ghika is not the good luck he had in his forced landing in West Virginia, but that a little country like Roumania could produce still another Prince Ghika.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE TRICKSTER.

He had wit and he was clever.
He was sharp and he was slick;
But no man can live forever
On the magic of a trick.
It may work when first you do it,
But in time the crowd sees through it.

He used up his best feat quickly,
So another one he tried;
There's no doubt he worked it slickly,
But it soon was put aside.
Victims prattling to each other
Forced him to attempt another.

Soon the word was passed about him:
"When that fellow near you stands
Never trust him, always doubt him,
Watch his fingers, watch his hands!"
Thus by warnings wise preceded
Cleverer, smarter tricks he needed.

What seemed easy now grew irksome,
But he scorned the ways of men,
Still believing he could work some
Bit of cunning now and then.
But, though cleverly he plotted,
Everybody had him spotted.

Times are tough and growing tougher,
Here he is at thirty-six
Just another clever duffer
Absolutely out of tricks.
And the years which lie before him
Hold a sorry prospect for him.

Judge a Captain by the Way He Treats Privates—Not the Way He Treats Generals.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

As the final test of character is the possession of authority, so the final test of good breeding and native decency is the opportunity to impose on the humble and the helpless.

The ordinary man thinks himself a good sportsman and a square shooter. He is decently polite to his associates; he pays his share of the check; he takes no mean advantage.

But how much of this apparent decency is due to the fact that he would be ridiculed or scorned or soundly thrashed if he behaved otherwise?

He doesn't know until he is tested. Before he boasts of his fairness and his breeding, let him test his metal by dealing with the helpless.

Under the most trying circumstances he is blandly courteous to the man who can fire him or whip him; but is he equally courteous, under circumstances as trying, to the man he can fire and the man he can whip?

Courtesy to Jack Dempsey may be prompted by fear; courtesy to servants and children and the helpless is prompted by good breeding alone.

They are rare who can possess authority without abusing it.

They are equally rare who give a square deal to those unable to require it.

Consider, for example, the husbands and wives who have the power to dominate.

One man, bound by love and chivalry, gives his wife the whole of his pay check or authorizes her to draw on his bank account. Because of his great desire to please her, he is in all matters subject to her will.

Does the possession of such power make her doubly considerate? Does she, being restrained and prompted only by her sense of fairness, try the harder to please him, to save his earnings, and to repay his goodness in kind?

She does if quality is bred in her marrow—not otherwise.

What of the husband whose timid wife is afraid to ask for money, much less demand it?

Perhaps you think the wife who must pilfer her husband's pockets for carfare is a fiction of the jokesmiths. If so, you are mistaken.

Countless husbands who call themselves square-shooters think all the money is theirs because they earn it. They forget that their wives, working for them at home, are partners who deserve half of the partnership income.

They give their wives nickels and dimes as they would give to a beggar—not because they think such unfairness is right, but solely because they haven't the inborn decency to be square with the helpless. They are brutal and dishonest because nobody has the power to make them be decent.

If you would discover the yellow streak in a man's soul, you needn't ask him to face a lion. Merely observe whether he kicks a friendless, cowering dog.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

What An Adept Sees.

Atlanta Constitution.

It is the opinion of Senator Jim Ham Lewis, as he takes possession of his chambers in the Senate Office Building at Washington, that next year is going to witness a very hot time politically.

He thinks differently from most wiseacres in that he sees "prohibition subordinated to economic issues." He predicts Hoover's renomination on a platform that will straddle the dry and wet issue, while "the Democratic convention will remit prohibition to the States on the theory that no repeal of the eighteenth amendment or the Volstead act is possible now."

Because of those foreseen actions, he believes there will be at least four presidential tickets in the field—regular Republican, regular Democrat, a fusion ticket supported by dissatisfied Republicans and Democrats, and a straight prohibition party ticket.

What Is a Progressive?

Louisville Courier-Journal.

The conglomeration of "Progressives" having foregathered at Washington and having expounded, expostulated and powwowed with all muscles off, the country is left as much as ever in the dark as to just what a Progressive is.

Pugnacity.

Milwaukee Journal.

Perhaps the Democrats put on that battle in the national committee just to show the world that they haven't lost a bit of their old fighting strength.

Agree to Disagree.

Syracuse, Post-Standard.

The nondescripts who, in Washington, call themselves "progressives" did not accomplish much except disturbance and delay in the session of Congress which has just closed. They have never been able to agree with anybody yet. And it is a fairly safe bet that they will not be able to agree among themselves. They propose to form no third party they say; that will leave them free to continue their trouble making in the parties to which, nominally they belong. United, effective action on the part of those who have nothing broadly in common except differences is a contradictory undertaking that at least is worth a laugh.

Why Drys Protest.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

Dry Democrats who passionately protest against the Democratic party in the next national campaign taking any attitude for the repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment insist that this would make prohibition the dominant issue, obliterating economic issues, which, they contend, afford the Democrats their only chance to win the next election. Senators Robinson, of Arkansas, and Sheppard, of Texas, lead in voicing this protest, and Senator Hull, of Tennessee, stressed it both at the meeting of the Democratic National Committee and at last week's conference of the Progressives in Washington.

And Raskob.

Des Moines Register.

He who would have the Democratic party stay neutral next year on prohibition must first defeat Al Smith.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Virginia Democrat Warns His Party That It Will Be Licked if It Takes Up Radicalism.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It would have been far better for this country and a just rebuke to Senator Norris and the other radicals who were blind enough to respond to his call if the deliberations of the so-called Progressive meeting recently held in Washington had been completely ignored by the press, just as they were ignored by the rank and file of the voters throughout the Nation. However, since as much publicity was given to this meeting as would have been accorded a gathering of men and women assembled for the purpose of discussing sound policies and remedies intended for the betterment of the people, it is perhaps not untimely to observe some of the comment that has since been made regarding the future plans of the two great parties.

Press reports indicate that certain of the so-called Democratic leaders are in full accord with the policies advocated at this recent socialistic meeting, and some of them have gone so far as to express their approval of a certain candidate for President in 1932. I should like to remind those so-called progressive Democrats who are clamoring for a Progressive candidate to head the Democratic ticket in 1932, that there yet remains in that party a great many more conservative men and women than there are of the type who subscribe to the socialistic schemes advocated by such men as Senators Norris and Borah, and for this reason will refuse absolutely to vote the Democratic ticket if its leader is chosen for no higher aim than to capture the votes of a few radicals who would disrupt the business of this country and insure us four long years of depression under such radical leadership.

I have been for a long time a great admirer of Gov. Roosevelt of New York, but if he is in favor of Government ownership and operation of the power industry of this country and other radical and socialistic policies advocated by Senator Norris, the Democratic party is in for one of the worst defeats it has ever received if he or any other candidate who believes in such policies is nominated for President in 1932.

Every thinking person knows that had the present administration advocated the exact policies outlined at this recent meeting, at least Senators Norris and Borah would have fought them bitterly. If the Democratic leaders now elect to hang on to the coat tails of these socialistic irreconcilables, I suggest that the party will be wasting time to hold a convention in 1932.

VIRGINIA DEMOCRAT.

Old Catholic Hymn Book Contains Many Songs Written by Protestants.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In Saturday's paper, under the head of "Early Methodist hymns are to be sung," it is stated that some of the Methodist hymns "are to be found in the hymn books of every denomination, except the Catholics." This exception is unwarranted in fact. The earliest hymn book for Catholics printed in this city in 1830, the only copy of which, in Washington, as I know, is in my library, contains a number of hymns written by Protestants. There is "Jesus, Lover of my Soul," by Charles Wesley; "Come, Holy Spirit, Heavenly Dove," Samuel Browne; "Welcome, Sweet Day of Rest," "Come, Sound His Praise Abroad," and "My God, My Life, My Love," by Isaac Watts; "Eternal Source of Every Joy," by Phillip Doddridge, all non-conformist ministers of England; "Children of the Heavenly King," by John Cennick, raised a Quaker, but later in life a member of the Church of England; and the Evening Hymn of Bishop Ken, Church of England, containing the well known doxology, "Praise God, from whom all blessings flow."

It is somewhat surprising that the hymns of Protestant origin should have been used in a Catholic hymn book one hundred years ago, but the fact remains. At the present time, and since the date of the Plymouth collection in 1856, when Henry Ward Beecher introduced hymns from Catholic writers, both have used the work of writers of the other faith.

Y. M. C. A. Offers Advice to Young Men on Financial Matters.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: This is an excellent time for any of the readers of your paper whose financial affairs are impaired to begin a plan of money management that will make their funds go farther. The national thrift committee of the Y. M. C. A., of which I am chairman, has prepared a new leaflet, "Where Are You Going Financially This Year?" This contains helpful suggestions on how to organize your money matters, giving suggested outlines on how to inventory your present stand and a suggested plan of income management for the year. It will be sent to anyone requesting same if he will send a stamp covering return postage.

Now is the time to prepare for prosperity. These books have helped thousands to master their money matters. The late Theodore Roosevelt said, "Thrift is common sense applied to spending."

Women Ready For Lecturers From Denmark

Miss Forchhammer and Mrs. Agnete Bertam to Be Entertained.

TWO of Denmark's most distinguished women, Miss Henni Forchhammer, who is visiting this country for the first time, and Mrs. Agnete Bertram will spend the week-end in Washington in the course of lecture tours in the United States. Miss Forchhammer, who will arrive tomorrow, is traveling under the auspices of the League of Nations Association.

They will be the guests of honor at a luncheon to be given Sunday by the Minister of Denmark and Mme. Wadsted. Tomorrow night the American Association of University Women will entertain Miss Forchhammer at a large dinner and Saturday she will be entertained by the women's joint congressional committee at luncheon.

That evening she will be the guest of Mrs. Raymond Morgan, chairman of the international relations committee of the American Association of University Women, at a small dinner.

Miss Forchhammer has been a delegate to the League of Nations since 1920. A member of the International Council of Women, she is president of the National Council of Women in Denmark. She will lecture in the large cities on the international movement of women, going from here to Chicago on Monday, on the first lap of her trip.

Mrs. Bertram, who hails from Copenhagen, is a notable authority on physical culture. In response to invitations which were extended her by leading universities, she came here to lecture on her physical culture system. To enliven the lectures, she brought a group of her best pupils from Denmark for practical demonstration.

Her first lecture and review will be given at the University of Pennsylvania tomorrow. Then she will come to Washington to give a talk at George Washington University. From the Capital she will go to the University of Chicago, the Western State Teachers' College, in Michigan; Syracuse University, Oberlin College and Miami University, in Ohio; Perdue University, the State University of Iowa and the University of Ravenna.

Guggenheims to Entertain Peruvian Ambassador.

The Peruvian Ambassador, Senor Don Manuel de Freyre y Santander, is the guest in whose honor Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim will entertain at dinner on Monday evening, at their home in Edgemoor.

The Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. Van Royen returned from New York last night after spending several days there.

The chief of staff of the Army, Gen. Douglas MacArthur, was the guest in whose honor Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Harry Bishop entertained at dinner last evening. The other guests were Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Charles H. Bridges, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Thomas Q. Ashburn, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Stephen O. Fuqua, and Brig. Gen. and Mrs. James F. McKinley.

The retiring Counselor of the German Embassy and Frau Kiep have returned to Washington after passing several weeks in Bermuda and the South. Dr. Kiep, who has recently been appointed Consul General in New York, to succeed Dr. Karl von Lewinski, will leave Washington shortly to assume his new duties. Frau Kiep will remain in Washington some time longer until arrangements are made for her to move to New York.

The Commercial Secretary of the British Embassy and Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart, who have been on a cruise on the Statendam, arrived in Havana recently.

Mrs. Newbold Noyes entertained at luncheon in the crystal room of the Willard yesterday.

The Woman's National Democratic club will entertain at a dinner tomorrow evening when the guest of honor and speaker will be Senator Tom Connolly, of Texas. He will discuss "Why Is the Democratic Party?"

The club will entertain at a buffet luncheon Monday for members of the club only when they will meet each other informally and discuss matters of interest to the organization.

The club announces a drive for resident members for the week beginning Tuesday, March 24 to Tuesday, March 31 inclusive. During the drive the clubhouse will be open every afternoon and tea will be served. Some of the board of governors and the membership committee will be present each afternoon.

The Princeton University Glee Club will give a concert in Washington on the evening of April 7 at the Mayflower.

Italian Ambassador To Sponsor Concert.

The Italy-America Society, of Washington, has sent out invitations for Sunday, March 29, at 3 o'clock, through the courtesy of the Italian Ambassador and Donna Antoinetta de Martino, a concert will be given at the Embassy by the young Italian pianist, Carlo Zecchi.

Signor Zecchi has recently returned from a tour of South America and Europe and this is his first year in the United States.

Walter Evans Edge, jr., son of the Ambassador to France and Mrs. Edge, who is attending school in this country, is in New York for a short visit with Mrs. G. Lee Parker at the Plaza. He is accompanied by his grandmother, Mrs. S. Lee Phillips.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Blaise de Sibour sailed yesterday on the S. S. Veendam for Bermuda, where they will be the guests of Mrs. de Sibour's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Douglas Robinson.

Mrs. Harvey Wiley will be the speaker at the tea on Sunday at the National Woman's Party headquarters. Her talk will embrace conclusions reached during a visit in Boston recently where labor problems regarding women workers in textile mills were under discussion by experts.

Mrs. Paul Myron Linebarger and the members of the district board will receive. Assisting will be Mrs. Jennie O. Berliner, Mrs. Andrew Stuart, Mrs. Lucy Cooper Shaw, Mrs. Rose Stetson, Mrs. Harry Moore Payne, Miss Faith Binkley and Miss Mabel Van Dyke.

Mrs. O. L. Veerhoff, president of the University Club, will be at the tea table, assisted by Mrs. Virginia White Speel. Members and friends are invited.

Capital Will Welcome Return of Garfias.

The appointment of Col. Carlos Garfias as Military Attache of the Chilean Embassy will be welcome to members of official circles, for it brings back to Washington a popular diplomat and his charming wife.

Col. Garfias and Senora de Garfias made Washington their home about three years ago, when the former held the post to which he is again to return. Col. Garfias, always fond of Washington, requested that he be ordered back to the post here and, with his wife and their three children, is expected to arrive here the latter part of April.

Col. Zorobabel Galeno, who will be relieved of his post by Col. Garfias, will leave with Senora de Galeno shortly after the arrival of his successor and will be on duty on the general staff of the Chilean war department.

A number of parties are being planned for Miss Nancy James Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Graves Adams, whose wedding to Mr. Walter Scott Watson will take place on April 8.

Miss Susan Kintner, daughter of Capt. Edwin Kintner, U. S. N., and Mrs. Kintner, who will be Miss Adams' maid of honor, will entertain at a luncheon and stocking shower on Saturday, April 4.

Miss Katherine Yates will give a tea in her honor on Saturday, and on April 6 Miss Katherine Stringer, another of Miss Adams' attendants, will entertain at a luncheon and shower for the bride-elect.

The Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde have reserved a box for the annual buffet supper of the Missouri Society at the Hotel Washington Saturday evening. The list of boxholders has been completed with Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Badgley, Mr. and Mrs. U. Bon Geaslin, Dr. Louise Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Gordon.

Polish Envoy Plans Masks With Dinner

Mr. Benda to Entertain at Party Given for Longworths.

Repeating the character of delightful hospitality, "embroidered" with originality for which they are famous, the Ambassador of Poland and Mme. Filipowicz will present a unique entertainment tomorrow evening following the dinner which they will give in honor of Representative and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth. To the delight of the guests and a large number of additional guests who have been invited to the embassy for the evening the Polish envoy and Mme. Filipowicz will introduce their famous countryman, Wladyslaw T. Benda, painter and illustrator, who will give a showing of the masks which have further increased his fame the last few years.

Mr. Benda will explain the design and construction of his masks and will show the various styles he has created and their uses, demonstrating the changes of expression produced by different inclination of the head and expression gained thereby from various angles.

Cleverly designed and executed the masks have found a place in some of the exclusive theatrical productions as they often are used in lieu of the ordinary make-up.

Although a native of Poland, Mr. Benda has lived in the United States for many years, now making his home in New York, where he ranks at the top of his profession. His student days, also spent in this coutnry, with the exception of courses taken in Cracow and in Vienna, Mr. Benda is thoroughly "westernized" and the idol of his fellow-craftsmen. He married Miss Cranfield, of New York.

The son of Jan Benda, of Poznan, Poland, pianist and composer, young Mr. Benda displayed a greater aptitude for painting than for music and early in life gained world-wide fame. He has been deeply interested in the history of masks, his research into the art having enabled him to design the finest the world has seen. The mask was primarily a ceremonial and religious object, its secular and festival use being secondary. The ancient Greeks were probably the first to employ them in their dramas.

Although best known for his masks, Mr. Benda is a widely known illustrator and painter of murals. In these last the artist shows the dramatic use of the masks to form grotesque pantomime.

Miss Jeannette Fuqua, daughter of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Stephen O. Fuqua, is in New York, where she will pass a week as the guest of Miss Morgan at the St. Moritz Hotel.

In honor of Mrs. Frank B. Noyes, chairman of the National Capital committee of the Garden Club of America, and the members of her committee a luncheon was given at the Colony Club in New York on Tuesday by Mrs. William A. Lockwood, president of the organization. The board of directors also were hostesses with Mrs. Lockwood.

Among the guests from Washington were Mrs. William C. Eustis, Mrs. Fairfax Harrison, Mrs. William Castle, jr.; Mrs. Charles D. Walcott, Mrs. Frederick Brooke, Mrs. Hamilton Kean, Mrs. Charles L. McNary, Mrs. Lasker Odio and Mrs. Thomas H. P. McKnight.

Mrs. William L. Thurber was hostess at a St. Patrick's Day bridge luncheon on Monday at her home on Quesada street in honor of Mrs. Henry Westmann, of Richmond, Va., who is the guest of Mrs. Robert Rausch.

Among those in the company were Mrs. William A. Wood, Mrs. O. W. Shumate, Mrs. Joseph Stanley, Mrs. L. D. Whitaker, Mrs. Robert Shorter, Mrs. E. Taylor Chewning and Mrs. Robert Rausch.

Members of the Washington Alliance of the Delta Delta Delta Fraternity will be entertained at tea on Sunday at the home of Miss Elizabeth Bailey, 2231 Bancroft place from 4 until 6 o'clock.

The assistant hostesses will be Miss Gertrude Van Riper, Mrs. Marion Brown and Mrs. Amos A. Steele.

Misses Howe Return From Mediterranean.

Miss Catherine Lay Howe and Miss Willard Howe have returned to Washington from a trip in countries bordering the Mediterranean. In Jerusalem they visited the Rev. Godfrey P. Hunt, formerly superior of the Franciscan Monastery and widely known in Washington. In Palestine Father Godfrey Hunt holds the title of Discretus Terra Sancta. The Misses Howe had an audience with Pope Pius.

The International Association of Art and Letters will hold a St. Patrick's Day tea on Saturday at the home of Mrs. Florence Jackson Stoddard. Mrs. Widdemar will be guest of honor.

$1,500 Bequest Made With Remainder to Be Held in Trust for Her.

The personal and household effects of Ida Husted Harper will go to her daughter, Mrs. Winifred Harper Cooley, according to the will, which was filed for probate yesterday.

The estate, the value of which was not shown, is to be held for the daughter for life, in trust. A $1,500 bequest is made to Mrs. Cooley from the surplus of the estate, and the remainder is to be held in trust.

Upon the death of Mrs. Cooley the rector of the Unitarian Church, at Sixteenth and Harvard streets northwest is to be given funds sufficient to erect a stone coping and iron fence around the church. Anything remaining is to be given the American Unitarian Association, of Boston.

G. W. Medical Society To Hear Boston Doctor

The fifth annual banquet and reunion of the George Washington University Medical Society will be held at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night at the Willard Hotel. Dr. Elliott P. Joslin, of Boston, will be one of the principal speakers.

On Saturday afternoon Dr. Joslin will speak to diabetic patients in Hall No. 1, George Washington University Medical School, 1335 H street northwest. Doctors, nurses and patients are invited to attend. The talk will be given at 2 o'clock.

Freyers Take Apartment in Newport, R. I.

Captain to Join Naval War College; Had Salon Here.

Capt. Frank B. Freyer, U. S. N., who is commanding the U. S. S. Trenton, has taken an apartment at 20 Greenough place in Newport, where Mrs. Freyer has been a greater part of the time since Christmas. Capt. Freyer will be a member of the next class at the Naval War College. When Mrs. Freyer gave up her house at 1771 Massachusetts avenue last October, moving with their daughter, Miss Engracia Freyer, to Stoneleigh Court for temporary residence, Washington friends feared the ultimate departure from the city of the popular hostess who had established a brilliant salon in the Capital.

Every one recalls the house with its rare and beautiful collection of ancient furniture brought from Peru where Capt. and Mrs. Freyer spent several years while the former was serving as a member of the American naval mission to that country. Paintings, rugs and objets d'art, which form the collection, have been judged among the finest in this country of Peruvian and Spanish influence. When the Freyers relinquished their house here the collection was shipped to Toledo, Ohio, where it was exhibited in the Toledo Museum with a collection of Spanish art. Mrs. Freyer's splendid collection occupied four rooms in the museum.

That Capt. and Mrs. Freyer ultimately will assemble their treasures in the Newport apartment is probable. Their daughter, Miss Engracia Freyer, who was a Washington debutante, was here earlier in the winter and took part in the good time enjoyed by the younger set in the Capital.

Cornell Alumni Club To Hear Thomas Boak

Thomas Boak, chairman of the committee on preparatory school relations of the Cornell Alumni Council will address the Cornell Alumni Club of Washington at a smoker at the Racquet Club, 1135 Sixteenth street northwest, at 8 o'clock tomorrow night.

Motion pictures of the Cornell-Pennsylvania football game last Thanksgiving will be shown. The following committee is in charge of arrangements: Lee Thompson, Allen Minnix, Charles Stott, Edward Duffies, Henry Gichner, John Gorrell, Bruce Warden, Charles Krey and Albert E. Conradis, ex officio.

It will be to your advantage to watch the Real Estate offers in Post Classified Ads.

Between-meal fatigue is a signal to eat something sweet

Thousands of workers and shoppers overcome fatigue in mid-afternoon by eating a food or drinking a beverage with sugar in it.

IT IS UNWISE to endure fatigue. For fatigue may develop into exhaustion, and when the system is in that state, it has virtually no resistance. Colds and other common ills are inevitable.

It is a good idea when you feel fatigued, to stop a moment and eat or drink something sweet. Such foods or beverages are quickly digested—the body is nourished, and the energy in the sugar is ready at once to renew vigor.

Appropriate sweet snacks can be had in soda fountain beverages, ice cream, candy and small cakes. For children coming home from school, sweetened and flavored milk shakes, also bread and butter sprinkled with sugar are recommended. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. MORE than half of the families in the National Capital possessed radio receiving sets on April 1, 1930, the Census Bureau has just announced in its preliminary count of radios in every State. With 53.9 per cent of the families in the District of Columbia so equipped, Washington sets the pace among the seven States in which receivers have been tabulated.

The National Capital is the only area so far to equal the estimated 50 per cent of radio-equipped families in the entire United States. Some of the Southern and Southwestern States have fallen far below expectations.

Out of the total number of 126,014 families, the District boasts 67,880 families which have radio sets. Probably no State in the Union, with the possible exception of New York, will exceed this average number of radio-equipped families, it is believed.

THREE, possibly four, more contemporary operatic works will be presented and broadcast by Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, if the program of "Wozzeck" proves successful.

The entire second act of this opus, by Alban Berg, will be heard tonight (WRC, 9:00 p. m.) direct from the stage of the Philadelphia Metropolitan Opera House.

"Later I plan to present, by television if possible, another operatic work," said Mr. Stokowski. "Television would enable me to offer opera, ballet and drama to all American radio listeners. Television, synchronizing impressions of eye and ear, would smooth the way for popularity of the works of present-day composers."

Grand Duchess Marie, of Russia, will speak today over WMAL, 11:45 a. m.

The semifinal and final rounds of the men's national indoor tennis tournament in New York will be described tomorrow afternoon and Saturday (WMAL, 4:45 p. m.).

"IS that Seth Parker's pencil on the piano?" asked someone in a New York studio recently.

"No, it's not chewed enough on the end to be his," replied Homer Rodeheaver, who had been with him during the broadcast.

The Van Heusen Hour will return to the C. B. S. wave lengths tomorrow evening (WMAL, 10 p. m.).

With the Washington Jenkins television station broadcasting for two hours each night, new studios are being installed in New York, where station WGBS, General Broadcasting System, and W2XCR, Jenkins Television Corporation, will broadcast sight and sound. It is expected experimental programs will be on the air about April 1, from 3 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon and for a brief evening period.

An experimental television studio operated by the N. B. C., located on the New Amsterdam Theater roof, is now in operation.

The first part of "Hamlet" will be presented in the Radio Guild tomorrow afternoon (WRC, 4 p. m.). The remainder of the play will be heard the following Friday.

THhe Dixie network of the C. P. S. whose formation as a supplementary adjunct to the parent organization was announced recently, will begin operation on regular schedule on March 23, with a special inaugural program. Station WBT, Charlotte, N. C., will serve as the key station for most of these broadcasts.

H. E. Keating, Palmerston North, New Zealand; Y. Meek, Ecole du Montcel, Paris, France; Bill Jacobs, Papeete, Tahiti, Society Islands; D. G. Reekie, Portsmouth, England, and Steve O'Brien, Company F, Third U. S. Engineers, Panama, are among the recent distant listeners to write to Station WBBM, Chicago. Both Mr. Keating and Mr. Jacobs complained of interference by a Japanese station near the WBBM band.

The National Farm and Home Hour will present Senator Arthur D. Capper tomorrow (WRC, 12:30 p. m.).

HAILING a taxicab the other day, Walter Damrosch gave the driver the address—711 Fifth avenue. The colored driver seemed to hesitate for a moment.

"That's at Fifty-fifth street," said Damrosch.

"I knows it. That's the National Broadcastin' Co., ain't it, Mr. Damrosch?" the driver asked.

"How did you know my name?"

"Oh, I hears you over the radio every week."

Nagging Wives a Tonic.

Paris, March 18 (U.P.).—The Academy of Sciences has received a copy of the thesis of Dr. Abdul Majid Shah, lecturer at the London College of Psychology, in which he argues that nagging wives are a tonic for husbands.

Jane Interprets the MODE

A street dress of navy blue wool trimmed in white pique, and a dark green tailleur trimmed in astrakhan. (Courtesy of Maison Heim, Paris.)

Paris, March 18.

I MIGHT as well tell you right now that evening skirts are on the way to becoming shorter. Oh, not this year or even next, but you just mark my words that the skirts of evening gowns are going to be shorter!

And I don't like it, not at all. After getting used to the air of loveliness and dignity that the long evening gown has given to all women, the short underskirt, of a transparent overskirt that continues to reach to the floor, grates harshly. Lanvin's evening gown, fashioned in six or eight godets which are allowed to hang open from half way up to the knees, is really far more acceptable.

Patou has some evening dresses or dinner dresses, if you will, which definitely end all around in a regular hem, which is four or five inches above the ankle. Molyneux has some various ways of subtly introducing shortness or glimpses of ankles or pretty legs, too.

I would like to predict that there will be shortness in certain types of evening gowns, mostly those known as Sunday night frocks, and dancing dresses long before our really formal evening gowns condescend to leave the earth.

Meanwhile, if you have good-looking nether extremities you may quite safely start hunting out dinner and dances dresses which will let the world have a glimpse of them!

* * * *

I tell you, you don't know the possibilities in a little bit of organdy these days! I didn't know myself, until I had seen some 30-odd collections of the Paris couturiers, and singled out all of the collars and cuffs and gilets and things they call "lingerie touches!"

Neither do you know what these lingerie touches do to a new dress, and can do to an old dress. What you have to do is send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet, and then you will find out and be able to profit by your knowledge!

Now there are a couple of practical yet smart dresses for you! The Maison Heim in Paris is quite famous for its ability to turn out just this type of dress or suit or coat, and deservedly so, I assure you.

The little dress on the left, of lightweight navy blue woolen touched in white pique, is simply charming, whereas the suit on the right of dark green trimmed in astrakhan is smart and interesting for the older woman.

I'm not going to tell you what I think of it, but since it was curious I'll tell you about it. I'm speaking of Jenny's amusing way of trimming a black silk afternoon coat with a rever of ermine on one side, white of course, and a rever on the other side of a fluffier fur in dark brown. Both revers went all the way down to the hem in front, and that, my darling, is my idea of carrying out the two color trimming idea a little more than maybe!

* * * *

Are you reading, regularly, Dare's weekly fashion letter in the Sunday Post. You should!

Au revoir!

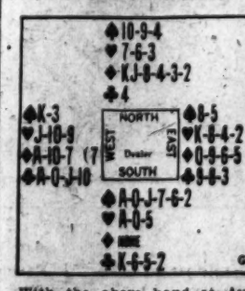
A BRIDGE CLASSIC.



With the above hand at Auction Bridge, South would bid one Spade which West would double or bid two Clubs. North would pass either declaration, and East would bid two Hearts if West had doubled. South eventually would get the declaration at three or four Spades and West undoubtedly would double if South was forced to go as high as four.

At Contract, South bid two Spades, West three Clubs, North three Spades, East passed, and South bid four Spades which West doubled.

West led the Jack of Hearts which South won and then realized that in view of the double, he was practically sure to lose one Spade trick in addition to one Heart and one Club. He must lose several more Club tricks unless he could utilize all of dummy's trumps for ruffing them. That being his object, he led a Club to trick 2; West played the Seven, dummy the Four and East won with the Eight. East then led a trump through the strong hand so as to decrease the ruffing power of dummy; and although South won with the Ace and subsequently ruffed two Clubs with dummy's two remaining trumps, he lost one Spade, one Heart and two Clubs and failed to go game. Was game there?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

This hand is a Bridge classic. When the situation first turned up, though not with the exact hands given above, Mr. R. R. Richards, of Detroit, created a play which since then has been repeated by one or two others.

To the second trick South should have led the King of Clubs which would have put West in the lead, and in a hole at the same time. If he led a trump he would shut out one dummy ruff, but would have sacrificed a trump trick in doing it. Any other lead he could make would give dummy a chance to ruff three Clubs and give Declarer the game.

If you do not see exactly how this works, place the cards on the table and play it out for yourself. The Declarer made game by forcing the West hand, which he knew had the good Clubs, into the lead. Of course if West had held the King and two other trumps, he could have reduced dummy's trumps without sacrificing a trump trick; but the chance of an even division of the adverse trumps was extremely good and in that event Declarer's play was bound to succeed.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"PISCES."

IF March 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 3:15 p. m. to 4:45 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 10:15 p. m. The danger hours are from noon to 2 p. m. and from 6:30 p. m. to 7:45 p. m.

The astrological signs of March 19 augur a day that will reward concentrated effort, and the problem, whether business or domestic, that has, so far, not yielded to treatment will solve itself. A day of fresh thought. Clouds of worry will disappear and the sun of clear thinking will shine.

Children born on this March 19 will have exceptional opportunities in life, and, provided the motive power is with them, will achieve success. Their home life should be ideal, as they will love with vigor, and will be considerate and thoughtful where those near and dear are concerned.

If March 19 is your birthday, your disposition is a happy one, and you radiate sunshine, wherever you may be. In your case, all is not gold that glitters, and you often feel depressed, as you are a victim of moods.

You never display this to others, however, and "sob-stories" when you might be telling one yourself. You possess a great sense of humor, and to you it is a saving grace. You are generous and sympathetic. Rather Bohemian in your tastes, but always avoiding any act that might cause scandal or gossip. It is written that, left to yourself, you would not make much of a success of any enterprise. However, with a partner of a serious nature, and who thinks more of the main chance, you might do that which you can not do "on your own."

Your companionship is sought by all. Your friendship is given to few. In your home life you find great happiness, especially if mated with one born in either the month of January or August. You are a great observer of humanity, and this interests you immensely. You do not crave excitement. On the other hand, you are not fitted for a life of monotony.

Successful people born March 19:

John Winthrop, colonial Governor of Connecticut.

Elias Hicks, clergyman Society of Friends.

John J. Knox, financier.

William Jennings Bryan, congressman.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Unforgivable Rudeness.

MEN must be scarce in some sections. Two girls, both in college, write to settle an argument. And reading their letter one can but marvel that girls who have enjoyed any measure of social advantage, even the measure proscribed by campus life, could remain so unsure of the status of woman and what she should expect of men. Is a college education of much use to a woman if it does not waken in her a sense of her own importance in the scheme of life?

Nan and Eve present a couple of campus heroes for your inspection. Read and marvel:

"Please settle an argument that has been raging for weeks. We are two coeds and recently went to a dance with two fellows we know well in classes, but had never dated before. They did not take us to the dance, but did ask us to go and arranged to meet us there. It was 20 miles from the campus, but they both work and said it would be more convenient than calling for us. We accepted the explanation in good faith and good sportsmanship—and met them at the dance. All evening they danced with any one they pleased and did not give us much thought, but we did not act peeved or show any resentment, so you can imagine our astonishment when we missed our escorts from the hall and found they had left without so much as bidding us good night—much less consireding our problem of getting home. We had missed the last bus. And had to take a milk train. Fortunately, another boy whom we had snubbed unmercifully, happened to get on the train and remained with us, taking us out to the dorm in a taxi.

When we told him about the boys having ditched us, he said they left early to have something to eat before train time. Now, evidently they had planned to take the earlier train—which we could have made, too, if we had not gone searching for them, but had deliberately left us flat while they ate lunch. We feel they are beneath contempt and that other girls, after what they did, should regard them as we do. To our surprise the others contend that there was no obligation upon the boys and that if they suddenly wished to eat they had a perfect right to do so without "being hampered." One girl even said our attitude was "barbaric." We believe the "barbaric" attitude was on their part.

These boys are very popular and are down to be invited to a dance we are giving. We are on the committee. We want them excluded. The girls will not agree. They even declare we are poor sports and when we "fell down" on a date want to make every one suffer. Who is right?

NAN and EVE.

P. S.—Your answer is to decide the matter of whether they are invited to the dance.

Marvelous thing—education. And these young women arguing for bigger and better boors in the drawing room are supposed to be ready to take their places in a woman's world. If Nan and Eve had publicly disgraced these savages, there would still have remained the obligation of the man toward the woman. It would be outrageous to include such men in any selected list of civilized people. Nan and Eve are right. The other girls are to be pitied. The college they attend should be converted into a good boiler factory.

YOUR NAME WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, PH. D.

AN interesting example of how easy it is to be deceived concerning the origin of one's family name is involved in the explanation of the name "Sully." On the several persons bearing that name whom this writer has met or with whom he has correspondence every one has insisted or at least felt strongly that "Sully" was of French origin and that all families of that name were related to the distinguished Sullys of France. It would be rash to deny such relationship in any one case unless one were able to accurately trace to an English source the family tree of the person in question. However, the great majority of Sullys who come from England owe their name to a corruption of the English place-name "Sudeley." "Sudeley" is the modern form of the old English "Suthleah," which means "the south lea." Most English families which bear this name have received it because of a former residence in Sudeley (now called Sudeley Manor), a village in Gloucestershire. This place-name was often written "Sully" in old English records. The name occurs several times in the Hundred Rolls. Three of the persons mentioned in that document are Bartholomew de Sulley, Henry de Sully and Walter de Sully. When "Sully" is of French origin it is derived from the Latin "Sulliacum" meaning "the estate of Sulla." "Sulla" is a Latin personal name which was first given as a nickname. It is derived from the Latin noun "sura" meaning "the calf of the leg."

The personal name "Corinne" is ultimately of Greek origin and means "the maiden."

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

PLEASE tell me the best time to separate phlox. Should they be divided into a number of small pieces and planted a few inches apart? MISS CORA P.

Phlox are propagated by dividing the clumps. This should be done once in every three years in the fall or in early spring before growth has started. Divide a large clump into four pieces and plant these 1 foot apart each way.

Can a climbing rose bush that is two years old be transplanted and if so when may this be done? Should a hydrangea arborescens grandiflora be pruned in spring or fall? When is the best time to prune a syringa? ALMA T. H.

Yes. Transplant it in the fall or early spring. The hydranges you mention blooms on wood made the same season. Therefore, it must be cut back in the spring. A syringa must be pruned immediately after it has finished flowering.

Please tell me how to care for an aspidistra? Is it necessary to have worms in the pot of this plant? Must it be transplanted every August? AGNES R. I.

The aspidistra requires plenty of fresh air, some sun and sufficient moisture to keep the soil from becoming dry. Spray the leaves every time you water the plant. August is a good time to transplant an aspidistra, unless the plant requires more root room, there is no necessity for repotting. Worms are not necessary, though the only harm they sometimes do is to collect about the opening in the bottom of the pot and thus interfering with the drainage.

Please tell me whether a St. Bruno's lily planted in the fall will bloom the following summer? A friend told me I should set these bulbs in the ground in the early spring. LOTTIN T. W.

Roots planted in the fall should become well established and bloom the following summer. Spring-planted roots often fail to bloom and occasionally disappear for a year after planting. Such a condition need cause little worry, as sooner or later they will appear, and when they are once established they are dependable and persistent bloomers.

Is it true that, when watering a gloxina, water must never be permitted to touch the leaves? MRS. JOHN D. L.

It is best never to allow water to come in contact with the foliage of the gloxinia.

I have a large bed of lilies-of-the-valley which, due to a building operation, must be transplanted this summer before August. When will be a good time to do this work? Also, would you advise me to use much bonemeal in the soil in which I shall plant these bulbs? ELSIE D. T.

Better move the bulbs in July and be very generous with your bonemeal.

Please tell me how often to pinch back coleus in the house. My plants are tall, spindly looking affairs with only a few top leaves, and even these are small. MRS. JOSEPH T. L.

In the house coleus do not have to be pinched back as often as they do in the open, because they do not grow as rapidly. I should pinch the top out of your plant at once and give it some bonemeal or, better still, some liquid manure.

Savory Cheese, Serving 4.

1 cup of cheese, cut fine
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1 cup soft bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
2 tablespoons finely chopped onions
2 tablespoons chopped green peppers
¼ cup chopped pimientos
2 egg yolks
2 egg whites, beaten

Melt butter and add flour. Blend well and add milk and cook until thick, creamy sauce forms. Stir constantly. Add cheese, crumbs, seasonings and egg yolks. Beat two minutes. Fold in egg whites and pour into shallow, buttered baking dish. Set in pan of hot water and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Serve in dish in which baked.

Sour Cream Lemon Cake.

2 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 cup sour cream
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons grated lemon rind
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
2-3 teaspoon soda.

Mix sugar, milk and butter. Boil gently, stirring frequently, until soft ball forms when portion is slowly poured from spoon into cup of cold water. Set aside 20 minutes. Add vanilla and beat until creamy. Frost top and sides of cake. To smooth frosting after it has been placed on cake, use broad side of a knife which has been dipped in warm water.

To cut angel food or sponge cakes use a stout white silk thread and it will not crush the cake.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

SPRING MENINGITIS.

THE most threatening epidemic disease now on the horizon is epidemic meningitis. While influenza attacks more people, it destroys very few lives and leaves very few after effects in these recent years. Besides, it is fading out, whereas epidemic meningitis is due to hang on until May. Of those who have it in plain, definite form, one-half or more die and of those that recover many lose the sight of one eye, or the hearing, or have some other lifelong, serious after effect.

Furthermore, epidemic meningitis has been steadily increasing for several years. The disease prevalence always fades away to a trace in the summer, but it comes again with the bad weather of winter and reaches its peak in March or April and those peaks get higher each year.

The American Journal of Public Health gave most of a recent number to epidemic meningitis. Reports of its prevalence came from New York on the East, San Francisco and the Pacific fleets of passenger ships on the West, and many places in between. The journal gave editorial commendation to a method of prevention, which has stopped three epidemics in Greece since 1927. It consisted in treating carriers of Meningococci by means of a vaccine. This vaccine was prepared from a culture taken from a case of meningitis. This culture was killed by heat and then injected. Two injections, at seven-day intervals, suffice. The vaccine is made fresh from a case occurring in the particular epidemic.

The method of prevention advocated by Dr. J. C. Geiger has been long in use. It consists in separating people and the prevention of crowds and crowding. Where possible, everybody sleeps in a separate room kept well ventilated during times of epidemics. Living in barracks and dormitories is done away with whenever possible. If men must sleep in dormitories the beds are placed as far apart as possible, and screens separating beds are used when this is possible. The heads of sleepers must be as far apart as can be managed. Crowding in mess halls, picture rooms, dance halls and playrooms is prohibited. Ventilation should be kept good.

Since cold, rainy days cause the disease to spread, ventilation and crowding are especially watched on such days. The ordinary nose spraying methods do no good. The best treatment is the proper use of serums.

W. H. D. writes: I have gone without a hat for more than a year, through rain and snow storms and hot and mild weather. I am a boy 19 years old, strong and healthy, except for a head cold I always seem to have.

1. Is it dangerous or unhealthful to go without a hat?
2. Is it possible that I have head colds as a result of going without a hat?
3. Do you advise one to wear a hat? I detest hats and caps.

REPLY.

1. As a rule, I don't think it makes any difference.
2. That may be the cause. I do not know.
3. I do. It is a good rule not to run away from anything you detest. On the contrary, it is a good rule to head into the things you detest.

More strange adventures in a full color page every Sunday. By Phil Nowlan and Dick Calkins

We had escaped Nudek's wrath by shooting to the roof on "lifters" and disappearing into a pipe-like tunnel.
Below and far behind Nudek faced Ardala and Kane accusingly—
No Atlantian carries a rocket pistol! I begin to understand!
But we are Atlantians!
Yes—see how white our hair is—and everything!
Your hair is only bleached!—Your whiskers are false!—You are thieves!—You escaped from the slave rooms!
We took a chance—we lost that's all!
No no—no! Don't send me back there!
But Wilma and I, not knowing we were cleared of suspicion—
We've gone miles through this pipe!
It must lead somewhere!—Come on!

Buckley Witness, Lawyer Collapse

Prosecutor Breaks Down in Courtroom as State's Ace Is Committed.

Detroit, Mich., March 18 (A.P.).—Prosecutor Harry S. Toy collapsed in the courtroom today after Fred Tara, the State's star witness in the trial of Ted Pizzino, Angelo Livecchi and Joe Bommarito for the slaying of Gerald E. Buckley, had been arrested for contempt of court because he would not submit to cross-examination.

Tara had identified Pizzino as one of the men he saw enter the lobby of the LaSalle Hotel early on the morning of July 23, at a signal from a man he said was Livecchi, leaving a minute later with guns in their hands. This morning, Tara declared on the stand he was "protecting his own life from now on," and refused to answer questions of defense counsel designed to reveal the witness' own police record. After he had attempted vainly to get the witness to answer defense questions, Recorder's Judge Edward J. Jeffries ordered Tara held for the duration of the trial and his previous testimony stricken from the record, unless he undergoes cross-examination.

Taken from the witness stand to a cell in county jail, Tara collapsed.

Georgia Convicts Save Family From Flames

Atlanta, Ga., March 18 (A.P.).—Shackled convicts stirred from the dull routine of prison toil here today and played heroes' roles in rescuing a sleeping family from a burning house.

Five prisoners and a guard were en route to work on a road when the convicts noticed flames issuing from the building and roused the occupants. Then they turned to salvaging the household furniture.

Rotary Club Gives Capital Sale Talk

One Group "Knocks" City as Second Uses Methods to Increase Population.

A demonstration of the right and wrong way to "sell" Washington to visiting Rotarians was given yesterday by two groups from the Washington Rotary Club at a luncheon of the club at the Willard Hotel.

The demonstration, directed by Oscar R. Evans, chairman of the vocational service committee, was witnessed by nineteen members from other cities. The "players" were Arthur C. Christie, William F. Ham, Dr. Frank W. Ballou and William John Eynon at one table, and William L. Radcliffe, Charles J. O'Neill, L. Bert Nye and George H. O'Connor at another table.

The first group welcomed the visiting Rotarian assigned to their care, and entertained him with informative conversation. Those seated at the second table disregarded the presence of the guest, forcing him to introduce himself, and then indulged in knocking Congress, the school system and Washington in general.

Shots Fired in Riot Over Dock Strike

100 Marchers Arrested Face Charges in New Orleans After Battle.

New Orleans, La., March 18 (A.P.).—Scattered pistol fire answered police interference today when 200 colored strikers attempted to march on the docks where they were formerly employed as longshoremen.

The shots went wild, but several persons were hurt in fistic encounters. More than 100 colored men in the marching group were arrested.

Several tentative charges of assault and battery and shooting at with intent to kill were entered against them. Later three white men, giving their names as Frank Hymel, Ham McIlthiel and Henry Mayfair, were arrested.

Dirigible Returns to Lakehurst.

Lakehurst, N. J., March 18 (A.P.).—The United States Navy dirigible Los Angeles returned to its hangar at 6:30 o'clock tonight, after a day's training flight over Newark, New York and Philadelphia.

$4,000 Lost in Holdup Of Gambling House

New Orleans, La., March 18 (A.P.).—A race track betting establishment in the heart of the business district was raided by bandits today and yielded $4,000 cash loot to four masked men who fled to the woods and escaped.

The four flashed guns on the crowded second floor shortly before the arrival of an armored bank truck with cash to pay off bets. They forced 40 men to lie face down on the floor, while they took the cash from Emile Durreau and Elton Scotts, the proproprietors. None of the patrons was molested.

Three Die and 8 Hurt As Fire Destroys Hotel

Lynn, Mass., March 18 (A.P.).—Three persons lost their lives today as fire destroyed the Lenox Hotel with an estimated loss of $165,000. Eight persons were injured, while a score missed injury or death by narrow margins.

Three bodies recovered were identified as those of Arthur Harvey, hotel clerk; Arthur N. Young, 46, of St. Albans, Vt., and Martin Travers, of Lynn.

Surplus of Help Still Noted Here

Majority of Manufacturing Firms Running Fairly Good Schedules.

A surplus of help among salesmen, clerical and professional workers, building trades men and unskilled laborers was still apparent in Washington and vicinity last month, according to the Industrial Employment Information Bulletin made public yesterday by the United States Employment Service.

Considerable unemployment among hotel and restaurant workers and domestic help was also noted. The bulletin reported that the employment service and the various welfare organizations were successful in finding employment for many idle workers in February. It was estimated that highway contracts let here will provide work for 2,000 additional men.

"The majority of the manufacturing establishments reported their usual forces engaged on fairly satisfactory schedules," the bulletin stated. "The hotels and retail establishments recalled a number of workers that were released following the Christmas season."

SUNSHINE MELLOWS

Heat Purifies

The advice of your physician is: Keep out of doors, in the open air, breathe deeply; take plenty of exercise in the mellow sunshine, and have a periodic check-up on the health of your body.

LUCKIES are always kind to your throat

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why the "TOASTING" process includes the use of the Ultra Violet Rays. LUCKY STRIKE—made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED"—an extra, secret heating process. Harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos are expelled by "TOASTING." These irritants are sold to others. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

ST. LOUIS BUILDING SHAKEN BY BOMB

Times Reporters Take Lift to Cover Story in Own Bailiwick.

St. Louis, March 18 (A.P.).—A powerful bomb explosion which wrecked the eighth floor of the Buder Building downtown here today, was attributed by police to enemies of Beverly Brown and "Gullie" Owen, operators of a race track information service, who have been bondsmen for members of the Cuckoo gang. No one was injured.

Brown and Owen have offices on the seventh floor and the bomber or bombers placed the explosive directly above the place where, they calculated, the offices of the two men were located. But a variation in the seventh floor plan prevented damage to the offices of the bondsmen. Damage to the building was estimated at $30,000.

The blast wrecked the offices of the Sandusky Cooperage & Lumber Co., and broke through the floor into the offices of the Harry Benjamin Equipment Co., scattering files and showering the room with plaster.

The first two floors of the building are occupied by the St. Louis Times, and reporters of that evening newspaper merely took the elevator for their most important assignment of the day.

The blast tumbled down corridor walls on the eighth floor, reduced furniture to splinters, shattered numerous windows in the building and showered passersby below with glass.

Both Brown and Owen figured in the questioning of Edward W. Foristel, lawyer, in connection with the return to the Grand National Bank here, of $822,000 worth of stolen bonds. Foristel was said to have been on a motor ride with the two men a year ago, and later was warned by friends that they might be the center of shooting.

Police said it is rumored in handbook circles that several attempts have been made recently by several men to thrust themselves into the Owen-Brown partnership, which has an exclusive franchise to operate the racing news service for bookmakers in the city.

Driver Exonerated In Woman's Death

Mrs. Richardson's Fatal Injury Held Accident by Coroner.

Testimony that Mrs. Electa Richardson, 87 years of age, had stepped into the path of the automobile of Henry W. Heine, yesterday resulted in exoneration of the building contractor of blame in her death.

According to the testimony before a coroner's jury, at an inquest held at the District Morgue by Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt, it was raining at the time of the accident, Sunday night, and Mrs. Richardson was carrying an umbrella which probably obstructed her vision.

Funeral services were held for Mrs. Richardson yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the chapel of Joseph Gawler's Sons, with the Rev. J. T. Sticknall, pastor of the Chevy Chase Methodist Church and the Rev. E. O. Clark, pastor of the Chevy Chase Baptist Church, officiating. Following the services the body was sent to Ortonville, Minn., for interment tomorrow afternoon.

Police Judge Isaac Hitt Sworn In for New Term

In a courtroom adorned with flowers Judge Isaac R. Hitt yesterday was sworn in for his second term as a Police Court judge. The appointment runs for six years.

The other Police Court judges and all of the court attaches were present when Chief Clerk F. A. Sebring administered the oath of office. Judge Hitt was reappointed several weeks ago by President Hoover and his nomination met with no opposition in the Senate.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

ALTHOUGH we have launched no campaigns looking to the removal of any Jimmie Walkers or anything like that, it is comforting to note a considerable support of such modest reforms as we have, from time to time, advocated in our artless, carefree way.

For example, Miss Jennings' valued applause of our suggestion that the screen trailer at this stage of the game is a pain in the neck, no less, is heartening and, among numerous others, Mrs. Edwin Hadley Smith's alignment on the side of Mr. Thomas W. Gilmer and this column in the matter of displaying film casts of character is apparently typical of the popular view of this vexing problem. Says Mrs. Smith, in part:

"I wish a marked copy of your article could be sent to some of the heads of the companies in Hollywood, so they will devise some better way of letting the public know the cast of characters of their pictures than they are using at present. Formerly, the introducing of each character, at the time he or she came into the picture, in the days of the silent screen, was the best way of all. I am confident that the public would welcome the brief appearance of each actor in character before the picture started, either a silent closeup or a word or two spoken. I do wish something could be done about it, as the present method is exasperating."

It may not be too much to hope that all this dripping may in time wear away the rock of which the producers' resistance to public preference evidently is composed, or that eventually the producers will hear about the huge success Radio achieved by following precisely the practice Mrs. Smith proposes in their production of "Cimmarron," which, as you may have heard, scored a passable triumphant everywhere it was shown.

Personal to Mrs. Smith: My deep gratitude for your kindly recollections of the "Saturday Nighters" and the pleasant words about the column, both extremely gratifying.

A new regime takes over the reins at the Fox Theater tomorrow. David Idzal returns to the managing directorship after an absence of approximately a year; Edgar Waite, after a few days of warming-up exercises, takes command of the advertising and publicity department, and down in the theater Bob Hamilton succeeds Bob West as guest organist.

Mr. Hamilton is a reputed master of the triple manual, double-pressure keyboard who comes to the Fox Wurlitzer from a like position at the Fox house in Philadelphia, where he has been as much of a favorite as Bob West is here and in Brooklyn, according to all report.

Speaking of publicists and one thing and another, Sam Rubin, former cymbal twanger for the Loew houses in Washington, writes from Detroit, where he is serving in a similar capacity with the Publix Michigan Theaters, Inc., that as far as he is concerned they can give the town back to the Indians—haywire, horse feathers, applesauce, flat tires, lost balls and many more words to the same general effect.

What! With Windsor just across the river? Quit your kidding, fellow.

Owing to the Burton Holmes Travelogue booked for a later hour in the afternoon, today's matinee performance of "Trader Horn," at the National, will begin at 1:30 o'clock, instead of the 2:30 customary on other week days.

The fortnight's engagement of "Trader Horn," by the way, will be terminated by two Sunday performances, at 3 and 8:30 p. m. Thanks to the vigilant showmanship of "Mike" Cullen, Loew's resident manager in Washington, and Dewey D. Bloom, proxy for "Bill" Ferguson, of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, the local run of the African travel-romance has constituted one of the most successful road-show engagements in the history of the cinema in the Capital.

Since you ask, next week's attractions in the downtown, first-run houses will be as follows: Columbia, Mary Pickford and Reginald Denny in "Kiki;" RKO-Keith's, Robert Ames, Mary Astor and Ricardo Cortez in "Behind Office Doors;" Earle, Ralph Forbes and Loretta Young in "Beau Ideal" and Lita Grey Chaplin headlining the vaudeville; Rialto, Ernest Schoedsack's production of "Rango;" Palace, Lawrence Tibbett and Esther Ralston in "The Southerner" and Ted Claire in "Rolling Along" revue; Fox, Warner Oland in "Charlie Chan Carries On" and Fanchon and Marco stage revue; Metropolitan, Richard Dix and Irene Dunne in "Cimarron."

George Werner, formerly with the Fox Film Co.'s Washington branch exchange, and Jack Weiss, transferred from a distanct post, are new additions to the Warner Brothers' executive staff, with offices in the Earle Theater Building. That is, comparatively new.

Sol Rosnick, for the past several years manager of United Artists' local branch film exchange, has been appointed to the position of Southern division manager for the same company with headquarters in Atlanta, Ga. Mr. Rosnick will assume his new duties on or about March 25, according to present plans.

Nate Sauber has been transferred back to the Washington office of Universal from the Middle West. Mrs. Sauber, the former Miss Marguerite Clarkson, has also returned to her secretarial duties in the Warner Brothers offices.

As I understand it, the rest of the boys haven't opened their mail yet!

Prisoner Assault Charges Studied

Police Trial Board Takes Under Advisement Case Against Patrolman.

Charges of assault on a prisoner filed against Joseph H. Dellinger, Eleventh Precinct policeman, were taken under advisement by the Police Trial Board yesterday. Robert E. Lynch, assistant corporation counsel, told the board he would study the numerous legal points brought out at the hearing and make a recommendation.

Oscar Reba, jr., 19 years old, appeared as a reluctant prosecution witness at the insistence of the board. He had previously said that he wished to avoid pressing charges. He declared that the policeman attacked him at Nineteenth and Q streets southeast, January 14, after arresting him for speeding.

E. Russel Kelly, attorney for the defense, declared that the policeman had been convicted on an assault charge by a Police Court jury, but that the judgment had been held in abeyance. This, in effect, he contended, nullified the conviction and insisted that Dellinger should be restored to duty.

District Supreme Court Appoints 2 New Clerks

The jury commission was given an additional clerk yesterday when the justices of the District Supreme Court appointed Frank T. English, of Silver Spring, Md., at a salary of $2,500.

Assignment Commissioner Frederick C. O'Connell was given a clerk in another appointment made by the justices. A. Rulon Jackson, a clerk in the Bureau of Investigations of the Department of Justice, was named. He will draw a salary of $1,800.

NEW BANK CHARGES ARE LAID TO WOMAN

Dora L. Davis, of Laurel, Md., Is Indicted Again on Eight Counts.

An indictment containing eight counts was returned by the grand jury yesterday following a presentation to it of charges against Dora L. Davis, of Laurel, Md., former employe of the Second National Bank. The woman was acquitted of a similar charge in Criminal Court last night and the new indictment covers alleged irregularities of a later date than the one mentioned in the former paper.

Four of the counts relate to alleged embezzlements and the others to so-called spurious entries in bank books. The charge was made that when a deposit was given in on a certain date, the teller would appropriate the money to her own use and would, on a later date, put through a deposit slip to cover the amount said to have been taken by her on the previous date.

The sums and dates mentioned in the indictment are: April 30, 1928, $900; October 15, 1928, $23.75; May 16, 1929, $184; and May 31, 1929, $189.50. The alleged false entries, according to the indictment, were on May 11, 1928; October 23, 1928; May 22, 1929; and June 8, 1929.

Boy Is Injured by Truck.

Like Steel . . the best Gasoline is Blended

IN the roaring inferno of the furnace, many elements blend into varying grades of steel. Iron, manganese, silicon, carbon, all join to produce a steel to suit a purpose.

In making gasoline, too, blending is necessary to produce a fuel to fit your motor. No one grade of unblended gasoline possesses a wide enough range of qualities to stand alone.

So CONOCO blends three types into a perfectly-proportioned whole . . . Natural Gasoline, for quick starting . . . Straight-run Gasoline, for surging power and long mileage qualities . . . Cracked Gasoline, to contribute anti-knock properties.

CONOCO

True, any refiner could do this. Just as any amateur can blend the same elements found in secret formulæ for making steel. But in the oil industry, as in the steel business, there always are headliners . . . a select few whose products are eminently better.

CONOCO is definitely a member of this group in the refining of gasoline . . . because CONOCO has men who know how. And it's all in knowing how!

We pride ourselves on this balanced-blend triple-test gasoline. Won't you try it today? Just ask for CONOCO . . . wherever you see the CONOCO Red Triangle.

ARGUMENTS DELAY LINGLE TRIAL JURY

Attorneys Discuss Rules on Witnesses; Only Four Men Selected.

Criminal Court, Chicago, March 18 (A.P.).—A review of arguments on the credibility of witnesses was presented today before prospective jurors in the trial of Leo Brothers for the murder of Alfred ("Jake") Lingle, newspaper reporter, shot down in a pedestrian tunnel last June 9.

The men who are defending Brothers on the charge of being the reporter's hired assassin repeatedly introduced into their questioning of veniremen mention of the gain which might come to certain witnesses because of their testimony.

Prosecuting attorneys who are attempting to prove it was Brothers who fired the shot into Lingle's back agreed with the defense that the jurors must determine for themselves whom they were to believe on the witness stand.

"But you will remember," added Assistant State's Attorney Wayland Brooks, "that while you are considering motives you must also consider the motive of the defendant, in case he takes the stand."

Defense Attorney Tyrrell Krum had mentioned the $55,000 reward offered by Chicago newspapers after the Lingle slaying as one of the things that should be included when determining a witness' credibility.

Louis Piquett, another defense attorney, sought to test the memory of one of the veniremen by asking him where he was last Christmas. Judge Joseph Sabath ruled with the State that such questions had no place in the examintaion of jurors.

The slow progress today gave little hope of getting a jury before the end of the week. Four jurors were accepted and sworn in yesterday.

Chile Denies U. S. Envoy Right to See Prisoner

Santiago, Chile, March 18 (A.P.).—After being refused permission to see Larry K. Bethune, an American citizen being held incommunicado in jail in connection with a $2,160,000 suit, Ambassador William S. Culbertson today cabled to the State Department in Washington regarding his next step.

Bethune, a citizen of Atlanta, Ga., is general manager in Chile of the General Motor Acceptance Corporation, against which Brusadelli and Manni, distributors, have brought suit for $2,160,000. They claim this represents commission due them for distributing 5,500 automobiles. The American firm denies any contract with them.

2 Will Seek Graf's Mark In World-Circling Plane

New York, March 1 (A.P.).—A veteran Seattle air circus pilot and a wealthy New York aviation enthusiast plan to take off on an around-the-world flight within a month and hope to break the record of the Graf Zeppelin, the A. T. W. Corporation announced today.

Clyde E. Pangborn, of Seattle, and Hugh Herndon, Jr., son of a New York investment banker, received today at Wilmington, Del., the unnamed ship in which they plan to hop off as soon as the weather permits. It is a Bellanca J-6 with a single 300-horsepower whirlwind motor.

Alfonso Commutes Rebel's Death Penalty

Madrid, March 18 (A.P.).—Demonstrations by students and others throughout Spain preceded the commutation by King Alfonso today of the death sentence imposed yesterday on Capt. Salvador Sediles.

The king granted the commutation over the telephone from London, where he is visiting, in a conversation with Prime Minister Aznar. Capt. Sediles was the only one of 77 military men, accused of participation in the December revolution, to receive the death sentence from the Jaca court-martial yesterday.

Robbery Is Denied As Swan Returns

Third Suspect in McCrory Case Is Brought Here From Baltimore.

The third man of a quartet sought in connection with the daylight hold-up of a McCrory 5 and 10 cent store at 416 Seventh street last August was returned to Washington yesterday for questioning. Alton Swan, 33, who was arrested at his home in Baltimore Tuesday night, changed his mind about fighting extradition and agreed to come to the Capital with Detectvie Sergt. Thomas Nally.

Two men have already been convicted of participation in the robbery, while a fourth is still sought by police.

Swan denies any part in the hold-up. Earl Flory, 34, assistant manager of the store, and Harvey W. Smith, 20, a messenger, who were held up while taking $1,200, a day's receipts, to a bank, will be called upon in an attempt to identify Swan as one of the quartet which robbed them.

Venders of Songs Indicted by Jurors

2 Charged With Selling 3 Copyrighted Pieces on Capital Streets.

Disappearance from the streets of those raucous-voiced young men who hawked "song sheets" was explained when the District grand jury yesterday returned two indictments charging venders with violation of the copyright laws.

The venders sold song sheets containing words to "Three Little Words," "Betty Co-ed" and "Baby's Birthday Party." The first named was copyrighted August 21, 1930, by Harms, Inc.; the second by Carl Fischer on August 1, 1930; and the last by Famous Music Corporation on October 20, 1930. The corporations have the exclusive right to vend these songs, it was stated.

Abe Schrott, who conducts a news stand on Vermont avenue near H street, was indicted for selling the words of the three songs to Daniel W. Briscoe on January 19. Joe Anabation, of H street near Ninth street northwest, is alleged to have sold the same three songs to Gordon W. Riel on December 29, 1930.

Magician Accuses Kinsman of Attack

Thurston's Daughter May File Divorce Action Against Husband.

Detroit, March 18 (A.P.).—A warrant charging Harry Harris, son-in-law of Howard Thurston, magician, with assault and battery was issued today on complaint of Thurston, who accused Harris of attacking him in a hotel here last night.

Thurston, who is 62 years old, repelled the attack, he said, with tear gas from a special fountain pen. Harris was taken to a hospital. Mrs. Thurston said that her daughter, Jane, who is appearing with her father in a theater here, will start action for a divorce from Harris.

Arkansas Banker Gets 5 Years.

Little Rock, Ark., March 18 (A.P.).—Robert C. Gordon, Helena banker, pleaded guilty in Federal court here today to charges of embezzling bank funds and was sentenced to five years in the Atlanta Penitetniary.

BALTIMORE'S ERRORS PRESENT GAME TO NATS, 6-3

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, March 16.—It seems improbable that any promoter will ever reach the heights of goofiness which Charlie Pyle achieved with his two transcontinental limping races unless Mr. Pyle himself should bob up again with his breezy optimism to organize a transcontinental peanut roll or wheelbarrow push, or some similar election bet event.

Mr. Pyle claims to have been cured, but I doubt that this resolution can be taken as final. A man who has run not one but two foot-races along the public highways expecting to make money out of them probably can not be cured of what ails him. The first one could have been set down as an error. He has been sighted in Chicago lately, and I am told that he had that curious look in his eye and a recurrence of that strange confidence which got him into trouble before.

"My only trouble," Mr. Pyle said, "was that I was ahead of the rest of the country. I staged my panic two years before Hoover had his."

It will be closer to the facts of the case, however, to say that Mr. Pyle was about 50 years behind the procession. His ideas were so old that they were new to his generation, for the files of the sporting papers of 50 years ago are shot through with news of competitions of the goofy type, and challenges to the world. There were none, however, quite as goofy as Mr. Pyle's transcontinental limping race along the public highways, an arena which precluded the collection of gate receipts.

Mr. Pyle 50 Years Late

There were hearty challenges from obscure hard-boiled-egg eaters in Kansas and Minnesota, or persons claiming to be the champion ten-penny nail driver or the champion coffee drinker or horseshoer or oyster opener, and, evincing an early competitive interest on the distaff side, there were several ladies who offered to meet any lady in the world at catch weights for the sock-darning and mitten-knitting championship of the world for a reasonable side bet.

All these events, it will be perceived, were such as could be held behind turnstiles so that the customers, if any, could be properly assessed, as were the early precursors of Mr. Pyle's transcontinental limping race, the 6-day and 30-day go-as-you-please races, both afoot and aboard the high-wheeled bone-shakers.

It seems rather absurd now that any one ever hoped to rise to the financial and social eminence of a world champion in such a sport as eating the hard-boiled egg or driving the ten-penny nail, but on closer examination I am not sure that these specialties were any more foolish than some others. A man becomes a celebrity nowadays because he has been very successful in hammering other men on the liver or on the back of the head in a ring, certainly a useless occupation. Or advertising agencies pay him huge sums for the sound of his voice on the air because he has learned to hit a certain type of ball better than any one else can with a certain set of implements.

Celebrities Nowadays Common

Sport is pleasure and amusement, not necessarily athletic, and it is intrinsically no more goofy to derive amusement from the spectacle of a field of serious-minded citizens drinking cups of coffee competitively than to gallop weary miles over a private meadow for an occasional glimpse of Bobby's Jones' right elbow through a tiny rift in the crowd. Golf, such as Mr. Jones plays, bespeaks a great strain on the nerves, but so does competitive coffee drinking.

Long ago, there were religious zealots claiming to be champion extemporaneous out-loud Bible lectors. A survivor of this class appeared at Dayton, Tenn., during the celebrated Monkey Trial, wearing placards fore and aft, proclaiming himself to be the out-loud cover-to-cover Bible champion of the world. This type of competition might be said to have the virtue of piety and therefore to be a far more laudable form of sport than any other, for those who like it, and there are many such along the route of the tent-show revivalist as it is.

But here again, it will be seen, the competition is one which can be held with benefit of the box office. As to the side bets I suppose there would be some moral compunction. Perhaps there would be some adaptation of the certificate or profit-sharing schemes which are used at the horse tracks in States where gambling is held to be immoral.

A form of sport which has not been adequately exploited is the doodle-bug fight, a pleasure of childhood's happy hour in some parts of the South. The doodle-bug is a white insect of most unprepossessing mien which bores a hole in the earth about the size of the ferrule of an umbrella. The children dip broom-straws in mud and then push them down the holes. The doodle-bug, which is not overly bright, grabs the straw and is drawn up and deposited in a small ring scratched on the surface of the ground. Another doodle-bug is then placed in the ring and the children bet on their respective doodle-bugs, which then fight to the death rather than leave the ring.

Doodle Bug Neglected As Sport

A doodle-bug which is champion of a back yard might be considered a more distinguished fighter than any heavyweight champion prize fighter that ever lived. They fight to a finish and they fight all comers, and as there are plenty more doodle-bugs where those came from, their young managers, of both sexes, do not conceive or look for soft touches for their doodle-bugs.

None of these sports is so goofy as Mr. Pyle's transcontinental limping

UNLIMITED DIVISION.
Capital Awning Aces, 38; Pontiacs, 18 (first round).

THE reign of the Eagle A. C. over girls' basket ball in Washington and vicinity was further established last night in the District of Columbia A. A. U. championships, but only after a stubborn battle which saw the clever Warrenton, Va., sextet go down to a 31-to-22 defeat in the tournament that The Post is sponsoring for the fifth consecutive year.

The game marked the tournament debut of the Eagles, who won the crown last year, and the champions were forced to stage a spectacular rally to beat Warrenton in the final half.

Serious contenders in two smaller classes turned up in the games last night with the Mount Rainier 115-pounders eliminating Good Shepherd, 20 to 13, and the Jewish Community Center 130-pounders beating the Powhatans, 37 to 11.

Warrenton Girls Unable To Hold Big Lead.

In a thrilling contest which all but saw the 1930 senior girls' champions, the Eagles, go down to a decisive defeat, the Warrenton (Va.) girls finally fell before the concentrated last-ditch drive of the Eagles, and the decision went to the defending champions by the score 31 to 22.

It was a beautifully played game, made spectacular by the fact that the Warrenton girls leaped in to a 10-to-0 lead before five minutes of the game had ticked away, and let, 12 to 5, at the end of the first quarter. Continuing their splendid play, with the Misses Brown and Tyler finding the cords to good effect, the Virginians led, 16 to 13, at the half.

But here they were checked by the suddenly reactivated Eagles. Miss Alexander began to connect with the basket in good style and was given good aid by Miss Ewers. The guarding of Misses Limbach and Kubel tightened up, and in short order the Eagles were sailing out in front and finishing with something to spare.

Mathias Brothers Shine For Mt. Rainier.

Close guarding was the order of the night in the 115-pound division game in which the Mount Rainier tossers defeated Good Shepherd, 20 to 13.

Scoring 12 of his team's 13 points, Wonenberger, center for Good Shepherd, kept his team in the game throughout the first three quarters, the end of which found the Mounts leading by the score 15-11. But no one player could contest the combined forces the Mounts put into play in the final section, as the Mathias brothers, Chokolakis and Zigler, began shooting in earnest.

It was an interestingly played game throughout, both teams showing surprising passing and guarding ability.

Optimist 100-Pounders Oust Arcadians.

Doubtless one of the features of the evening play was the 36 to 26 victory of the Boys Club Optimists over the Arcadians. These two 100-pound teams went through their paces like miniature veterans, passing, shootin, guarding, blocking and dribbling the ball in great fashion.

The Optimists, having in their midst a brace of eagle-eyed forwards, Kraft and Vermillion, found themselves fairly comfortably ahead at all stages of the game. The score stood 8 to 4 at the quarter and 25 to 10 at the half.

Kurland, of the losers, put up a great exhibition of shooting, scoring 16 points, but had not capable backing on the part of other forwards.

J. C. C. 130-Pounders Title Threat.

A worthy contender for the 130-pound title was revealed last night as the Jewish Community Center outfit, boasting of several Business High School experts, moved into the second round at the expense of the Powhatans, 37-11.

Little had been heard of the 130-pound J. C. C. outfit, but last night their status as a "dark horse" was definitely established as they passed and shot their way into the win. Leon Esenstadt, who gained fame with Business during the high school series, as Bobby Lucas' running mate, came through with 12 points to lead the way in high scoring.

The Powhatans put up a game fight, but lacked players who could shoot with any degree of consistency.

Bud Taylor Cleared Of "Stalling" Charge

Philadelphia, March 18 (A.P.).—"Bud" Taylor, Terre Haute featherweight boxer, disqualified in the eighth round of his bout with Lew Massey, Philadelphia, Monday night for not trying, was today exonerated by the boxing commission of the implication of stalling. He presented the commission with X-ray photographs to show both his hands were injured during the early rounds of the bout. Taylor and Massey, whose purses were held up pending today's hearing, were paid in full.

6 Box Seats Still Await Fans in Post Contest

THE warm weather yesterday turned the thoughts of baseball fans to the day when the supposedly strengthened 1931 Washington Ball Club comes up out of the South for its premiere at Seventh and Florida Avenue.

Some time ago The Post tested the lore of the fans by inviting them to write in to the "Baseball Editor" their opinions of the Nats' 1931 prospects who would be in the line-up. Six box seats for the opening game were the reward for the best letter of not more than 250 words, and still are. The response has been enormous, causing the "Baseball Editor" to look about for an assistant.

Fan Names Opening Line-up

A typical letter was received yesterday from Charles Mintzell, of 1321 Fairmont street northwest. Mr. Mintzell picks the following batting order, for the opening game: Myer, S. Rice, Manush, Cronin, West, Judge, Bluege, Spencer, and Crowder. He also gives his reasons, a fact which counts heavily in the final summing up.

Mr. Mintzell believes that "balance" is going to give Washington the pennant. The team is strong in all departments, with crackerjack reserve material not overlooked. Hargrave, Harry Rice, Bolton and Harris are going to be the pinch hitters, while Kenna and Dashiell will be shipped back to the minors for more seasoning, he says.

Do you agree with Mr. Mintzell in all angles? Let's hear from you fans who are vociferous in your opinions during the games. Write on only one side of the paper.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

BEETHOVEN'S hearing was affected by an illness when he was 27 years old. At the age of 49 he was totally deaf. Many of the composer's greatest works were produced after he became deaf. Friends often found him playing a pianoforte that was badly out of tune and in soft passages he sometimes did not make the notes sound at all. When his two greatest works, the Ninth Symphony and parts of the Missa Solennis, were produced at a concert in 1824 they were received with a storm of applause, but Beethoven heard nothing. One of the singers turned him around so that he could see the audience.

Strange as it seems, the range of the tide on the Nova Scotia shore of the Bay of Fundy is five feet greater than at any place directly opposite on the Maine-New Brunswick shore. This is due to the deflective force of the earth's rotation, and, incidentally, would seem to prove that "sea level" is not level.

In New England the bobolink has a brilliant coat of black and white and yellow and is known for its sweet song. Here the bird proves that it is an asset to the community by feeding on harmful insects. But from South Carolina to Florida it is a menace and is called the "Rice Bird." Its bright colors have been replaced by a drab brown, it no longers feeds on insects but destroys the rice fields, and it no longer sings. Here it is hated and is slaughtered in great numbers.

TWO SEEDED NET STARS BEATEN

Rockafellow Defeats Sutter; Aydelotte Ousts Boussus.

NEW YORK, March 18 (A.P.).—Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, and Christian Boussus, of France, second-seeded favorites on the American and French lists, respectively, were both eliminated today in the men's national indoor tennis championship tournament in straight sets.

Herbert L. Bowman, of New York, fifth seeded American, was also eliminated in straight sets, while Jean Borotra, leading French contender, advanced to the semifinal in a two-set victory. Pierre Landry, of France, and Berkeley Bell, of Austin, Tex., seeded third on their respective lists, both advanced, as did William Aydelotte, of New York, sixth seeded American.

Rockafellow Qualifies To Face Borotra.

Perrine G. Rockafellow, of the New York Athletic Club, a seasoned indoor player, created the first upset of the day by defeating Sutter, 6—1, 6—2, and going into the semifinal round with Borotra as his opponent in the upper half. Rockafellow turned in a fine exhibition, as Sutter's game was below par.

Boussus was upset by the brilliant performance which Aydelotte, national indoor champion in 1928, gave in their third-round match in the lower half. Aydelotte trailed the Frenchman by one game up to the twelfth game of the opening set, when he won his own service to make it 6—6, break through Boussus' service at 7—6 and clinch the set on his own service, 8—6. The victor then romped through the second set, 6—2.

Landry Shows Form In Beating Bowman.

Landry took only two sets to eliminate Bowman, leading throughout and showing good form. The score was 6—3, 6—4. Bell had an easy time with E. N. Brandt, of New York, winning at 6—1, 6—2. Frank Shields, leading American favorite, drew a day of rest and will meet Landry in one of the lower half quarter-final matches tomorrow, the other being between Bell and Aydelotte.

The quarter-final round of the doubles was played today, with all of the four seeded teams entering the semifinals, to be held tomorrow. Borotra-Boussus, Sutter-Landry and Aydelotte-Rockafellow teams advanced in straight-set wins. The Berkeley Bell-Merrit Cutler team, second-seeded American pair, was extended to three sets.

7 RUNS IN 5TH BY BRAVES WIN GAME

Losing Streak Ended by 9 to 3 Triumph Over Reds.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 18 (A.P.).—The Boston Braves broke their losing streak here today by pounding out a 9 to 3 victory over Dan Howley's Cincinnati Reds. The tribe, in the seventh, scored 7 runs on 5 singles, 3 passes, a sacrifice and an error.

Worthington started the Braves off in the third by clicking off a home run with one on. Cunningham and Seibold pitched well for Boston as did Kolp, who relieved Johnson in the Cincinnati box after the wild seventh inning.

Cub Cast-Offs Win For Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, March 18 (A.P.).—Doc Farrell, a Cub castoff, turned against his old mates today by singling in the ninth inning and giving Los Angeles a 10 to 9 victory in their exhibition game.

The Cubs led 9 to 7 as Los Angeles came to bat in the ninth, but the Angels tied the score and then won out when Farrell rammed a single that let Schulte, another Cub castoff, trot home.

San Antonio, Tex., March 18 (A.P.).—Mel Ott and Sam Leslie continued to pound the ball in the Giants practice today, showing the way in slugging as the New York rookies beat the regulars 6 to 5 in a six inning game that was punctuated by many halts to correct errors on the part of the youngsters, Ott clouted two home runs and Leslie, holding first base while Bill Terry is down with the Fischer Solved for 3-Run Lead in First by Baltimore.

Fly Ball Misjudged by Manush Goes for Home Run.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

GULFPORT, Miss., March 18.—Today's third game of the Washington-Baltimore series was a case of give and take, with the Orioles doing most of the giving and the Nats taking the decision, 6 to 3.

Until the seventh round it looked as though Manager Johnson's gang was due for another licking, as the Orioles took a three-run lead in the first, and it was not until the "lucky frame" rolled around that the Johnsons could wipe out this margin. Once on an even footing, however, they took advantage of two Baltimore errors in the next inning to jump into the lead and canter home in front.

Except for the successive miscues charged to Second Baseman Heffner and Left Fielder Solters in the eighth, it was a well-played game. Five double plays were turned in, three by the Nationals, while Boyle contributed a running somersault catch to rob Manush of a hit with the sacks loaded in the second, which was a masterpiece and which easily earned him fielding honors in the game.

Double Play Attempt Goes Awry.

The Birds had another twin killing in sight in the eighth, when the first of the errors which gave the Nats the game was contributed. Harry Rice had led off by coaxing a pass and Manush followed with a hot grasser to Heffner. The latter pegged badly to Sand, covering the bag, and this gave both runners life. Joe Cronin then followed with a liner single to left, and when Solters let the ball past him three runners tallied and the ball game was over.

An uncharged error by Heinie Manush had helped the Birds to their early lead. After Sothern had singled and stolen in the first and Hauser had walked, Stoner lashed an ordinary single to left. Manush first misjudged the ball and the sphere sailed over his head for a circuit clout.

It looked as though the Nationals would at least knot the count in the second, as they twice had the runways loaded. With one gone, singles by West and Bluege and Hargrave's walk filled the bases and one scored on Fischer's helpful out. Myer singled another home and a walk to Sam Rice again populated all of the sacks. This put it up to Manush and it was here that Boyle made his great circus catch.

Cronin Drives in Tying Run.

There were few threats thereafter. In the seventh, a walk to Myer, Manush's scratch hit and Cronin's real safety knotted the count and then came the big Baltimore blowup which decided the issue.

Johnson called on only two pitchers. Carl Fischer starting and doing well. He allowed but three hits in five frames and struck out six. Lynn Griffith yielded three hits in as many frames and got in action in time to take credit for the victory. Beryl Richmond, a southpaw; Harry Gumbert and Luther Roy hurled three frames each for the Orioles.

Myer and Cronin, with two safeties each, were the Nats' hitting stars.

Dave Harris Shines In Batting Drill.

Manager Walter Johnson excused his regulars from practicing at Biloxi this morning, in view of the fact that they were due to see action in the afternoon game, the result being that it was "rookie day" on the home field—and maybe the youngsters did not get a kick out of holding the spotlight all by themselves.

It gave them an opportunity, by the way, of getting in more stick practice than they have had since the training season opened and several of the rookies looked exceptionally good. Sheriff Dave Harris was the hero of the drill when it came to long-distance slugging, as he connected for several beauties, one of his drives hitting the left field fence on the first bounce.

As this barrier is a mile, more or less, away from the plate, and as it never has been hit by a drive in flight, the Tarbeel's clout was a real one.

No game is scheduled for the Nationals tomorrow, but they will see action in four contests in the following three-day span, the Spring Hill College nine being due at Biloxi Friday, with the Louisville Colonels showing up for a brace of contests Saturday and Sunday. On this latter date, the "Yannigans," managed by Patsy Gharrity and "secretaried" by F. Riley Baxter, will journey to Mobile to meet the town's Southern Association entry.

Pilot Johnson has not used any of his regular pitchers except Lloyd Brown, in games yet, but plans to call on three of them, Irving Hadley, Fred Marberry and Al Crowder this week-end.

CARDS BEAT YANKS WITH 7 IN 6TH

Ruffing Is Hammered for 5 Hits, Erasing New York Lead.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 18 (A.P.).—One big inning, in which seven runs crossed the plate, was enough to give the St. Louis Cardinals an 8-to-5 decision over the New York Yankees and break the American League Club's winning streak, which had extended to six games.

The Yanks held a one run margin going into the sixth—the frame in which the National League champions pounded Charlie Ruffing for five hits and seven runs. Henry Johnson, who started for New York, let the Cards down with five hits and one run in five innings. Sylvester Johnson, Tony Kaufmann and Delano Wethercll, who divided the Cards' hurling duties, were touched for eleven hits, two of which were singles by Babe Ruth. One of the Cards' ten hits was a home run by Ernie Orsatti.

Browns Beat Phils In 11 Innings.

Winterhaven, Fla., March 18 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Browns took the Phillies into camp today, 8-5, in eleven innings. Gray started for the Browns and held the Nationals to three runs in the seven innings he worked. Ace Elliott pitched five innings for the Phillies and held the Browns to one run.

St. Louis made three in the ninth off Benge and Stoner and three in the eleventh off Schessler. The Phillies tied the score in the ninth with two runs off Stiles, but were helpless thereafter.

BOWIE MEET ADVANCED ONE DAY TO AID CHARITY

New Opening Race Date March 30

Each Track to Stage Day of Racing for Unemployed.

$74,000 Fund Seen; Schedule Revised by Commission.

BALTIMORE, March 18 (A.P.).—The Eastern racing season will open at Bowie, Md., on March 30, aday earlier than scheduled, it was announced today, under a revision of dates made necessary by an agreement to devote the proceeds of four extra days to the relief of unemployment.

The charity relief plan suggested by C. Edward Sparrow, Baltimore Sun turf writer, was agreed on by the representatives of the four major Maryland tracks, Bowie, Havre de Grace, Pimlico and Laurel and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie.

The proceeds of the four days are expected to net $50,000 for the relief fund and Gov. Ritchie has asked the Legislature to permit the waiving of the $6,000 State fee on these days, this adding an additional $24,000.

New Dates Listed.

The new dates are:

Bowie, March 30-April 11, and November 16-26; Havre de Grace, April 13-25, and September 21-October 3; Pimlico, April 27-May 9, and November 2-14, and Laurel, October 5-November 1.

The added days are Bowie, March 30; Havre de Grace, September 21; Pimlico, November 2, and Laurel, October 5. The result will be that three usual open days in the fall will be abolished.

The days of which the proceeds will go to the charity fund are Bowie, Monday, March 30; Havre de Grace, Monday, April 13; Pimlico, Monday, April 27, and Laurel, Monday, October 5.

By the agreement Maryland this year will have 96 days of racing, instead of the 92 originally granted by the State Racing Commission.

The New York racing season opens April 18 at Jamaica.

Western High Leading Junior Rifle Series

With another series of five matches yet to be shot, the Boys' Rifle Team of Western High School is holding a 60-point lead over the rest of the field in competition for the special trophy to be awarded by the National Rifle Association to the team having the highest aggregate score at the conclusion of a serise of three biweekly junior rifle matches.

Western's aggregate for the two completed series is 2,840. Warren Harding High School, of Bridgeport, Conn., winner of the first series, has an aggregate of 2,580 points, and Fresno High School, Fresno, Calif., a total of 2,460. Western finished second in both series.

Henry Pike, of Western, was one of the seventeen boys who made perfect scores in the last match of the second series.

Tennis and Golf Added By Takoma High School

At a meeting of the Varsity Club of Takoma-Silver Spring High School yesterday, tennis and golf were officially added to the curriculum of spring sports. Managers Stacy and Whittlesey will handle the new sports, respectively. An elimination tennis tournament will be held, while the golf team will be chosen from the six lowest scores turned in during the impending qualification round, to be held at Rock Creek.

Baseball and track, the major spring sports, began in earnest yesterday under the direction of C. J. Bride, athletic director of the school. The track team, 50 strong, will enter the Montgomery County scholastic meet, to be held May 2 at Rockville.

Sixteen games will be booked by the diamond squad. Ten regulars are again on hand.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—St. John's Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

ST. JOHN'S PARK features the Daytona Beach Purse for 2-year-olds at 4 furlongs today. The Havana filly, BUTTER BEANS, winner at this track her first start, should repeat. But she will meet stronger rivalry today, as SUNTICA will contest all the ground. CHINKEE has not been under colors for several weeks but always showed speed at Miami and will figure prominent in this race.

FIRST RACE—JACK CRAIN seems best in the first race for platers. He is the class easily. SANCTION will be the contender. BUMPY showed awakening last out and is dangerous if the right money shows up. This contingency is hardly probable against Jack Crain.

SECOND RACE—PEACE DOVE stands out in the second race, having won from Anchtol Lass last out. PATRICK CALLAHAN should be the contender. BOBBY FOLSOM, second to Vendee a few days ago, should be in the money.

THIRD RACE—SARATOGA MAJE should win back in the third. VALLEY is dangerous. She has won twice recently and was scratched yesterday for the engagement today. SUN MEDDLER is best of the others.

FIFTH RACE—The fifth race, the New York Evening Post Purse, has the largest field on the program, at a mile and a sixteenth, for older horses. KAVANAUGH is selected to win. HONEST JOHN appears next best, with LONDON ROCK having a chance.

SIXTH RACE—MUFF seems much the best in the sixth race. Beaten as the favorite several times, running third to Remus last out, MUFF is overdue, and it appears any price would be a good one in this field. MADELON has been running well and may be the contender. BLUE LAW seems to have never recovered his form, but should be in the money anyway.

SEVENTH RACE—HIGHLAND FLING should win right back in the seventh race at a mile and a furlong. KING LO, which has been racing in Havana, should be the contender. ABELLSDALE may worry these two a great deal if he runs to his best form, and should be in the money anyway.

$45,000 COLT TO RACE AT BOWIE

War Heads Stable of 24 Sagamore Horses Due for Meeting.

MRS. MARGARET AMORY, New York and Baltimore sportswoman, who races under the nom de course of the Sagamore Stable, is sending 24 horses, including four Preakness and Kentucky Derby candidates, to Bowie for the eleven-day spring meeting of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association, beginning March 30.

Trainer Bud Stotler, who wintered Mrs. Amory's string at her $500,000 plant in the Worthington Valley, Md., will move in here within a few days.

Heading Stotler's list is War, one that cost $45,000 as a yearling, and who came with a rush toward the close of last year. This son of War-Milky Way has been breezing in a manner as to suggest he will be seen under silks early in the meeting.

Backgammon, Rip Van Winkle and Soupcon are other 3-year-olds in the Sagamore barn that are sure to cut quite a dash during the racing at this point.

Ten 2-Year-Olds In Consignment.

Ten 2-year-olds comprise the younger division of the Sagamore Stable. They claim Broadway Jones, North Star III, Campfire, Harpenden, Sweep, Tryster, Infinite, Bucephalus and Messenger as their sires, and the help around the barn are anxiously awaiting a chance to see them perform against the best C. V. Whitney and other sportsmen are making ready for the campaign here.

Among the older horses that Stotler will bring here are Balko, The Heathen, property of C. H. Pierce, of Baltimore; Coin Collector, Al Green, Encounter and The Spare. It is a well-balanced string and Freddie Hopkins, who hopes to top the list of winning trainers with the C. V. Whitney horses, will find Stotler a worthy rival.

Johnny Bejshak, first-string rider for the Sagamore Stable, who spent the winter at his home in Montreal, is back again and will accompany Stotler here. V. Glorioso, an apprentice, will do the bug riding for the stable. This lad showed several nice races last fall and Trainer Stotler has high hopes for the young Italian this season.

Capt. Walker to Race 20 Horses.

Capt. P. M. Walker, of Virginia, will campaign 20 horses here. He has had a dozen on the grounds for several weeks in charge of Tom Lynn, while the remainder he brought up from a winter's campaign in Florida.

AVERAGE OF STOCK SALES SHOWS GAINS

Advances in Utilities and Industrials Offset Fall of Rail Shares.

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—Buying of the industrials and utilities outweighed selling of the rails in today's stock market, and closing prices represented a large balance on the upside.

An unexpected rise of $1 a ton in Carnegie Steel Co.'s second quarter quotations for bars, shapes and plats coincided with the cheerful reports of the weekly steel trade reviews and an improvement in electric power output figures.

A market that had evidently been waiting for some favorable news quickly set about retrenching the small losses suffered during the morning's downward drift, and with the steel issues as leaders the list made its best splurge in the last hour. There was, however, little change in the professional character of the trading, and the day's sales of 2,000,000 shares were the smallest since the first week in February.

Early Rail Losses.

The recovery was sufficiently vigorous to reduce or eliminate early losses of 1 to 5 points in the rails, a decline that carried New York Central, Norfolk & Western, Nickel Plate, Lackawanna, Reading, Frisco, Katy and St. Louis Southwestern to new lows for the year. But Central turned a drop of 1¾ into a net gain nearly as large, and Atchison, after dipping more than 2, closed 1¾ higher. Union Pacific regained much of a 3¾-point loss.

U. S. Steel, American Can, Westinghouse, General Electric, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, several merchandising issues and a number of the favored utilities were up 1 to 3 points at the finish, with the maximum improvement in Bethlehem and American Telephone. Allied Chemical, Johns Manville, Case and Eastman Kodak rallied 4. Fox Film, whose directors retained the dividend, gained 2 and lent strength to the other amusement stocks. General Motors was active and fractionally higher.

An advance in prices by United States Steel's leading subsidiary was a surprise, for only the other day Carnegie had indicated there would be no change in its second quarter schedule. It was recalled that this company had led the move to stabilize quotations last December and Wall street assumed its example this time would be followed by other interests. The steel industry, operating at 57 per cent of capacity, according to the Iron Age estimate, is measuring up to earlier optimistic forecasts. Automobile demand is well maintained and the better inquiry for structural products is distinctly encouraging. Three blast furnaces were put back in service last week.

Power Production Gains.

The Pacific Coast accounted for much of the gain in power production for the second week in March. Although output was still 3.4 per cent below a year ago, that decline was the smallest for 1931 to date.

Bonds were irregularly higher. Because the increasing request for veterans' loans raised the question of further financing to meet the payments, United States Government issues sagged somewhat, although reports that the Treasury would probably finance next month through a $200,000,000 issue of short-term bills had a soothing effect on the group. Foreign bonds advanced again.

Bullish weather reports and a smaller estimate of European stocks gave the Chicago wheat market a firm tone and closing quotations averaged slightly higher. Corn gained about a cent, helped by weather conditions and predictions of smaller Argentine exports. Cotton was stronger all day, finishing up 55 to 90 cents a bale.

Weakness of the Spanish peseta was the outstanding development in foreign exchanges, which otherwise were dull. The German mark made a new high on a small advance.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, March 18 (A.P.).—Buyers developed backbone today after wheat had temporarily fallen below the season's bottom price record. Bracing effects were largely ascribed to better shipping demand for corn and to a bullish report concerning domestic stocks of wheat on farms and in country elevators. The Farmers' National Grain Co. announced that such stocks were 50 per cent lower than last year both in winter and spring wheat areas of Kansas, and in the spring wheat area of Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana and parts of Nebraska and Colorado.

Wheat closed firm ⅛ to ¾ cents higher, corn ⅝ to 1¼ advance, oats ⅛ to ⅝ up, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to a rise of 2 cents.

Wheat finished 1¾ at virtually the day's top level, whereas the bottom point was reached just at the start. Scantiness of cural offerings of corn attracted quick notices, and proved a barrier to wheat downturns which were associated with reported offerings of Gulf of Mexico shipments of No. 1 dark northern wheat abroad by United States Farm Board asencies at 15 cents under the price of Chicago May delivery. Another transient bearish factor was a statement from the Department of Agriculture suggesting that world prices of wheat would not rise sufficiently by next summer to permit liberal exports except at below current levels in United States markets.

Advancing trends in all grains were promoted by knowledge that corn shipping sales in Chicago were larger than on any day during the last month. Relative steadiness of wheat quotations at Liverpool were also helpful, and signs of improved transatlantic demand for Canadian shipments. Moist weather conditions were at times bearish on wheat, although bullish on corn.

Comment was heard that notwithstanding plentiful moisture in domestic winter wheat territory, the spring crop regions were going a long time without any appreciable precipitation, and that this might become a big factor later on.

Rain and snow over much of the corn belt checked selling pressure of corn and oats. Vessel charters were made for 145,000 bushels of oats from Chicago at the opening of lake navigation.

Increased offerings of lard weakened provisions, despite higher hog values.

DOMESTIC BONDS UP IN SPORADIC MOVES

Most Government Issues Slump as Hines Tells of Bonus Needs.

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—Led by foreign obligations the bond market was irregularly higher today.

Net gains ranging from 1 to 2 points were made by Argentine 6s of May 1960, Australian 4½s of 1956, Berlin City Electric 6s, Buenos Aires Province 6s, Cundinamarca 6½s, State of San Paulo 7s, Rio de Janeiro 6½s, and Minas Geraes 6½s of 1958.

Most bonds of the United States Government were lower as a result of the estimate of Gen. Hines of the Veterans' Bureau that veterans loans will require $1,000,000,000. A midday Washington dispatch said that the Treasury Department will issue probably within about three weeks $200,000,000 of 90-day Treasury bills to raise funds for part of the loans. The Liberty Fourth 4¼s and the Treasury 4¼s were the most active of the group.

Sporadic gains appeared in domestic issues but they were smaller than the advances among foreign bonds. Activity and higher prices in Missouri, Kansas & Texas prior lien 5s, Nickel Plate Series G 5½s, Norfolk & Western Pocahontas Division 4s and West Shore 4s featured the rails. About as many other rail liens closed lower. The unsettled condition of this group accompanied the sharply fluctuating market in rail stocks.

Lautaro Nitrate 6s touched a new 1931 high at 74½ and closed with a substantial gain. Other issues with stock privileges were not so certain in their action. Warner Brothers Pictures 6s and Loews 6s made good gains. Baltimore & Ohio 4½s of 1960, and Missouri Pacific 5½s of 1949 receded.

NEWMAN TO DIRECT $5,000,000 PROJECT

Permanent Officers Elected by Automatic Garage Firm at Meeting.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Permanent officers and directors of the Kent Automatic Garage & Washington Market Corporation, which expects to build a $5,000,000 garage and market in the block bounded by Tenth, Eleventh, H and I streets northwest were elected at a meeting held yesterday at the Ambassador Hotel, according to announcement by a representative of the corporation.

It stated that John W. Newman was elected president; R. T. Lipscombe, vice president; D. Knickerbocker Boyd, secretary, and Joseph C. Fusco, treasurer. Directors are given as John W. Newman, Charles H. Waleigh, W. T. Loetch, Joseph C. Fusco, Michael Walsh, of this city; R. T. Lipscombe, of Richmond, Va.; R. H. Anderson, of New York; D. K. Boyd, of Philadelphia.

The corporation, it was stated, has appointed C. Bascom Slemp and Louis Titus, local attorneys, as its general counsel, and the Claude A. Adler Advertising Agency, advertising counsel, to direct all advertising and publicity.

100 Bowling Alleys.

A statement from Mr. Adler's agency says that arrangements practically have been completed for the acquisition of the block which is the contemplated site of the project. Further details revealed relative to the proposed building indicate its market section will have 450 stalls and its recreational section 100 bowling alleys.

The announcement states further that "The favorable response of the Washington public to this project is evidenced by the large volume of applications that have been already received for space in the market, and inquiries from individuals, as well as the leading retail establishments, regarding arrangements for storage in the new garage."

"The market," it continued, "will meet a decided need in the community for the concentration, in a central and easily accessible location, of foodstuff dealers, and in combination with the garage, will make market shopping, as well as patronage of nearby stores, no longer a problem. It will relieve the parking congestion and serve its patrons in enabling them to leave their cars at one place while they shop or seek recreation in the amusement section of the city."

Atlantic & Pacific Sales.

February sales of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. were $82,384,806. This compares with $86,121,818 for the corresponding period of 1930, and is a decrease of $3,737,012, or 4.34 per cent.

The company points out that the decline in dollar sales reflects lower retail food prices, the volume of goods sold in February 1931, measured in tons, being 10.72 per cent greater than it was in the same month a year ago. And the average weekly tonnage for February of this year was the highest in the history of the company, the previous high figure being in December, 1930, and the next highest in January, 1931.

The spring "open meeting" of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, will be held on the evening of April 26 at the Wardman Park Hotel Theater. Frank M. Perley, president of the chapter, will present certificates to institute students successfully completing their first semester's work.

This will be followed by presentation of a play, "The Accusing Finger," by members of the Security Club, a social organization of employes of the American Security & Trust Co., and dancing in the hotel's main ballroom. The Security Club's play also will be presented at the same theater on the evening of April 25. The play will be followed by dancing. Admission to both affairs will be by card only.

Curb Review

New York, March 18 (A.P.).—The curb market worked persistently higher in quiet trading today, despite several mild selling waves.

Trading showed sharp shrinkage for the previous session, the days turnover aggregating 431,100 shares, or 134,300 less than yesterday's.

Utilities again rallied, although most of the activity was confined to the bond and share group. Electric Bond and Share sold up nearly 2 points, and closed up 1⅜, net. American and Foreign Power warrants, and Duke Power, sold up more than 2. American Superpower and United Light "A" were firm.

Some of the oils worked higher, although Gulf broke two points in response to its 1930 earnings report, showing a net of $2.35 a share, against $9.83 in 1929. Cities Service rose about a point, and Standard of Indiana was firm.

Numerous industrial specialties moved higher. Some of the aviation issues were apparently influenced by reports that the Army and Navy would spend $24,000,000 for flying equipment in the next few months. Detroit Aircraft and General Aviation moved up fractionally. Aviation Corporation of the Americas, a transport holding company, shot up 3 to a new top. Aluminum Co. and Mead Johnson also rose 3, and Anglo-Chilean and Deere gained about 2.

In the coppers, Horanda and Roan Antelope were firm, the former selling at the year's best price, but Newmont lost 1.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau Washington, Wednesday, March 18—8 p.m.

Forecast for the District of Columbia—Cloudy, followed by light rain Thursday: Friday fair; not much change in temperature; gentle to moderate easterly winds Thursday, becoming northwest Thursday night.

For Maryland—Rain or snow in west, and cloudy, followed by rain in east portion Thursday; Friday fair; not much change in temperature; moderate easterly winds Thursday, becoming northwest Thursday night.

For Virginia—Cloudy, followed by light rain Thursday; warmer in southeast portion Thursday; somewhat colder Thursday night; Friday fair; increasing southerly winds Thursday, becoming fresh northwest Thursday night.

The Atlantic disturbance continued to move northeastward with increasing intensity, being central tonight about 100 miles south of Sable Island. S. S. Exilona, 29.09 inches. It has been attended by snow and strong east or northeast winds within the last 24 hours in Maine and the Canadian Maritime Provinces. The disturbance that was over the Middle West Tuesday night is moving eastward with center tonight over Indiana, Indianapolis, 29.78 inches, and it has caused snow in the Lake region and eastern Minnesota and rain in the lower Ohio and middle Mississippi Valleys. The Pacific disturbance remains central over the Gulf of Alaska, Kodiak, 29.36 inches, but pressure is low and falling thence southeastward to Saskatchewan, and from there southward over the Rocky Mountain region, Calgary, Alberta, 29.48 inches. This disturbance has caused general rains west of the Rocky Mountains, except in Arizona and southern California. Pressure remains high from northern Alaska southeastward to Hudson Bay and thence southward to the middle Missouri Valley, Point Barrow, Alaska, 30.40 inches and Chesterfield Inlet, District of Keewatin, 30.36 inches, and is relatively high and rising over California and Oregon. Eureka, Calif., 30.14 inches. The temperature has risen slightly in the eastern and Southern States and it has fallen in Iowa and portions of the adjacent States.

The Indiana disturbance will move eastward and it will be attended by precipitation in the lower Lake region, the upper Ohio Valley, the Appalachian region and the Middle Atlantic States Thursday, and in the North Atlantic States Thursday afternoon or night. Otherwise generally fair weather will prevail Thursday and Friday in the Washington forecast district. Temperature changes will be unimportant.

Bids on 2 Incinerators Under Eye of Engineer

A schedule of bids on construction of the two proposed District incinerators is being studied by Maj. D. A. Davison, assistant engineer commissioner. The plants, when completed before the end of this year, will replace the obsolete incinerator adjacent to Mount Olivet Cemetery and will greatly facilitate the disposal of debris in the city.

Bids were submitted on each of the plants, the Georgetown and the O street, and on the combined job; hence various possibilities arise from the fact that the projects may be let either as one or two contracts. The Superior Incinerator Co. & L. E. Myers, of Dallas, Tex., is low bidder on the combined job with an estimate of $574,000. Morse Boulger Destructor Co., of New York, is second with $594,317, while the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel Co. of Pittsburgh, is third, with $650,800. Although there were eight other bids, these three the only ones within the $685,000 available.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

WRIT HALTS WORK ON ARLINGTON ROAD

Cherrydale Firemen's Show Will Be Staged Tonight and Rest of Week.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The signing of a temporary injunction by Circuit Judge Walter T. McCarthy, brought by Mrs. Virginia M. Van Every against the Virginia State Highway Department, yesterday stopped work on the clearing of the right of way through the property of Mrs. Van Every.

The injunction restrains and enjoins the State upon entering the land of the complainant to construct the road until and unless the State Highway Department will have condemned the land by due process of law or have otherwise lawfully acquired the right.

The papers were filed in the Circuit Court of Arlington County yesterday by Attorney Emery N. Hosmer.

Mrs. Van Every stated that two real estate operators came to her home in 1925, prior to the death of her husband, and talked about getting 8 acres of land and the right to rent houses. They cited, she said, how the building of the Lee boulevard would enhance the value of her property.

Upon the signing of the papers by Judge McCarthy, Sheriff Howard B. Fields immediately went to the scene of operations by the State and served the papers upon R. W. Patterson, superintendent of the State convict camp and road force. Work was stopped but some of the wagons were left on the property.

In addition to naming H. G. Shirley, chairman of the State highway commission, as defendant there also appears on the papers the names of Wade H. Massie, William H. East, I. Walker Truxtun, members of the commission; R. W. Patterson, superintendent of the convict road force, and Robert I. Mount, resident State highway engineer.

According to Attorney J. Hammond Brewer, for the State highway department, there is a signed agreement recorded between the late E. B. Vanevery and his wife agreeing to convey to the State the strip of land in question for a right of way for the boulevard.

The papers set April 20 on which the injunction will expire if not enlarged.

Cherrydale firemen announce the program for the eleventh annual show which opens in the firemen's hall tonight and will continue through Saturday night.

Leading roles will be taken by Reese O'Neil, A. Locke, Boynton Hahn and Wesley MacDonald. The chorus will include John Winters, W. S. Houser, Mickey Johnson, Walter Johnson, Howard Payne, Ernest Luzi, Edward Leigh, Frank Tucker, Vernon Williams, Carvey Shanks, William K. Kimball, Irving Cullen and Wilbur Torreyson, with Mrs. Herbert Marcey at the piano.

Proceeds will be applied to the maintenance fund of the department.

The Business and Professional Woman's Club of Arlington County will hold a special business meeting tonight at the home of Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs, Ballston.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ballston Fire Department will give a benefit supper tomorrow night in the firemen's hall from 5 to 8 o'clock.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Jefferson District Fire Department announce that tomorrow night from 5 to 8 o'clock they will serve a benefit oyster supper in the Firemen's Hall.

The Men's Club of St. George's Episcopal Church will hold its monthly meeting tonight in the Parish Hall at 8 o'clock. Tonight has been designated as "ladies' night."

Clifford Berryman, of Washington, a noted cartoonist, will be the principal speaker. He will give a talk illustrated by his drawings.

The ladies of the Virginia Avenue Christian Church in Lyon Park announce a benefit chicken dinner tonight at the church from 5 to 8 o'clock.

The proceeds will go to the church building fund.

Responding to an appeal from National Red Cross Headquarters for clothes for children in the drought area within the State, Mrs. Bertha Kelly, chairman of the Arlington County Chapter, announced last night the box containing clothes for children will be prepared for shipment tomorrow.

Mrs. Kelly calls upon all persons who may have clothes for children to notify her at once. This will be the fifth shipment that the local chapter has made, Mrs. Kelly states.

Five Jail Escapers Seized in Virginia

Four Still at Large After Fleeing Franklin County Prison Cells.

Special to The Washington Post.

Rocky Mount, Va., March 18.—Five of nine prisoners who escaped last night from the Franklin County Jail were behind the bars again tonight, being captured during the morning by deputy sheriffs, who found them near the Norfolk & Western Railway. Of the four still at large three are Negroes. All were awaiting trial.

The prisoners made a hole in a brick wall large enough for one man to squeeze through. The county took steps today to repair the damage and a special grand jury has been called to investigate the jail delivery. The jail was so overcrowded last night that the prisoners who escaped and were returned were allowed to sleep in a corridor.

Maryland Wife-Beater To Get Whipping Post

Baltimore, March 18 (A.P.).—Convicted of wife beating, John M. Kawalski, 40 years old, was sentenced today by Circuit Judge Eugene O'Dunne to suffer ten lashes at the whipping post.

The penalty, provided for the offense by a statute in 1882, was last imposed in Maryland two years ago.

Veteran's Relatives Sought.

Baltimore, Md., March 18 (A.P.).—Efforts to trace relatives of Robert Camp, World War veteran, who died last night, were made today by police at Roanoke, Va. Thomas Johnson, a friend, told police Camp had received a bonus loan last week. He died of a hemorrhage.

WOMAN'S INJUNCTION STOPS ROAD WORK

FIVE MONTGOMERY BILLS ARE OFFERED

Alta Vista and Cabin John Park Would Be Included in Sanitary District.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 18.—New bills introduced in the Senate today included five administration measures embodying local legislation for Montgomery County. They were presented by Senator Robert G. Hilton.

Most important of the proposed legislation is that to include Alta Vista and Cabin John Park in the Montgomery County Sanitary District. The bill is designed to amend the present law in several respects; and in addition to including the two sections named, boundary lines would be changed to exclude the portion to the north of the Fourth Commissioner District, and the measure designates the commissioner of the district as one of the suburban commissioners.

The other bills carry the following provisions:

Abolition of the county tuberculosis commission, empowering the county commissioners to condemn land, providing for greater efficiency in the office of county treasurer by the appointment of additional clerks, repealing the law providing for the appointment of an auditor by the circuit court, minor amendments to the laws regulating the Washington Metropolitan District.

A debate in the Senate on the proposal for a reregistration of voters in Allegany County over the protest of J. Glenn Beall, and passage by the House of the bill to permit Sunday sports in Washington County, featured today's session of the Assembly.

The bill to lift the ban on Sunday laws in Washington County by permitting baseball and other forms of athletic sport and recreation between the hours of 2 and 5 p. m. on Sundays, was approved in the House by a vote of 76 to 36.

New bills offered in the House included one by Delegate Benjamin, Baltimore City, affecting the marriage statutes, by providing for a 72-hour interval between issuance of marriage licenses and performance of the ceremony.

Speaker Michel of the House presented a joint resolution directing the governor to appoint a commission of fifteen members to cooperate in connection with plans for celebrating the 200th birthday anniversary of George Washington.

William and Mary Play Set March 27

Martin Jurow to Lead Cast in "Merchant of Venice."

Williamsburg, Va., March 18 (A.P.).—The William and Mary campus will see its annual Shakespearean play March 27 and 28, when the Players, under the direction of Miss Althea Hunt, present "The Merchant of Venice."

Heading the cast is Martin Jurow, of Brooklyn, who will play Shylock. Jurow is an old member of the William and Mary Players and is regarded as one of the campus' promising actors.

An elaborate combination of settings is being designed and painted by William Wellons, of Portsmouth. Wellons has done outstanding work of this character in previous productions. He is now engaged in doing the new back drop curtains to be used in five of the scenes. The costumes are being rented.

CONVICT WHO KILLED INMATE SENTENCED

Extra 25 Years Is Drawn by H. E. Fitzgerald, 27, in Virginia Slaying.

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., March 18.—Having served all but seven years of a sixteen-year sentence for murder, H. E. Fitzgerald, 27, last July 7 rammed an ice pick into the heart of E. L. Mason, fellow convict. Yesterday in Augusta County Circuit Court Fitzgerald entered a plea of guilty of murder and drew an additional 25 years.

When Fitzgerald was 17 he was sentenced in Buena Vista for killing a policeman, his term being sixteen years. Part of the time he has been at the State lime-grinding plant near here. Since his confinement here he escaped once, was recaptured and drew an additional year for that offense.

Last July, while Mason was ill on his cot, Fitzgerald is alleged to have accused Mason of having stolen some of his personal property. An exchange of words, during which Mason denied the allegation, was terminated when Fitzgerald grabbed and ice pick and ran it into Mason's heart. Mason died.

Wife Exonerated in Death Plot.

Media, Pa., March 18 (A.P.).—Mrs. Lillian Cole, 45, of Upper Darby, charged with plotting to kill her husband, was acquitted today by a jury of six men and six women after ten minutes' deliberation.

ZEPHANIAH MORGAN DIES AT AGE OF 75

Descendant of Noted Family in West Virginia to Be Buried Today.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., March 18.—Zephaniah Sylver Morgan, 75, native and lifelong resident of this county, and a direct descendant of the Morgan family whose names are woven into the pioneer history of this section, died at his home at Inwood, this county, late Tuesday. Death followed illness of a week. He was a cripple from childhood.

The Morgan line runs back to the first settlers in this entire area. Morgan Morgan 1st was a native of Wales and an ordained clergyman of the Church of England. He emigrated to this country in the reign of Queen Anne, eventually moving to the Shenandoah Valley and establishing a church at Winchester, Va., continuing as rector for many years.

Morgan Morgan 2d is credited with the building of the first cabin home in the State of West Virginia, then Virginia, built on Mill Creek, this county, in 1726.

From this line sprang one descendant who founded the town of Morgantown, W. Va., and another, Zackwell Morgan, became the famous Indian fighter and scout. The Morgan family has been in this county for six generations. The present Morgan Morgan 6th is a physician here, and has a son named Morgan Morgan.

Surviving Zephaniah S. Morgan are two brothers, William E. Morgan, of Phoebus, Va., and Wright Morgan, Swartzla, and the following children: Mrs. Harry G. Abrell, Mrs. Roy Miller, Alva Morgan, Mrs. James Myers, Mrs. Robert Miller, Lulu and Mildred Morgan, all of the county.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon.

Man Held on $1,000 Bond.

United States Commissioner Turnage yesterday ordered Charles Ray Hull, of Grafton, W. Va., held on $1,000 bond pending his removal to West Virginia to face statutory charges. Hull, a sailor, and another man are alleged to have taken two girls on an eight-month tour of many of the Eastern States.

SIGNS OF RETURNING PROSPERITY.

SOME of the better golf clubs are reporting a waiting list again.

People may not be saying "Fill her up," at the pumping stations just yet but they have ceased saying, "Oh, a gallon will be enough."

Restaurants report a renewal of more or less spirited battles to pay the check.

The women report a gradual improvement in the quality of bridge prizes. Nobody has won a Five & Ten Cent Store lampshade in weeks.

Penny ante poker games have declined 7.02 per cent in the last three months.

Many pedestrians now stop to look at the models in the automobile showroom windows.

Apple vendors are able to sell fruit without a high polish.

Street cleaners report that cigar butts aren't nearly as short as during 1930.

Occasionally you see an automobile spare tire rack with a spare tire attached.

Hosts are beginning to offer a third cocktail, and in some circles a fourth.

Butchers have ceased swooning when a customer asks for a porterhouse steak.

THERE has been a noticeable decline in the number of people shopping around before they buy razor blades.

More men are getting their hair cut regularly.

The study of checks, after the restaurant dinner, is becoming much less intensive and arguments with waiters over the charge for bread and butter have dropped 3 per cent since January 1.

Railroad and steamship porters report that the baggage is getting better and that fewer suitcases are held together with rope.

You may have noticed that the hostess with the electric piano has a new roll at last.

More people are saying "yes" unhesitatingly when the waitress asks "Any dessert?"

Sables are not drawing indignant looks from the other women in the theater.

They are beginning to sell fruit in fruit stores again.

You can drop a penny in a crowded street without causing a major panic.

People are saying, "Won't you stay to dinner?" as if they really meant it.

It is now a little safer to leave the children's bank around the house where the old man can see it.

A big service station has furnished an affidavit that an automobilist came in a few days ago and ordered the car greased and overhauled, without asking the price.

Sawing through two sets of supposedly unsawable bars, three colored men yesterday escaped from the Bladensburg Jail, the fourth break in six months. The men are Wilbert Burley, of Olive avenue, near Thirtieth street northwest; Arthur Davis, of I street northeast, near Twelfth street, and Andrew Richardson, of I street northwest, near Second street.

The men escaped just a few hours before they were to have faced Police Court Judge J. Chew Sheriff on a variety of charges. Burley was charged with transportation and possession, Davis with possession, and Richardson with speeding and transportation.

The trio was arrested Saturday night with a colored woman, Mary Davis, who was released on bond. After the recent breaks, the windows were covered with bars of superhardened steel in an attempt to keep the prisoners inside in the future. No jailer stays at the building. Apparently tools were brought to the imprisoned men by friends on the outside. Several others held in the jail failed to take advantage of their opportunity to escape.

Harvey Gilbert, of Kenyon street, near Sherman avenue northwest, was fined $200, with the alternative of six months in jail, yesterday in Prince Georges County Police Court in Hyattsville. He was also sentenced to pay $25 for exceeding 40 miles an hour and $10 for having no license, and was committed to jail in default of the fines.

Possession of one half gallon brought a fine of $50 to William F. Grady, who gave an address on North Capitol street, near U street. Transportation and possession of ten cases cost James R. Rodney, of Ninteenth street, near L street, $200. Orban Grigsby, of Suitland, was fined $200 for possession following a raid on his house by Officers Claude Reese, R. E. Brown and Howard Slater.

A fine of $150, with an alternative of six months in jail, was placed against Claude R. Clark, of Washington, on a charge of possession. He was also sentneced to pay a fine of $100 for exceeding 60 miles an hour.

C. Allen Rowens, of Hyattsville, forfeited $110 on charges of driving while drunk and reckless driving. John Henry Goodman, of De Sales street, near Connecticut avenue northwest, also forfeited $25 rather than stand trial on a charge of exceeding 40 miles an hour. Joseph H. Gabourel, of Hays street northeast, near Forty-fourth street, was fined $25 for reckless driving after being arrested by Albert Anderson, chief of police of Hyattsville.

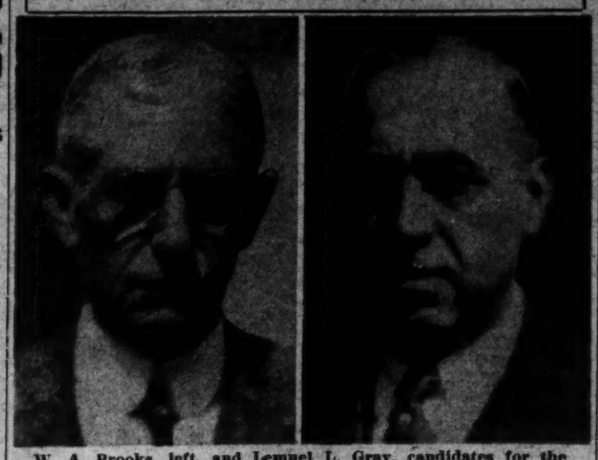
An unsuccessful attempt to break into the safe of the Sanitary Grocery Co.'s store in Riverdale was discovered when employes of the store went to work yesterday morning. Hammers, chisels and crowbars were called into play by the yeggmen, who are said by Lieut. Tom Garrison to have been amateurs.

Failing to open the safe, which is said to have contained $280, the robbers took 46 cents from the till and fled. They gained entrance to the place by breaking glass in a door and succeeding in knocking a knob off the door of the strong box. No finger prints were found, according to Lieut. Garrison.

The agent now on duty at the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Station at Riverdale will be removed if an application pending before the Maryland Public Service Commission is approved. The application filed by the railroad company asks that the change be authorized to take effect on April 20.

No date for a hearing on the application has been set by the commission. The change would also affect the station at Bucks Lodge, in Montgomery County, removing the station agent at this point also. The station agent at Hyattsville will look out for the Riverdale station if the change is approved.

CANDIDATES IN HYATTSVILLE



W. A. Brooks, left, and Lemuel L. Gray, candidates for the mayoralty of Hyattsville in the election to be held on May 4. Brooks was seven years in the town council and mayor for two terms during the war. Gray was foreman of the grand jury last fall and has just been appointed by the governor to the board of supervisors of elections.

2,000,000 AIR MILES U. S. PLANES' MARK

Bombardment Squadrons of Virginia Alone to Cover 168,000 in Flight.

Langley Field, Va., March 18 (A.P.). Bombardment squadrons from Virginia will fly approximately 168,000 miles participating in the Air Corps field exercises in May, according to estimates of the Third Army Corps Area headquarters.

From the day they leave hangars until the hour they return, the headquarters announcement said, the 672 Army Air Corps and National Guard planes, coming from widely separated parts of the Nation, will have flown a distance equal to more than four round trips between the earth and the moon, about 2,000,000 miles.

The exercises themselves begin at Dayton, Ohio, on May 17 and end in Washington May 30, and call for a plane mileage of almost 700,000 miles over airways that lead to Chicago, New York, Boston, Hartford, Springfield, Albany, Trenton, Atlantic City, Jersey City, Newark, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Pursuit planes from California, Texas and Michigan will travel 700,000 miles on their cross-country flights. Attack organizations from San Antonio and Galveston will cover about 150,000 miles. Bombardment squadrons from California, Texas and Virginia will fly about 168,000 miles. Observation and National Guard units from more than twelve States will cover territory to the extent of 425,000 miles.

Poisoning Veteran Charged to Pair

Charlottesville Couple Are Held in $5,000 Bond on Brother's Story.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 18.—Bail of $5,000 each was required by Justice Callan Brooks in Police Court today for James Thomas and Lottie Brookman, arrested yesterday and formally charged with an attempt to murder Edward Marshall, 39, a World War veteran, who was found suffering from a dose of poison in the Brookman's apartment Sunday night.

Police investigation revealed that last week Marshall cashed his bonus check for $500 dollars and started on a spree. In court today Thomas Marshall testified he had been to the woman's apartment and found his brother in a drunken stupor. In the place were Thomas and the woman. He left for 20 minutes and returning found his brother suffering from poison, he said. He said he took his brother to the hospital where doctors pumped his stomach and discovered evidence of poison. At today's hearing the Commonwealth laid stress upon the mysterious disappearance of the cash Marshall was supposed to have had on his person.

W. & J. Students Strike at Chapel

421 Men Walk Out When They Protest President's Continuing in Office.

Washington, Pa., March 18 (A.P.).—The student body of 421 men at Washington and Jefferson College walked out of the assembly on a "strike" today after 350 students had signed a petition protesting against continuance of Dr. Simon S. Baker, president of the institution.

The walkout occurred as Dr. Baker arose in chapel to make his announcements. Student leaders said the petition asking his removal would be submitted to the board of trustees of the college today. Thirty-five members of the faculty supported their action.

The petition charged Dr. Baker had an unsympathetic attitude toward the students.

HARRY THAW TO QUIT GENERAL FARMING

Broadway's Former Playboy Posts Bills to Auction Equipment March 24.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., March 18.—Harry K. Thaw, play boy of Broadway, is going to quit dirt farming in Virginia, he let it be known today by sale bill advertisement. The owner of Kenilworth Manor, one of the famous old colonial estates near here, which he purchased some years ago, has given practical farming a thorough trial and decided he just can not make it a go. So he has advertised a dispersal sale for March 24.

However, it is Thaw's intention to retain Kenilworth as a country home. Instead of the fields being plowed for grain crops, they will be planted to grass, clover and alfalfa and the crops sold. Efforts to get an opinion from Thaw on farm relief and farm problems in general were fruitless today, it being said at the manor house that the proprietor was not there.

The man of many escapades caused to be posted large bills announcing the list of live stock and articles to be sold at public auction on his premises. Pictures of horses and cows adorn the Thaw sale bill. He announced that on all sums of $10 and under cash will be required and that over such amount eight months' credit will be given, the purchaser to execute a negotiable interest-bearing note, but that no property shall be removed until terms of sale are complied with.

Property to be disposed of includes two good horses, which Thaw said will work anywhere hitched, adding that they were good barshear leaders. Five Jersey cows, one fresh and one a close springer, and all giving a good flow of milk; five Jersey heifers, and a Jersey bull, all tuberculin tested, are to go on the auction block. As to swine, there is a pure-bred Berkshire sow, which will farrow in April; a Duroc sow and ten shoats weighing from 75 to 100 pounds.

Farming implements include a binder, three wagons, single and double shovel plows, harrow, drill, tractor outfit complete, two sets of tug harness, collar, bridles, halters, and "other things too numerous to mention." He will also sell a high-powered automobile in good shape, a motor truck, cream separator and some feed.

Virginia Counties Fight Annexation of Land

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., March 18.—A contest is to be made by Prince George and Dinwiddie Counties against the City of Petersburg taking part of their land for annexation purposes. R. Bolling Willcox, city attorney, will represent Petersburg, assisted by Samuel W. Zimmer, former mayor.

J. J. Temple, Commonwealth's attorney of Prince George, assisted by R. H. Mann, will represent this county.

Stove Thief Delays Dinner.

Dinner was probably delayed at the home of Mrs. Sarah Beckley, of Seventeenth street near Q street northwest yesterday. She reported to police that burglars broke into her home and stole a kitchen range.
